Seek to Repeal Excise Tax On New Autos

WASHINGTON (AP) — The automobile industry plans to seek outright repeal of the 10 per cent excise tax on new passenger cars in the proposed midyear reduction of consumer excise levies, it was learned today.

Industry leaders are studying the organization of a concerted effort, possibly including the formation of an industrywide committee with headquarters in Washington, to back legislation along the general lines of the bill submitted about a month ago by Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich.

The industry's major concern is that the reduction be made retroactive to the date of the beginning of congressional consideration, to forestall the possibility of an automobile buyers' strike while the measure is pending.

Full repeal of the excise would mean an average saving of around $225 per new car. In testimony to the House Ways and Means Committee last summer, industry leaders pledged that the full amount would be passed on to the public.

Call for Bids On Vocational Building Work

A legal notice is being published today by the Board of Education for Scott County School District R-6 of Sikeston calling for sealed bids for the mechanical and electrical work for a vocational building complex at the senior high school in Sikeston.

Bids will be received until 4 p.m., Monday, March 22 at the office of the superintendent of schools.

Plans and specifications for the work may be inspected at the offices of Buckmueller-Whitworth and Associates, architects and engineers, 412 Tanner street, Sikeston.

Art League Success

MISS JEAN LOVE explains art sketching to a class of 75 local art lovers, in a meeting Wednesday evening, preparatory to the Art Show to be held at the Holiday Inn on May 1 and 2.

Classes presented by the Sikeston Art League are meeting with tremendous success. The sketching class presented by Miss Jean Love out-grew the High School art room when more than seventy Sikeston and area residents arrived to receive instruction.

The cafetorium was pressed into service to accommodate the large attendance. The art show during the Festival of the Arts last spring was representative of more than sixty Sikeston area artists, exhibiting over two hundred examples of considerable talent. Several thousand visited the show, many returned several times. This amazing response of area residents to art led to forming the Art League whose purpose is to give any interested person the opportunity to develop his artistic talent and to bring shows of even greater quality, both professional and amateur to this area.

A seminar was planned by Miss Harriett Jones, Miss Jean Love and Miss Emily Brennecke, all Sikeston art teachers, who are giving freely of their time, energy and knowledge. The school system realizing a need for such instruction generously provided the place. Wednesday evening completed Miss Love's sketching course and Miss Brennecke will begin a water color class Wednesday, March 17 in the Senior High School art room. These will be followed by Richard Smith presenting "Art Appreciation."

Many of the participants of the classes are preparing work to be exhibited in the art show at the Holiday Inn, May 1 and 2. Kathy Thomas and Bernadine Seyers who served as artists models for the sketch class are Freshman High School art students of Miss Love. They are both talented girls who are working on projects to be entered in the show this year.

Lilbourn To Join State Program

LILBOURN — An open meeting for all persons interested in participating in the local Missouri Community Betterment program will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 18, in the Lilbourn City Hall, according to an announcement made today by Jim Baughman, chairman of the city's steering committee.

Baughman urged that everyone in the Lilbourn community who is interested in seeing advances made be present at the meeting. He said that as many as eighteen committees could be formed if enough people show interest in the program.

He said, "This will be the chance for many good, interested citizens to take an active part in Lilbourn's improvement program. From now on we can say 'We' instead of 'They' ought to do something."

Under the MCB program, communities may vie for five-star recognition.

Lilbourn has already been awarded a star for education and local leaders feel sure that recent approval by the State Health Department of the city's water supply will earn the city its second. Other areas in which stars may be earned are transportation, community planning, and community services.

Arrest Thirteen

James Hardin, 704 E. Gladys, charged on two counts, of not having a city auto license, was given summons to appear in court.

J. E. Stevenson, N. West street, charged with not having a city auto license, was given summons.

Robert Hale, 907 Allen blvd., charged on two counts, excessive speed, and not having a city auto license.

Lilbourn to Have City and School Board Election

LILBOURN — City and school board elections have been set for April 6 here and two candidates for posts have already announced their intentions to run.

Oren Ross of Lilbourn Route and Joe Haubold of Marston have filed for re-election to the R-IV District school board. Both have served the district in that capacity for several years.

In the city election, voters will vote for the Police Judge and for one Alderman from each of the city's two wards. Thus far, no candidates for these offices have filed.

Voters in the school election will also ballot on a tax rate of 90 cents on the one hundred dollars of assessed valuation for general school purposes. This is the same levy which was approved last year.

Polling places in the city election will be at the City Hall for residents of Ward One and the high school's old gymnasium for Ward Two. School election balloting will be conducted at the Marston gymnasium, David Barton Gin Company office in Catron, and the old gymnasium in Lilbourn.

ART CLASS MODELS Miss Kathy Thomas, standing, and Miss Bernadine Seyer, sitting, while local artists try their skill at sketching. The class was held in the Senior High cafetorium Wednesday night.

Newsman Shot

ST. LOUIS AP - A newsman at a St. Louis television station KTVI was shot through the ear Thursday night when he came into the home of a relative who was apparently out of town.

Police said McGee apparently found burglars in the home of Victor Stenberg in a fashionable section of Southwest St. Louis. He struggled with one of them and was shot with a .25 caliber revolver.

The intruders escaped in McGee's auto, which was found a short time later several blocks away.

Wife Visits Husband In Jail, is Arrested

MARSHALL, Mo. AP - Mrs. John W. Sears, 18, came to visit her 21-year-old husband in Saline County jail Thursday and was jailed herself because of the present she brought.

The gift was a .22 caliber pistol, a box of shells and detailed instructions on when to pull a jail break and where to meet her afterward.

A tip from a service station operator, who missed his pistol after seeing Mrs. Sears at his station, caused the woman to be searched. Prosecuting Attorney Allen S. Parish said charges will be filed against her.

Sears is being held for authorities in Sedalia, where he has been charged with rape.

Sikeston Elk Lodge #2319 Will Be Instituted Sunday

Coyote And Fox Killed By Club

NEW MADRID: -- The March meeting of the Sportsmans Club was held at the Community Building last Tuesday, when fried chicken was served to 45 members, after which a short business meeting was held and the club elected to organize a hunt for wolves or coyotes, which had been reported in an area southeast of Marston.

After the meeting two movies were shown to the members, one was furnished by agent Bob Henrickson of the Conservation Commission and explained wildlife habitat and the other was of club members catching coon alive at the Mingo Wildlife Area at Puxico.

The next regular meeting will be held at Portageville.

The club organized and participated in the wolf hunt Southeast of Marston Sunday, March 7. Dogs were furnished by Dr. E. G. Bailey Sr., of Dexter. Dr. Bailey brought 21 dogs with him and said he left 15 to 20 more at home.

Four hounds were released just before daylight and about twenty minutes later had the first coyote running. The

Charleston and East Prairie In School Boundary Dispute

CHARLESTON—Members of the R-1 Charleston Board of Education met Monday night at the Anniston School gymnasium with a group of R-1 district residents who were signers of a petition calling for a change of boundary between the R-1 and R-2 school districts.

Purpose of the meeting, according to Assistant Superintendent W. R. Pierce Jr., was to explain what the proposed change of boundary would mean to the remaining residents of R-1 if it should pass.

The proposal is to be voted on at the annual school election on April 6.

Voters in R-1 and R-2 will vote separately on the issue of taking the 33 square miles from R-1 and assigning it to R-2. If the proposal carries in both districts, the change is effective immediately. If it fails in one of the districts, the district in which the proposal was favored may request a three-man board of arbitration to determine the final results. In this case the board of arbitration would include the president of the county board of education, the president of the New Madrid County board of education, and a third, disinterested party from outside the county.

There is no appeal from the decision of the arbitration board, and the board is not empowered to "bargain" with the territory. It must assign the entire area in question to one or the other district.

All signers of the petition were invited to attend Monday night's meeting, but only about 20 were present.

In explaining why the R-1 board was opposed to the boundary change as proposed, Pierce said the area involved was 33 square miles, or 7.8 per cent of the R-1 assessed

Alderman Meeting Sets Up Election

NEW MADRID: Among the principal matters of business taken up by the board of aldermen in the March meeting Thursday night was the calling of the annual city election and the appointment of judges therefor, but there were several other items taken care of besides the handling of routine business.

Terms of three aldermen - one in each ward - will expire in April and it is for the filling of those positions that the election will be held.

ELIZABETH SAVES A FORT

In 1782, Wheeling, W. Va., was comprised of fewer than 30 log cabins. Nearby was Fort Henry, the main defense for the rustic village.

That same year, a white renegade named Simon Girty led a small army of Indians. Girty had one thing in mind during those times when the United Colonies were battling the British. Girty wanted loot. As a result, West Virginia was fighting the Red Coats and Girty's red men at the same time.

One day, a small band of men was sent out of the fort to investigate a large cloud of smoke on the horizon -- a likely sign that Girty and his men were approaching. Like the other frontier women in the fort, Elizabeth Zane shuddered at the thought of the possibility of more fighting.

The men in the reconnoitering party from the fort never returned. Girty's Indians ambushed and killed them. Soon after, Girty's entire band attacked the fort.

The Indians formed a firing line outside Fort Henry and poured on incessant fire at the 20 riflemen inside. The battle lasted for six hours.

To their horror, the fort defenders then found they would soon be out of gun powder. All of the men volunteered to try to get powder at the cabin of Col. Ebenezer Zane, the founder of what is now known as Wheeling.

Zane's sister, Elizabeth, stepped forward to volunteer. The men laughed, if somewhat nervously, until Betty's logic sunk home: Surely the Indians would kill any man who left the fort, but being strange creatures, the Indians might not be so drastic if a woman tried it. Besides, she said, her plan would fool the savages.

All agreed to the plan, though it seemed an extremely foolish idea.

Elizabeth's strategy was simple, and it worked. She merely strolled out of the fort. She didn't run or scamper. She walked. The Indians were dumbfounded by the sight. By the time they realized what might be happening, Elizabeth was out of sight.

At her brother's house, she explained the situation at the fort. Colonel Zane opened a keg of powder, poured it into a tablecloth, and fashioned a rather high-explosive bundle for his sister to carry.

This time, Elizabeth ran. Her cargo was a bulky one that aroused suspicion at once. She fled across a small hill, then down it to the fort. Bullets spat up dirt all around her.

At last young Elizabeth staggered into the fort with the gunpowder.

The men loaded their weapons and fired back. The sudden increase of fire discouraged the Indians and they fell back. The fort was saved.

Candelight is probably the oldest form of illumination still in vogue. The first candles were made from wood, rushes, or grass cord dipped in fat or pitch. Tallow, beeswax, and vegetable wax, such as bayberry, were supplemented by spermaceti, stearine and paraffin. The first twisted strands, used for centuries, were finally replaced by plaited wicks as recently as 1825. Candles were made by dipping into melted tallow or by pouring into molds, which was the method used in Colonial times. Modern candles are machine made in much the same manner.

A READER'S IDEA OF A GOOD NEWSPAPER?

1. My name.
2. A front page story showing how crooked the city government is most of the time.
3. My wife's name.
4. A feature story showing 25 ways on how to cheat on income tax forms.
5. My kids' names.
6. Local news item about the affair my neighbor is having.
7. A classified ad offering a new home for $4,000.
8. More news about lawbreakers.
9. Less news about lawbreakers. (I was picked up last night and I should not have to pay a fine, nor be publicized.)
10. An editorial condemning high school teachers for being too liberal with "Fs."
11. A wedding picture of the groom instead of the bride when he is more handsome than she is pretty.
12. A sports picture of me when I bowled 163.
14. More advertisements on things that merchants are giving away.
15. Less stuff about how cute everybody else's kids are. My kids are better looking than they are.
16. A complete biographical sketch about the "most important citizen in town," and spell my name right.

(Editor's note: The Standard's loyal readers are the salt of the earth and the above list doesn't apply to any of them. Well, maybe just one or two or so.)

"Two weeks ago I retired after 30 years as a traffic cop, and now I want to clear my conscience. Last summer I bawled you out for going through a red light, and it has been troubling me ever since. The truth is that I am color blind, but hated to admit you were right when you insisted the light had turned green. I hope you will accept this abject apology and forgive me."

"You have been a swell brother-in-law to me, Jack, in the 15 years I've been looking for work since getting out of college, but I won't be needing any more handouts from you. I've got a steady job as staff beatnik for a new coffee house tourist trap down in Greenwich Village. The pay is small and the hours long, but all I really have to do is sit around in old clothes, look picturesque, and let my beard grow. That means I won't even have to borrow your razor anymore."

"What do you mean you're sorry you made such a fool of yourself at my party, Joe? You were the big hit of the evening, Pal. One of the other guests was a television talent scout, and he said that dance you did with the throw rug and the two lampshades was the funniest thing he's seen all season. He says he can guarantee you $7,000 for doing the same routine on Ed Sullivan's show any Sunday evening you're free — and you won't even have to pay him an agent's commission."

"You don't remember me, young man, but I am the little old lady you helped across an icy street one cold spring night 20 years ago. I can still remember how blue your knees looked in your little Boy Scout suit. Since my pet parrot died last week leaving me all alone in the world, I have decided to revise my will and repay your good deed of long ago by—"

"Frankly, young lady, we think your idea that the Beatles add a teen-age girl as a vocalist to their group you'd be ideal for the job yourself. If you wouldn't mind taking a week's singing lessons, and a starting salary of 100 quid, plus recording royalties, of course, please advise us."

"As a practicing psychiatrist for two decades, it seems to me that you are the most normal, best-balanced human being I have encountered in my entire career. After replaying the tapes of our last two couch sessions, I have reached the conclusion that if any member of your family stands in the need of mental help, it is your mother-in-law — not you. It's never pleasant to see pictures of Uncle Sam being burned in effigy. When the pictures come from an old and valued friend of this country--the Philippines -- it is distinctly upsetting.

Filipinos burned Uncle Sam in front of the gates of the U. S. embassy in Manila in reaction to the shooting of trespassers on American military bases.

This and other anti-American demonstrations have protested not only the shootings -- and deaths--but the fact that the United States exercises jurisdiction in cases involving base security and where the Americans involved are on official duty. In some cases, the United States claims jurisdiction over its own nationals, on or off U. S. bases.

The Philippines have had a special and close relationship with the United States throughout this century. While we never considered them as a colony, we looked on ourselves as, if not their mother country, at least their benevolent stepfather.

Maybe some clinging vestiges of that attitude are part of the present friction between what ought to be two equals.

The theatrical agent, trying to sell a new strip act to a night-club manager, was raving about the girl's unbelievable 72-26-40 figure. "What kind of a dance does she do?" the manager asked, duly impressed by the description of the girl's dimensions.

THOUGHT STIMULANT

The wife was always antagonized by her husband's going out at night. His departing words, which especially angered her, were always, "Good night, mother of three."

But one night she could stand it no longer. When he took his hat, started out the door and called cheerily, "Good night, mother of three," she answered, quite cheerfully, "Good night, father of one."

DON'T DISCOUNT GRANDPA
WHEN IT COMES TO WORK

It may be too early for unemployed senior citizens to start dancing in the streets, but age prejudice in the employment office is becoming less and less prevalent.

Eight years ago an article in the Catholic Digest--widely circulated and reprinted--told of the efforts of the country's Forty Plus Clubs to fight age discrimination in business and industry.

More and more companies, the Catholic Digest finds, are learning that it doesn't pay to set up age barriers.

Among them:

Results: higher productiveness, less absenteeism, more interest in the job.

Any idea that may help children learn more, learn it faster and like it is worth looking into in this day of "exploding knowledge."

Back in 1959, three major universities--Columbia University Teachers College, Boston University and the University of Illinois--tested what effect typewriters might have on the educational achievement of elementary school students.

With a grant from a typewriter manufacturing firm (Royal), which provided manual portable machines, studies were conducted with 900 fourth and fifth grade pupils in 36 classrooms in seven cities. The results showed that the kids took to the typewriters eagerly that the quality and quantity of their work improved and that their reading, spelling and vocabulary achievement was greater than that of pupils without typewriters.

A recent follow-up study of some of the children who were matched with a control group of nontyping children indicates that this generally superior achievement has been maintained over the past five years.

One surprising bonus that may allay the fears of traditionalists: Handwriting of the students actually improved because of the typing experiment.

Collecting rare violins was one of the late Henry Ford's hobbies, and he often loaned instruments from his valuable collection indiscriminately. The auto maker once loaned a $35,000 Amati violin to a railroad hand for a month. When Mr. Ford went to reclaim it, the rail worker -- unaware of the instrument's value -- offered him $75 for it.

FACING FREEDOM

So many Americans, unaware or unwilling to be aware of the present threat to their freedom, say, "What are we in danger of losing?" That is a question based on negative thinking. Suppose we ask, instead, "What are we gaining? Where is the free world advancing?"

The answer has to be, "We are not gaining anything. The enemy is gaining."

His gains are evident in the world at large. They are taking place, too, in the United States.

The communist threat to freedom cannot be evaluated solely or even primarily in terms of the numbers of avowed members of the anti-freedom conspiracy. It is altogether foolish to accept the theory that there is nothing to fear from communism in America because there are comparatively few members of the Communist Party, U. S. A.

The communists boast that for every official party member in the U. S. there are at least ten fellow-travelers, sympathetic non-members, and dupes. Also they can depend on some of the most powerful people in public life to decry anti-communism. The peril cannot be measured simply by arithmetic.

Even today in Soviet Russia only three per cent of the population are communists. Only 33 million or so communists in a world-wide network control approximately one billion people.

We are not gaining; the enemy is gaining. We can be saved only by Americans as dedicated to freedom as the communists are dedicated to their false ideology.

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Those who watch President Johnson's conduct of American foreign policy, close-up, note an interesting difference between his tactics and those of his immediate predecessors.

Johnson has been less mercurial than either Kennedy, Eisenhower, or Truman. But, once he makes a foreign policy decision, he really gives it the old college try. There is nothing complacent about his policies, as with Ike; nothing philosophical, as with Kennedy.

Johnson gets in with all the persuasive push that his restless personality can muster. He reads the cables, is up day and night, on the phone to his Secretaries of State and Defense, and especially is he out to get the backing of Congress.

During the current Vietnamese crisis, the President has been on the phone frequently to Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., to thank him for Republican support; on the phone to certain columnists to suggest they write in praise of Dirksen; and when Senators Frank Church, Idaho, and George McGovern, South Dakota, both Democrats, were critical of Johnson's policy, he had Vice President Humphrey, who is close to both, give them the old fraternity sales talk.

—CONSULTING CONGRESS—

He has also held patient, painstaking briefings for members of Congress. At one of these he began:

"Bob Taft told me at the start of the Korean War: 'I wouldn't have objected to President Truman's sending troops into Korea. If I had been President I would have done the same thing. But I did object to his sending troops without consulting Congress.'

"I don't want to have another Bob Taft," the President added to the Congressmen, "so I'm consulting Congress. I had the leaders in to see me before we started operations in North Viet Nam, and now I'm consulting you.

At another briefing, this time confined to Senators, he began: "There was once a Senator who thought he knew more about war and peace than the President and who predicted peace just before world war."

Johnson didn't name the Senator, but everyone figured it was the late Sen. William E. Borah, Idaho Republican, and that the President was taking an indirect slap at Sen. Frank Church, also of Idaho, who has criticized the Vietnamese policy.

After the briefing, Johnson and Church had a private talk, standing to one side against the wall. The President was very cordial, did only about half the talking.

Other Senators waited for them to finish, then said good night. Remarked Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn.: "If Church had just surrendered we could have gone home thirty minutes ago."

—REPUBLICANS WILL TURN—

At a subsequent briefing, the President had a friendly talk with another Democratic critic, Sen. McGovern. One of the points McGovern made was: "The Republicans may be for you now, but the minute things in Viet Nam go sour, they'll turn against you."

McGovern had in mind a private meeting of Eisenhower strategists on the sixth floor of New York's Commodore Hotel in the fall of 1952, at which time the polls showed Ike was not pulling the women's or the young people's vote. Republican strategists were worried.

A special study had been ordered to find out how those votes could be weaned away from the Democrats. It showed that among women and young people the Korean War was highly unpopular.

As a result, it was decided that Eisenhower would charge the Democrats with responsibility for the Korean War. "Bring The Boys Home" was proposed as the GOP slogan. The issue, it was agreed, should be handled on two levels. At the highest level Ike would announce that he would go to Korea to see if the war might be ended. At the lower level there was to be a broadside attack on the Democrats for getting the United States into war.

Literature was proposed showing how Woodrow Wilson, a Democrat, got the nation into World War I; Roosevelt, another Democrat, into World War II; and Harry Truman, a Democrat, started the Korean War.

Present at the meeting were Herbert Brownell, later Attorney General; Henry Luce, publisher of Time, Life, and Fortune; De Witt Wallace, publisher of Reader's Digets; and five or six other strategists.

Following this conference, Life Magazine came out with ghastly pictures of American wounded and dead, GOP orators in the Midwest used papier-mache coffins on the stage labeled "Korean War Dead" or at times "Democratic War Dead"; and the Democrats were labeled the "War Party."

After the election, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, stunned by the mass defections from labor ranks, paid for a careful poll to ascertain the reason for labor defections. The poll showed that women and young people had deserted the Democrats on the issue of the Korean War.

Republicans, remember all this, figure that they can bring up Viet Nam in the 1966 Congressional election and again in 1968. If Johnson pulls out of Viet Nam they can charge him with appeasement. If he doesn't they claim he is the fourth Democratic President to get the United States into war.

Strikeless Germany, Peacefully Automating, So Prosperous It Now Imports a Million Workers, Including Americans

Washington, D. C.: -- In a few days two experts will fly to the little town of Oberhausen (the Ruhr), Germany in search of answers to what has been mystifying many of America's leaders.

Among the answers sought will be why does the U. S. get hit by a series of trip-hammer strikes over automation on the rail, waterfront, newspapers, and mass factories - but booming Germany does not?

Why are there over four million jobless in the U. S. -- and not any unemployment whatsoever in Germany. Repeat: none whatsoever.

Everybody is working in the Federal Republic of Germany. In fact there is wild competition for workers. Firms dispatch their airplanes to Portugal, Greece and Turkey to recruit factory hands. Workers come from all over the world -- including 4,500 from the U. S.

So great are the opportunities in West Germany that, for the first time, U. S. citizens are going east, not west in search of a living. Daily there flows into the office of Herman Bremer, labor attache in the German embassy here, letters from Americans seeking jobs in his country.

These American workers are referred to the Central Bureau for Labor Placement in Frankfurt. And the U. S. citizens migrate -- not to "the old country" but to what to them is a new country where jobs and more jobs are always available.

Why this prosperity there? Why no pockets of poverty such as we have in Appalachia?

Why on Sept. 30, 1964, were there 985,616 foreign workers in Germany? Why were they being made welcome across open borders while we were closing ours to willing and honorable Mexican workers?

A search for answers is leading the two-man mission, Theodore W. Kheel, counselor and ace mediator who dynamically helped to settle the last, long New York newspaper strike, and Elmer Walker, the big machinists union secretary-treasurer to Oberhausen.

There, the world's biggest union will be running an automation conference later this month.

Kheel and Walker have been named by industrialist John I. Snyder, one of the leaders of the American Foundation on Automation, to sit in with the 200 scientists and 300 labor leaders invited to the Ruhr by the sponsoring Metal Workers' Industrial Union (I. G. Metall).

This organization, almost unknown to the public outside Germany, has over 1,900,000 members. They work on everything involving metal -- ships, autos, steel, electronics, wires, etc.

This union is at the core of the industrial complex which has skyrocketed the German economy. In the past I. G. Metall and the nation's 15 other country-wide unions have applauded automation. They have not fought it. There have been no strikes over the electronic brain.

Is it this attitude which has put Germany in such a prosperous condition that it cannot find manpower within its borders? Is this responsible for German firms flying big aircraft into foreign countries to woo workers and bring them back, and build barracks, and set up special kitchens for cooking of native foods?

So ardently wooed are some of these workers, they are even flown back to their home countries for special visits. During the recent Christmas season one firm put a small armada into the air to fly Greek workers back to Greece for their holidays.

This manpower crisis is so tight, firms such as General Motors no longer can build inside Germany. They are going to the Lowlands. But even there the businessmen compete with the Germans' recruiting drives in Spain, Portugal, Turkey, Greece, Italy and even northern Africa.

There is no unemployment. So Kheel and Walker will try to determine why all youths in Europe can find jobs and why there is 15 per cent youth joblessness in the U. S.

Why are all unskilled workers absorbed in the Western democracies, but not in the U. S.?

How do the businessmen who need automation desperately and the union chiefs who seek job security for their members, live peacefully and prosperously together?

Is it a sign of the times that Germany and Sweden and the Lowlands are strike-free while the U. S. is ripped by civil war on the industrial front?

Mrs. Barnett Honored With Bridal Shower

Mrs. David E. Barnett was honored with a bridal shower and tea March 6 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. with Misses Linda Jarvis and Elaine Dockins as hostesses at the Jarvis home, 18 Green Meadows. They were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Jarvis and Mrs. Dockins.

As the guests arrived, they placed the gifts on a table covered with a white lace trimmed cloth. Linda and Elaine assisted the honoree in opening the many gifts.

The serving table was beautifully decorated with a white Italian cut-work cloth. It was centered with an arrangement of pink roses and grapes. Candelabra appointed either side of the table. Pink tapers adorned the candelabra. The guests were served assorted cakes, nuts and mints from silver compotes. Punch was served from a crystal punch bowl and spiced tea from a silver tea service by the hostesses.

Sikeston Art League To Have Art Show

The Sikeston Art League will present a second annual art show May 1 and 2, as a part of the Festival of the Arts, at the Sikeston Holiday Inn. Due to considerable inquiry from artists outside the Sikeston area, this year entries will be accepted from any individual, high school age or over, who is a resident of Southeast Missouri.

Art work exhibited must be original. Drawings and paintings of pen and ink, charcoal, pastels, water colors and oils and scultpure of wire, wood and other appropriate, durable materials will be accepted. All drawings and paintings must be appropriately framed and prepared for hanging. The number of entries by an individual will be limited to three, except by special invitation. Only work which has been completed within the last five years will be exhibited. Work entered this year should not have been exhibited previously in Sikeston.

Entries must be in by April 23 to Mrs. Carl G. Popp, 916 Allen Blvd., Sikeston, accompanied by an appropriate card. All articles will be carefully labeled to ensure against loss and every precaution will be taken to see that each is safe from damage, however, the Art League assumes no responsibility for loss, damage or breakage to any work exhibited.

Three prizes will be awarded; judges first choice, $50.00; judges second choice, $35.00; judges third choice, $15.00; and a number of honorable mention ribbons will also be awarded.

The Art League wishes to remind all artist who are interested in exhibiting in this years show to start early, now, selecting and preparing articles to be exhibited.

Twelve Attend W.S.C.S. Meet

MOREHOUSE -- The Women's Society of Christian Service met Monday afternoon, March 8th in the Fellowship Room of the Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist Church in Morehouse for their business meeting, with twelve members present.

The meeting opened by singing hymn, "Beneath The Cross Of Jesus" with Mrs. James Estep at the piano. Mrs. Leslie Frazier was the leader of Devotion. Her scripture reading was from Psalms 24, followed by a Meditation taken from the Upper Room entitled, "Whatever You Are Doing, Do It As In The Presence Of God." She also presented an article on the meaning of Lent and closed with prayer.

A business meeting, under the direction of President Mrs. Nelson Gruen, was opened with the corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Dillon, calling the Roll Call. Each member present answered with a scripture verse. Minutes from the previous meeting was read and approved. 83 Sick Calls and 46 Get Well Cards were sent for the months of January and February. A letter was read by Mrs. Charles Allbright, which had been sent to Mrs. Leslie Frazier from Mrs. Elizabeth Overby, a Methodist Missionary in India. Old and new business was called for. The meeting adjourned with prayer by Mrs. Fred McWilliams. Those present other than those previously mentioned were Mrs. Wendell Fox, Mrs. Dessie Shepherd, Mrs. Frank Kesler, Mrs. Veda Cook, Mrs. Gladys Crumpecker and Mrs. A. W. Summers.

A panel, entitled "In Our Forests Are Many Mansions" was led by Mrs. Thatcher Scism. The views were presented by Mrs. A. L. Waller, Mrs. William Proffer, Mrs. R. L. Guthrie, Mrs. Harold Lewis and Mrs. W. C. Winstead.

ANN LANDERS
Answers your problems

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a 23-year-old homosexual who was classified 4-F. He wanted to know what to tell friends and relatives who kept pestering him with questions about why he was not in the army. You told the young man not to feel under any obligation to give details to anyone--including his mother.

Do you realize what you did to every 23-year-old male on the West Coast who is not in the army because he has back trouble, a trick knee or a heart murmur?

The day that letter appeared in print five people asked me if I had read Ann Landers' column. Then they looked at me funny. It so happens that I am 23 years old and that I live on the West Coast. I am also a 4-F --for reasons which I will not go into here. Sometimes I think you cause more trouble than you do good. Why don't you retire and check into an old folk's home? -- 4- F and Normal.

Dear Norm: I'm a little under age for the old folk's home and I like my work too much to retire, but I'm sorry I made trouble for you.

Every day, someone, somewhere gets mad at me because a letter that appeared in the column is uncomfortably similar to his problem.

When this occurs, denials are useless. Remember -- he who excuses himself accuses himself.

Dear Ann Landers: Eighteen months ago I became engaged to Rex. We were both 21 and had gone together two years. Ten days after my parents announced our engagement at a lovely party, Rex told me the horrible news.

He had gotten an 18-year-old girl in trouble and would have to marry her. I never heard the girls' name before that night and here he had been seeing her on the sneak for over a year.

I was a college junior and had to drop out for the remainder of the semester because I was too ill to get out of bed. It took months of therapy before I was able to leave the house and face my friends. I'm proud to say I made a good adjustment and am now dating and having a good time.

Last night Rex called and begged me to meet him at a cafe. He sounded very upset so I agreed. He tells me he hates his wife and he's not sure the baby is his. He wants to get a divorce and marry me. He says life isn't worth living and he'll commit suicide if I don't take him back.

I loved him once but now I'm confused and afraid to become involved. Please help me.--ANNAMARIE

Dear A: This character is poison. He is also married and a father. Tell him to stay away from you and to work out his problems as best he can. You owe him nothing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 14 years old (a boy) with a problem that none of my friends seem to have.

My Dad is always asking me to call up certain business people on the telephone. I'm supposed to look up the number, get the party on the line then call him. Sometimes I feel like a jerk because I can't think of anything to say.

Last night I told my Dad I didn't want to make the calls any more and he said, "I don't care whether you want to or not. I do plenty of things I don't want to do. This won't kill you."

How about it? Is my father fair? --RATTLED ROBERT

Dear Rattled: Yes, he's fair. It's a joy (and sometimes a shock) to encounter a teen-ager who can speak courteously and intelligently to an adult he knows much less a stranger. Don't fight it. It's good training.

Parents are people--they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How to Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

George Tucker Makes Second Team All-Star

(By Dan Whittle)
Standard Sports Editor

Ronnie Dunning was the only unanimous choice on the SEMO all-conference team this year. He is a forward for the Poplar Bluff Mules and over the season he averaged stuffing in 16.4 points per game. Also he is the lone repeater from last year's squad.

TIES FOR REST

After you wade through Dunning you run into quite a unique problem. For the second position you have Jerr Culbertson (Kennett), and Leon Hennecke (Jackson), with eight points each. Even more baffling than that, for the next two slots you come up with Sylvester Johnson (Cape Central), Gordon McKee (Dexter), and Eddie Lane (Fredericktown) all having seven each. What you gonna do? - - Well you gonna put them all on the first team. If I were a coach they all would be good enough to make my team.

TUCKER ON SECOND

George Tucker was the only Bulldog to make any of the first three teams. He came in the second slot on the second team behind Mike Bremerman from Central. After Tucker comes Brian Belknap for the Mules, Larry Smith for Perryville, and Steve Mitchell of the Mules. Sikeston had no one on the third team, and only two in the honorable mention list.

Perryville along with Sikeston did not place any men on the first team.

DUNNING'S CONSISTENCY

This year Dunning hit for a 16.4 point per game average and 75% from the charity line. Last year as a junior he had an average of 16.6 points per game while shooting for 73% from the free throw line.

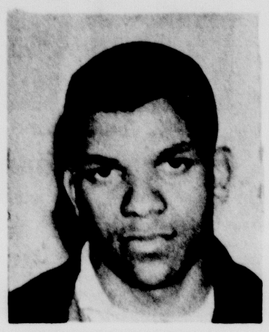

BULLDOGS REGISTER

The Bulldogs had better luck in the "B" division than the Varsity. On the first team they placed John L. Mitchell. On the second team they placed Raymond Carlock. And on the third team they placed David Burns. They could really be a lift to the Bulldogs in their next season of roundball.

NAIA Semi-Finals Are Interesting

KANSAS CITY (AP)—It's unheralded Ouachita Baptist of Arkansas vs. surprising Oklahoma Baptist and unbeaten, top-seeded Central State of Ohio vs. Fairmont of West Virginia in the NAIA semifinals tonight.

Ouachita, 26-9, has more defeats than the other three teams combined but shouldn't be sold short. These upstarts from Arkadelphia, Ark., made the round of four by shocking third-sealed Southern U. of Louisiana 65-64 on a pair of four shots by little David Kossover with three seconds left.

Oklahoma Baptist, seeded 15th clipped Winston-Salem, N.C. 71-62; Central survived a score to beat Augsburg, Minn., 66-57, and Fairmont ended a 23-game winning streak by St. Benedict's of Kansas 103-87 before 8,900 fans.

The Central—Fairmont game will be at 7 p.m. with Oklahoma Baptist and Ouachita at 9 p.m.

Ouachita's Tigers, coached by Bill Vining, upset 10th-seeded Lincoln of Missouri and 7th-seeded Lewis of Illinois in their first two games.

They did the job against Southern's taller club with a tough defense and a control load offense. Leon Clements, 6-6 pivot averaging 27 points a game, missed 10 minutes in the last half with an ankle injury, but returned for two big goals in the final minute.

His last goal pulled Ouachita within one point, 64-63, with 17 seconds left. Then Robert Moore stole a Southern pass seven seconds from the end and the 5-9 Kossover was fouled trying to work the ball in to Clements.

Oklahoma Baptist has won 16 in a row en route to a 24-6 record. One of its early season defeats was to Ouachita. Albert Tucker, 6-8, and Jim Hagan, 6-6 led the victory over Winston-Salem.

Fairmont, 32-2, isn't impressive physically, but a smart hustling bunch of accurate shooters. Bill Moody, a skinny 6-6 freshmen, came off the bench with 34 points, all from 12-22 feet. Its playmaker, 5-8 Ted Darcus, had 22 points, 18 assists and several steals.

Central Ohio, 28-0, was led by 6-6 Kenneth Wilburn, a strong rebounder with an uncanny touch on tip-ins. Augsburg, with 6-10 Dan Anderson scoring 30, was down only 58-57 when Central went into its stall.

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — The parents of the late Utah State University basketball star, Wayne Estes, filed a $271,500 suit against the city of Logan Thursday.

The suit in behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Estes, Anaconda, Mont., alleges negligence by an agent or agents of the city led to the accidental electrocution of their son Feb. 8.

Estes walked into a live wire knocked down by a car accident. He was named posthumously to The Associated Press All-America team.

Logan Mayor Theral V. Bishop said the city will make reply to the suit within 90 days.

DORADO, P.R. (AP) — Art Wall Jr. and Jay Dolan faced a rough task today if they hope to finish the Puerto Rican Open Tournament in a tie as they did a year ago.

Starting the second round of the 72-hole golf competition over the Dorado Hilton course, Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., was three strokes back of the leaders, Al Besselink of Grossinger, N.Y., Wes Ellis Jr., of West Caldwell, N.J., and Joe Jimenez of Jefferson City, Mo., tied with three-under-par 69s.

Dolan, of Leicester, Mass., was further back with a 76. Last year Dolan and Wall tied at the end of the regulation 72 holes at 289 and Wall won in a four-hole playoff.

Cowboys Are Favorites, But Barely

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—If there is a favorite for the NCAA Mid-west Regional Basketball Championship, it's Henry Iba's cautious Cowboys from Oklahoma State—but not by much.

"For the first time in five or six years, there is no clear-cut favorite," said Thompson, who took the Wheatshockers to the Missouri Valley championship in his first year as coach after a long apprenticeship under the departed Ralph Miller.

"There is no one outstanding team, no team that stands above the others," he said after the Shockers went through their last drill before tonight's regional semifinals. "The team that puts together the best back-to-back efforts will win it."

The pairings have Oklahoma State, 19-7, playing Houston, 19-8 and Wichita, 19-6, meeting Southern Methodist, 16-9, with the winners playing Saturday for a spot in the national semifinals at Portland, Ore., next week.

None of the teams are ranked nationally and the field appears to be the lightest and best balanced of the four regionals.

Oklahoma State has the best record in the mid-west and nailed down the biggest plus—the Big Eight title. It was the one jewel that had eluded Iba in his long career that includes more than 700 victories, 14 Missouri Valley titles, the NCAA championships and an Olympic gold medal team.

His team is the usual Iba aggregation. It concentrates on defense, plays a slow, cautious, waiting offense, wins the close ones and is exceptionally well-coached.

The Cowboys use a tough sinking man-to-man defense that has allowed only 55.6 points a game. Probably the most impressive statistics—in a tourney such as this—is their ability in the clutch. They have won in one, three and four overtimes, and have lost only twice since December.

Their biggest problem is lack of height, with 6-7 Gene Johnson and 6-5 Jim King the big men. The scoring is well balanced, Johnson averaging 10.2, King—the best defensive player—12.4, Gene Hassman, 12.5 and Larry Hawk 11.2. Iba's son, Skip, is the fifth man.

Houston, with good depth, plays a fast break game with full court defense. Southern Methodist, which won a playoff for the right to represent the Southwest Conference, has the best rebounding. Backcourt man Kelly Pete is the ace of the Wichita team. He averages 16.5 points a game and is called by Thompson "the biggest 6-1 player I ever saw."

The Poplar Bluff Mules came in third in scoring in the Dexter Class "L" Regional, but still they took first place honors. Cape Central, who took a second in the tournament, scored 205 points. Dexter took fourth while scoring 181 points. Poplar Bluff took first while scoring only 177 points. And Jackson took third place with 171 points.

The Mules had the biggest point spread of any of the teams 177-149. Central's was 205-195, Dexter's was 181-184, and Jackson's was 171-179.

NATIONAL WILDLIFE WEEK OBSERVANCE

National Wildlife Week, scheduled for March 14-20 this year, is one of the many worthwhile conservation education projects sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation, headquartered in Washington, D. C.

Representing some two million members of state conservation organizations, individual contributors and associate members, the Federation was organized in 1938 to coordinate citizen efforts in sound management of the nation's natural resources -- soils, waters, forests, rangelands and wildlife -- through educational programs. The Federation publishes the bimonthly CONSERVATION NEWS, the weekly CONSERVATION REPORT, and provides numerous conservation education leaflets for teachers and school children, and other services as part of its educational program. The privately-financed organization also awards, each year, a number of scholarships and fellowships to college students majoring in conservation and distributes information on conservation problems to the public through newspapers, radio and television stations.

The observance of National Wildlife Week is conducted at the local level by sportsmen's clubs, conservation clubs and other groups which are members of the state affiliate of the National Wildlife Federation. Valuable assistance is provided by state government conservation agencies.

This year National Wildlife Week will focus public attention on the problem of pollution control and prevention in America's streams, rivers, lakes and reservoirs. Using the slogan -- "FIGHT DIRTY WATER" -- the Federation is seeking public awareness and support in efforts to ensure adequate, clean water supplies so necessary to America's growth and prosperity.

Aparicio And Kaat Sign Pacts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The list of unsatisfied major league baseball players was dwindling fast today following the signing of veteran shortstop Luis Aparicio by the Baltimore Orioles and southpaw Jim Kaat by the Minnesota Twins.

When Kaat signed for an estimated $26,000 Thursday and the 30-year-old Aparicio agreed to a salary of about $40,000, only four first-line players remained unsigned.

Still trying to get together with their bosses are Richie Allen, the Phillies' sensational third base rookie last season; veteran outfielder Wes Covington, also of Philadelphia, and Felix Torres, Los Angeles Angels third baseman. Of course, there also is Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, but he is at his Puerto Rico home convalescing from malaria fever.

Kaat, who had been training at Orlando, Fla., but not with the Twins, received a raise of some $8,500 over last season, when he posted a 17-11 record and a 3.22 earned run average.

Aparicio based his demand for more money on a 1964 record of a career high of 10 homers, a batting average of .266 and finishing No. 1 in the American League in stolen bases for the ninth straight season. He stole 57 last year.

The Phillies and Allen and Covington remained far apart.

Most of the other clubs were all set for the first full-scale schedule of exhibition games Saturday.

Cleveland launched its spring-training agenda in Mexico Tuesday night and Thursday the New York Yankees, using their home-run trademark to an advantage, whipped the Washington Senators 4-3 at Pompano Beach, Fla.

Mickey Mantle, batting in the leadoff spot, and Elston Howard, in the No. 3 slot, cracked out home runs to provide three of the Yanks' runs.

Questions and Answers about Tax Problems

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q -- I worked as a salesman for an appliance store last year. I now work for another employer, but my former employer has not sent me my W-2. What should I do?

A -- Have you moved? Maybe the W-2 was sent to your old address. In any event, contact your former employer. He can prepare a duplicate W-2 for you if necessary.

A --Changes have been made in the provisions on capital loss carryovers. Can you tell me how they will affect the investor?

A -- Under the previous provisions, capital losses could only be carried over for the next five years. Further, whether the loss was long term or short term, when it was carried over it was identified as a short term loss. Under the 1964 law, capital losses may be carried over indefinitely. These losses also retain their original character. In other words, a short term loss is carried over as a short term loss -- a long term loss is carried over as a long term loss.

The new treatment of capital losses will apply to such losses incurred in the 1964 tax year and thereafter. Capital losses being carried over to 1964 will continue to be treated as short term losses but can be carried over until used up.

A -- I smoke a carton of cigarettes a week. How much can I deduct on my tax return?

A -- Under the new law, state and local taxes specifically imposed on cigarettes are no longer deductible. Check the instructions you received with your tax return to find the taxes which are still deductible.

Q -- I took a winter vacation this year. As a result, I didn't cash my December paycheck until after I returned in January. Should I include this money with 1964 or 1965 income?

A -- The December paycheck is 1964 income and has been included in the totals listed on your W-2. The general rule for checks is that they are taxable in the year they are received, regardless of when they are cashed.

Q -- Is it permissible to round off figures on a tax return?

A -- You may round off your figures to the nearest dollar. Items under 50¢ can be listed as the next lowest dollar, 50¢ or more to the highest dollar.

While such rounding off of dollars amounts is permitted, estimates of expenses, deductions and income are not acceptable. Items listed on a return require proper substantiation.

Q -- There isn't enough room on the tax form to list all my employers last year. Should I list them on a separate piece of paper?

A -- This year you do not list your employers on your tax return. Just total the amounts shown on the W-2's and enter the total on the return. Don't forget to include the W-2's, however.

Q -- My husband died last year. What part of the funeral and burial expenses can I deduct as medical expenses on my income tax return?

A -- None. The law does not consider these to be medical expenses.

Q -- Are students exempt from income tax?

A -- No. Students are like any other taxpayer group. While most scholarships are exempt from tax, students must report and pay tax on any other income they receive -- $600 or more gross income.

Q -- Recently we gave away our piano to our church. It had been used by our daughter who is now married and living some distance from us. Is there anything we can deduct as a charitable contribution for the piano?

A -- In such cases, the fair market value of the articles or merchandise donated may be taken as a charitable contribution when deductions are itemized. Check the instructions on contributions for donations of property.

Q -- I recently received a statement from my bank listing the interest that had been credited to my account for the year. Should I file this with my return along with my W-2?

A -- No. A copy of this record was also sent to Internal Revenue. Your copy serves as a reminder of the amount of interest credited to your account by a particular bank of savings institution so that you can report it correctly.

The Hungry Millions

EDITOR'S NOTE — In a dramatic race against time, scientists everywhere are seeking ways to increase the world's food supply before the hungry of the earth rebel. The big question: Is there time? The following last of five articles explores what is being done to solve the food problem.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Modern technology knows how to turn back the menacing specter of widespread famine. The big question is this: Is there time?

Themeans are available. But the economies of the hungry nations are so laggard that it will take much time for them to develop the ability to absorb and distribute what the West can produce.

Western scientists consider the problem urgent. Many think that the application of technology to methods of increasing fresh water supplies, reclaiming land destroyed by man's waste and avarice, and to closing the "protein gap" offer hope for the future.

Time, the experts stress over and over, is the critical element. They add that consequences to northern civilization can be extremely costly if the famine menace in the hungry world is not averted.

The problems are staggering. Science is attacking them determinedly with such things as availability of fresh water, availability of tillable land, large-scale production and distribution of fertilizer — and production of synthetic foods.

Blessed by abundance, people in the rich North Atlantic world seldom ponder how precious a commodity is water, how much is needed to produce food.

Crops & Soils, an American agronomists' publication, cites findings of U.S. experts that it takes 16 tons of water to produce a bushel of corn, 64 tons for a bushel of soybeans. Prof. J. R. A. MacMillan, dean of the agriculture faculty at Sydney (Australia) University, estimates it takes aton of water to produce one egg; 2.5 tons for a loaf of bread, 15 tons for a gallon of milk, by the time all the natural processes are completed.

Petroleum researchers have plunged into the problem of increasing world food supplies. Already, petroleum research has played a huge part in the rich world's agricultural revolution. Today, the average American farm worker produces enough to feed 28 persons. Fifty years ago he could feed only 7.

Only about 3.3 billion acres in the world produce food. It requires half an acre to feed one person at subsistence level. The margin is slim and grows slimmer as population increases by 180,000 a day.

Underdeveloped areas have billions of arid acres. A little moisture could make much difference. There is moisture under the sand, but winds shift it too much to permit vegetation to take hold. Test areas are being coated with a petroleum product to hold sand in place until vegetation can reach the moisture-bearing soil and take root. Potentially, the deserts can bloom.

The industry is working on rainmaking. Rain comes from clouds formed by moist air being deflected upwards by hills. Scientists, on the principle that dark surfaces retain heat, create "thermal mountains" by coating strips of coastal land with black asphalt. Surface temperatures increase. Warm air rises to create conditions like those which would be created by mountains.

Such processes as desalting water by atomic or other means remain expensive, but are the sources of rising hopes.

Standard Oil of New Jersey and others, much involved in experiments with land reclamation and food research, also have aimed their sights at the "protein gap."

Micro-organisms, when fed selected hydrocarbons of high purity, flourish and reproduce. These are killed and dried, transformed into a white powder like dried milk, virtually tasteless. This, scientists say, can be used as an additive in many foods. It is described as high in protein content, containing substantial quantities of B vitamins and all the essential amino acids for animal or human nutrition.

Scientists say the process can produce protein 2,500 times as fast as plants and animals at one-fifteenth or less the cost of meat proteins. The supply could be almost limitless. Scientists say three million tons of protein can be produced from one per cent of the present paraffinic crude oil production. Thus, the process could go a long way toward closing the "protein gap."

The process has been tested on animals, found safe, and highly nutritious. It needs approval by governments for human use, plus acceptance abroad of an unfamiliar product, always more a problem in poor than in developed areas.

Ordinary sources of protein—milk, eggs, fish, meat and certain vegetables — are expensive, and protein alone is not enough. The body also needs the energy yield of minerals and vitamins. But protesting malnutrition is the No. 1 problem and the costliest to overcome.

Many attacks are being launched against the food problem—experiments with distribution of flavored soybeans, with oilseed cakes, use of fish meal, food from the sea in the form of plankton and algae, and experiments with various other sources of nutrition.

The problems are many, however. One is to bring a protein supply within the economic reach of hungry countries. This seems to require economic development of poorer countries, and that takes precious time. There are other problems, among the most important of which is that of international cooperation. But the stakes are big, especially in a world witnessing a struggle between two philosophies of life.

"Abolishing hunger," Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said not long ago, "is in the self-interest of the American people. Abolishing hunger can be the crowning achievement of democracy."

But — is there time?

Late Missouri Legislature Happenings

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Legislature got the parochial school bus bill back in its lap Thursday.

The proposal was resubmitted in the House, this time in the form of a constitutional amendment that would require a vote of the people.

It was offered by Rep. James Russell, D-St. Louis County, and 20 other representatives.

Like a bill that is stuck in a Senate committee and apparently dead for this session, it would authorize use of public funds to provide school bus transportation to public, private and parochial school students.

The House advanced a bill to let old age assistance recipients live with relatives but they would get only a flat $35 a month payment. The maximum is $70 for other pensioners.

The House advanced, too, a bill to increase maximum state payments to old age assistance and disabled recipients to $75 a month. It would cost $3.9 million a year.

Also moved ahead was a bill to provide 50 per cent state aid for the foster home care of neglected children in Jackson and St. Louis counties and the city of St. Louis.

The estimated cost would be $400,000 a year. The plan was recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

The House received a bill to guarantee a minimum salary of $3,000 a year for state employes. The bill had the support of the entire Republican membership and GOP State Chairman Ethan Campbell.

The Senate also got into a battle over the wages of public employes.

Sen Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, brought up his bill to let local and state employes organize into unions and bargain collectively. It would not include police officers.

But the measure ran into trouble when Sen. Ablert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said it would open the gates to the biggest fiscal problem the state ever had.

He objected to including teachers and state employes in the bill and Blackwell finally had to shelve it temporarily.

The House also got new bills to:

Tax motor fuel not used in motor vehicles at 5 cents a gallon and put the proceeds in general revenue.

Allow a former state employe to get reduced retirement benefits so the rest could go to his spouse after his death.

Lift the $7,500 salary limitation on which state employes can contribute to the retirement fund.

Raise the pay of the state agriculture commissioner from $12,000 a year to $18,500.

Require the registration of liquor brand names at a cost of $1,000.

Provide a chemical test for suspected drunken drivers, similar to one in Senate Committee.

The House advanced a bill to increase state aid to junior colleges to $300 a year per student, instead of $200, and base it on 24 semester hours instead of 30. It would cost an estimated $2.8 million a year.

Also advanced was a bill to provide workmen's compensation protection for student nurses and volunteers at state mental institutions.

A central records management bill was passed by the House Wednesday.

QUICK QUIZ

A—Greenbelt, Md., completed in 1936.

Q—What kind of apple did Adam and Eve sample?
A—Biblical scholars generally think this was an apricot tree. There were no apple trees as we know them in Mesopotamia or Palestine.

From the time of the ancient cliff dwellers who inhabited the region, Zion's colorful, deep, narrow canyons have intrigued the minds of pioneers . . . and tourists. Spanish padres came in 1776, fur traders followed some fifty years later, and in 1858, while settling the area they called "Dixie", the Mormons found the beautiful gorge and christened it "little Zion."

Zion is indeed the serious student's paradise. The geologist may read the story of the ages in its multi-colored cliffs and gorges of shale, limestone and sandstone. Those who are inclined to botanical subjects will find a variety of trees and flowers, even a beautiful hanging garden, to study and enjoy. And the biologist may see foxes, chipmunks, cougars, mountain lions, mule deer, lizards, bobcats, squirrels and many kinds of birds throughout the park.

Zion National Park covers an area of some 225 square miles and was designated as a national park in 1919. It is an all-year park with excellent cabin, lodge and dining facilities from May 15, to October 1, and towns near the park offer a wide variety of accommodations the year around.

Plan to visit Zion on your next vacation . . . you'll find it one of the experiences of a lifetime!

Automotive equipment worth more than $1,600 was presented to the Sikeston public schools by Ford Motor Company at 10 a.m. Wednesday in a brief ceremony at the school.

The equipment, a complete eight-cylinder engine and automatic transmission, will be used for classroom instruction in automotive mechanics.

It was presented for the company by Clint Elledge and Bryce Fisher of Sikeston Motor Co., and accepted on behalf of the schools by Superintendent Lynn Twitty and Prin. Harold Kiehne.

Application for the unit was started by Ralph D. Williams former owner of Ralph Williams Motor Co., which had been the local Ford dealership; Albert Burrow, service manager for Sikeston Motor Co.; and Harold Lang, automotive mechanics instructor for the Sikeston public schools.

The donation also includes wall charts and other training aids designed by Ford service experts to assist in the use of the equipment.

Ford and its dealers have for many years made engines, transmissions and other parts available to high schools for use in shop mechanics courses, and to colleges and universities for use in technical training courses.

These aid-to-education contributions are made on a selective basis, depending upon the presence of a full curriculum of automotive subject, the qualifications of the instructor, the number of students involved and the actual need for the equipment.

Since 1957, Ford has donated such training equipment to more than 2,000 schools throughout the country. The company last year donated equipment worth nearly $15,000 to nine Missouri schools.

BEHIND THE SCENES

But Bim is no fool. Out of the circus ring he always tries to do the right thing at the right time. Those winter Sundays in Florida, before the show goes on the road, you might sit next to Bim in church, and never know he is a clown.

And even though on the road, when Sunday is moving day, Bim gets out his old worn Bible and his teacher's guide, and with his own kids, and with all the other "show" kids gathered 'round him, there is Sunday School on the circus train.

You see, Bim is a Christian, living his faith through all the complications of a strange occupation. He is not a mask—he is Bim. He is the churchman of a circus train—the Sunday School teacher of show business. He knows when to put fun and frolic aside, and turn to the Truth by which we live!

The Church invites you and your family to worship next Sunday and every Sunday.

Mayor Smith has purchased the old Stallcup homestead on Tanner from Lynn Stallcup for $3,000. This is considered to be a great bargain.

For the month of February the maximum temperature was 65 on the 12th and the minimum was 24 on the 9th.

The W. C. T. U. medal contest was held at the Methodist Church last Friday night. Little Miss Helen Welsh was awarded first honors and Eva Hollister, second.

The Hoosier Land and Investment Co., has sold the 446-acre tract of land belonging to the Myers estate, near Sikeston, to an Illinois party at $127.50 an acre or approximately $76-000.

W. A. Allison has opened a pool room in the Galbraith building on Front street. A barber shop will be installed in the front of the room.

In the spring time, Gentle Annie, when the sap begins to rise and the birds begin to mate, along comes Attorney Roger Bailey singing Harry Lauder's famous song: "I think I'll get wed in the summer time; I think I'll get wed in July!"

All Sikeston should be proud of the quick response given to the call for Charleston by our fire department. It was just 21 minutes from the time the fire truck left the engine house until it was in Charleston. Besides the chemical engines, 2,400 feet of fire hose was carried over. Our sister cities always depend on Sikeston responding to their distress calls.

Mrs. Carl Freeman entertained with a dinner Tuesday night at the home of her mother, Mrs. H. J. Welsh. The guests were : Mrs. Craven Watkins, Misses Lillian Kendall, Mildred Bowman, Irene Caldwell, Mary Ethel Prow, Francoise Black and Helen Dahnke.

Franklin Moore, who has been connected with Foster's Store here, has gone to St. Louis, where he will be employed in the Hotel Statler.

A total of 4.87 inches of rain fell from about 10:30 Saturday night until 10 o'clock Monday morning, according to records kept at the Frisco station by John LaFont.

With virtually all detail work finished or scheduled for completion early this week, the new Rex theatre will open either Friday or next Tuesday, according to present plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Mocabee entertained the following at a waffle supper Saturday night: Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Harrison, Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Reuber and Mr. and Mrs. Randol Wilson and daughter, Miss Nan.

Mrs. L. T. Davey had the following at dinner Sunday in honor of her daughter, Miss Ellen, who that day celebrated her birthday: Misses Mildred McCoy, Lucille Hahs, Ruth Bloomfield, and Martha Jane Marshall.

A group of children at play on Vernon avenue last Sunday afternoon were having great fun in taking turns riding a pony belonging to Dub Pratt. When it came time for Betty Dale, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Dale, to ride, the pony gave a start and raced north as fast as his four legs could carry him with the little girl clinging tight to the bridle. Mr. Dale and others managed to corral the frightened steed and lift his little girl to safety.

Eleven seventh-grade girls, who have been meeting regularly since December, have recently been registered as Girl Scout Troop Three. Miss Jeanne Littleton is leader and Mrs. Paul D. Wilson, assistant. Girls registered in this troop are: Lillian Ancell, Bonnie Bolding, Peggy Ann Caverno, Hope Edwards, Betty Sue Keasler, Lenora Lewis, Frances Mattingly, Marilyn Tucker, Mary Nell Van Bibber, Gloria June Wallace, and Nora Lee Wilson.

Seven ninth-grade girls recently re-registered with Girl Scouts, Inc., this time as a separate unit, to be known as Troop Four, with the idea of becoming the first Senior Troop in Sikeston as soon as all have reached the age of 14 years and have completed their work as intermediate scouts. The members are: Barbara Bethune, Mara Lee Cotten, Alice Martin, Daphne McNeely, Ann Schulte, Lawanna Jean Wallace and Barbara Williams.

Hahs Machine Works, which has aided in the training of welders and other mechanics for the nation's war effort, has been approved for the training of war veterans, according to a letter J. Otto Hahs, proprietor, received this week.

Put off your old nature which belongs to your former manner of life. . . ., and put on the new nature, created after the likeness of God in true righteousness and holiness. (Ephesians 4:22, 24, RSV)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, help us to find our strength in Thee. Grant us forgiveness and give us faith so that as sons of Thine we may run well the race of Thy high calling in Christ Jesus, our Savior. In His name we pray. Amen.

Mr. Blanton:
I want to thank you and your staff for the very nice article on Woodhaven Christian Home.

Only parents of mentally retarded or physically handicapped children know what a place like that can mean to them and their children.

The children have a chance to learn to their ability.

I also want to thank everyone who bought tickets for the bean supper and all the donations we received.

I can think of no better purpose your dollar could go for than to help children.

Our son has improved a good deal since he has been there.

Thank you again.

Dear Charlie:
I would like to express my most sincere appreciation to you personally and the Daily Sikeston Standard for their support of the Boy Scout program during the past four years while I have been so fortunate to have been the District Scout Executive.

The gains the district has made in advancements, boy membership, camping, etc. are all due to a great part for your enthusiastic support of Scouting.

I remember well the first day I walked in your office and talked to you slightly over four years ago. I can only at this time say, and most inadequately but most sincerely, "Thank You", on my own behalf and the hundreds of boys who joined through your efforts.

Most appreciatively,

Mr. J. Edgar Hoover
Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation

Dear Mr. Hoover:
You have stated from time to time that Crime and Lawlessness are increasing steadily, in fact alarmingly, and we the American Citizens see the evidence of that fact, We see that the Law enforcement load is encreasing Daily, But Mr. Hoover When our Young as well as the older see people openly flout the established laws, that American Citizens have Lived By and Honored, Since the Birth of this nation, by mobs, ivadeing States and Violently and without Regard for Established Law, and delibertly encourage and engage in Mob Disorder, to Disregard Local Law enforcement, and order, there are communists parading under the False Guise of Christian, or Religous Particiapation, But JESUS, Christ, Specifically Forbade Christians From engageing in Strife, and Also More Specifically from interferring in other Peoples Affairs, Jesus commanded that His People Be in Subjection to those who have rule over them, He Commanded that Servants Obey their Masters, Mr. Hoover the time has arrived when the Communists, should be unmasked, and Shown for What they Really are, Also Mr. Hoover, the Big Question in the Minds of the American People, are How can the Government Ask the People to Have Respect for the Laws when that Same Government encourages and Abets Mobs and Lawlessness, for Certain Groups Who Show No Respect Whatsoever for the Same Laws that the Government, asks other people, to accept and to respect. I have on numerous occasions have heard both young and older say the Government, Please Obey the Laws of the land, and to Certain other peoples say disregard the Laws of the Land, and the established Laws of the State, and go in there and raise all HELL, you can, you see Mr. Hoover, such unwise and unjust Leadership just don't make sense, to any no one we all know that it is the Communists, Plan and their rule to ruin and devide, that is the only way of life they know, and they have no respect for any other way of life.

So Mr. Hoover, the American Citizens who do still Honor our American Way of Life, ask one thing, that you Mr. Hoover, and that is that you tell the American People, just where, we stand, your and our Freedom depends on American Citizens who will not be Bound by the Communists and their Supporters, Speak out Mr. Hoover while there is time.

Yours Very Respectively

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, March 12, the 71st day of 1965. There are 294 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1912, the first patrol of Girl Guides — later the Girl Scouts of America — was organized in Savannah, Ga., by Mrs. Juliette Low.

On this date

Also in 1933, the banner emblazoned with the swastika became the official flag of Germany.

In 1940, a peace treaty was signed in Moscow by Finland and the Soviet Union.

In 1945, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced American forces had invaded the Philippine island of Mindanao.

Five years ago—A three-day battle broke out between political factions in the Belgian Congo.

One year ago — The United States and Panama agreed on a formula to end a two-months-old Canal Zone dispute.

Today's Spanish Lesson

lesson No. 18
Reading time 5 min. Study time 5 Min.

Noun "key" #4 is 'hay'. It is pronounced exactly the same as our personal pronoun 'I'; and it means, 'there is', 'there are', 'is there', 'are there'.

A) Yes, there is (there are).
B) Si, hay.
C) see/I
A) Is there a book?
B) Hay un libro?
C) I/oon/Lee-bro?
A) No there isn't.
B) No hay.
C) no/I.
A) Are there books?
B) Hay libros?
C) I/LEE-bros.

You can easily see how much latitude this "key" gives you. You can say, 'Is there a room?' 'Are there enough glasses?', 'Is there enough money?', 'Are there many men there?'. (New words will be added as we proceed).

Now let's review our "keys" to nouns:

"Key" #1-A) I have money.
B) Tengo dinero.
C) TANG-go/dee-NAIR-oh.
"Key" #2-A) Where is my book?
B) Donde esta mi libro?
C) DOAN-day/s-TAH/me/LEE-bro.
"Key" #3-A) It is possible.
B) Es posible.
C) s/poe-SEE_blay.
"Key" #4-A) There is money.
B) Hay dinero.
C) I/dee-NAIR-oh.

'Hay' and 'es' give you license to say, 'Is there money?', 'Is it possible to eat here?'. All you need do is change the inflection of your voice to indicate a question: 'Hay dinero', (a statement); 'Hay dinero?', (a question); 'Es posible', (a statement); 'Es posible?', (a question).

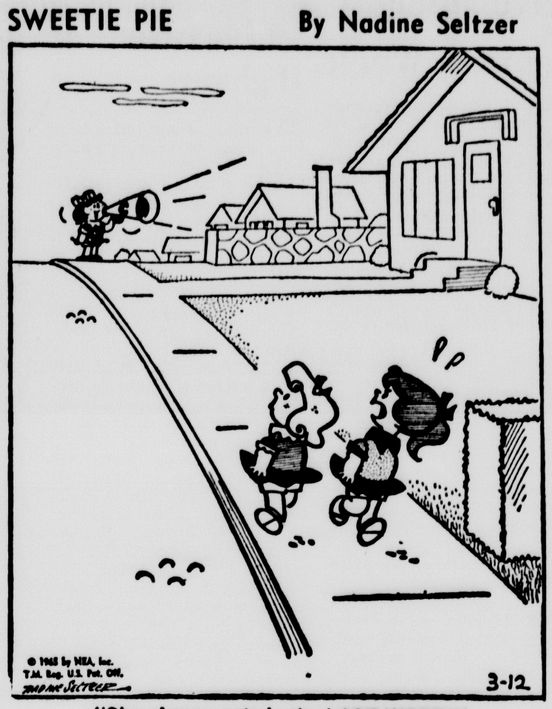

In order to make these statements or questions negative, you simply put the word 'no' in front of them.

Tomorrow we will review the "keys" to nouns again, and also give you a new "key" that will unlock still more Spanish words for you.

valuation. In dollars, the amount is $1.4 million, he said, and the 102 children in the area represent 3.3 per cent of the district's enrollment.

What this means in operating cash to the R-1 district, Pierce said, is a yearly loss of $60,000 in state aid and local taxes, which is equivalent to a 43 cent local levy on the reduced tax base.

This $60,000, Pierce explained, is equivalent to the cost of 13 teachers, or to the total cost of operating the R-1 bus system.

Obviously, if the district should lose this area, Pierce said, the loss in revenue would have to be made up in some manner. The only possibilities, he said, would be to raise R-1 taxes some 43 cents on the $100 assessed valuation or to cut down services.

Neither of these possibilities is practical, Pierce said. That kind of a tax levy would probably not meet with R-1 voter approval, he said, and neither R-1 nor R-2 district can afford to cut back on services when they are already offering too few.

Pierce and Board President Woodrow Graham stressed that the R-1 board hoped to head off a clash between the Charleston and East Prairie communities over the boundary dispute. They fear, the two men said, that such a dispute would postpone for many years the possibility of bringing the entire county under a single school administration with a common tax base and common tax rate.

CHARLESTON PROPOSES MERGER WITH EAST PRAIRIE

Graham read a letter which the Charleston board had sent in February to the East Prairie board, urging an immediate merger between the two districts.

Advantages of the merger, the letter said, would be as follows:

The new district would have a tax base of $30 million, second in Southeast Missouri only to Cape Girardeau.

The district would have an enrollment of 5,300 children, largest in Southeast Missouri, and a high school population of 1,400, which would put the district in the top 30 among the 526 high school districts in Missouri.

The new district would be flexible enough to have a modern educational program with 70 units of credit, and an adequate vocational program. It would offer the possibility of county - wide coordination on anti - poverty, Manpower Development Training Act, and industrial development proposals.

The district could continue to operate neighborhood elementary schools and two high schools, and still effect a savings in operation to the taxpayer.

The proposed district would provide equity of cost to all taxpayers in the county, and would end forever the boundary change disputes, which Pierce, in another part of his talk called a "never-ending proposition."

The proposed district could offer a well-coordinated administration of a kindergarten through 12th grade program, and possibly offer some courses on the 13 and 14th grade levels.

Graham reported that the East Prairie board had not formally answered the proposal, but that the Charleston Board had discussed it with Superintendent Ray Melton and R-2 Board President Presson, and that the R-2 board felt the time was not right for such a merger.

In a lively question and answer period after the formal presentation the R-1 officials said the R-2 board indicated that they had nothing to do with instigating the boundary change petition.

"However," the R-1 spokesman said, "if the boundary change is voted down in R-1, and carries in R-2, we will find out if the R-2 board is interested in a peaceful settlement. If they do not request a board of arbitration, the boundary change matter will die.

"If that happens we will be able to work with them to work out a fair settlement of the issue, and to work for merger of the two districts.

"However," the spokesman said, "if the R-2 Board of Education asks for the arbitration board, it will indicate to us that they are not interested in pulling the two districts closer together for the benefit of all children in the county, but rather, that they are interested in attempting to acquire property which they have not serviced. This would be to the detriment of the educational well-being of all our children, by pushing the two communities further away from cooperation."

"Merger of the two districts is the only way to end this boundary-swapping proposition for good," he continued. "There is nothing to prevent either district from getting up yet another petition, and calling for still another boundary change next year. It is difficult to work on educational problems when we constantly have these side issues."

ALDERMAN

Members of the board whose terms are expiring are Lee R. Boyd in Ward One, C. E. LaValle in Ward Two, and John A. Hunter in Ward Three, according to Mrs. Pauline K. Allen, city clerk.

Mrs. Allen said that any person who desires to be a candidate for any of the aldermanic posts must file a written declaration of candidacy with her at her office in the Municipal Building on or before Monday, March 22.

In officially calling the annual election, which is actually set by ordinance, the board appointed election judges for each of the city's three wards and those named are as follows:

Ward One -- Mrs. Elsie Hampton, Mrs. Helen Beaber, Mrs. Marcella Lynn and Mrs. Barbara Jones.

Ward Two -- Ben Ashley, Mrs. Carrie Shaver, Mrs. Mildred Sloas and Monroe Robbins.

Ward Three - - Mrs. Mary Meier, Louis Magruder, Mrs. Audie Meunier and Mrs. Nina Henderson.

An ordinance was passed by the board in which a dedicated alley between the properties of J. J. Beaher and Gus Murphy on Water Street was vacated with the provision that it can still be used for city utility poles or anchors.

Bill Abbott, who a month ago was appointed as city dog catcher effective March 1, did not accept the position and the board made arrangements with the street department to spend Monday and Thursday mornings of each week catching and impounding stray and unlicensed dogs.

Mayor Robert Riley appointed Clay Broughton as the City of New Madrid representative on the New Madrid County Extension Council, and Broughton's appointment was approved by the board.

Reports of officials were read and approved and the board ordered payment of all current city bills.

COYOTE

coyote went west out of the area between the river and the levee and ran about three miles to an area where the hounds lost it.

In searching out the track they jumped a grey fox and ran it by Vernon Harris of Dexter, who killed it.

After the hounds were caught four more dogs were taken about two miles below where the first group was turned loose. Shortly thereafter they had two more coyotes running. One was run by Carl Cummins of Risco, who killed it with a shotgun. The other coyote turned back south and the dogs stayed with it the rest of the day but the hunters were not able to cut it off and get a shot at it. The coyote Cummins killed weighed 35 to 40 pounds.

Another hunt is being planned and will be announced as soon as details are complete.

Poplar Bluff Doctor Found Dead In River

POPLAR BLUFF — Dr. John L. Wright, 35 year old physician and surgeon at the Lucy Lee Hospital, was found dead in Current River near a family club house west of Reyno, Ark., last night and Randolph County, Ark., authorities said death was due to accidental drowning.

The accident occurred at a point known as the Reyno or Richardson Ferry two and a half miles west of Reyno and 17 and a half miles north of Pocahontas.

He had gone to the club house, owned by his wife's parents' Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cox, after visiting relatives in Pocahontas earlier in the day, his regular day off at the hospital.

When he failed to return here after dark last night, his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Wright, drove to the club house and found his body at the bottom of a stairway leading to the water's edge.

A foot was caught in the bottom step of the stairway and he had fallen or tripped forward. His body was found face down in the water with his feet and legs out of the water.

He was rushed to the Pocahontas, Ark. hospital where efforts to revive him were unsuccessful.

Funeral services will be held at Pocahontas, Ark., Saturday at 2 p.m., in the First Baptist Church.

Convicted of Murder

WEST PLAINS, Mo. AP - Theodore Woodrow Gregg, 40, of Thayer, Mo., was convicted of second degree murder Thursday night in the 1963 rifle slaying of Robert T. King, 47, with whom Gregg shared a home.

Gregg was sentenced to 25 years in prison by Circuit Judge Ben Searcy under the habitual criminal law.

The defense contended both men had been intoxicated and that the shooting was an accident.

Gregg had been convicted in 1956 of stealing and served time in the penitentiary.

Baptists to Have Special Revival Week

Revival services begin Sunday morning, March 14, at the First Baptist Church, 201 South Kingshighway, Sikeston. The pastor, the Rev. James Hackney, will be doing the preaching and Frank Adams of Jonesboro, Ark., will be directing the music. Much preparation and planning have gone into the revival effort, and there is growing anticipation among church members for a genuine revival.

Services begin at 7:30 each night and a nursery will be provided for small children. Special night will be observed each night, with a special emphasis being made on Family Night for Wednesday night, March 17. Youth Night will be observed on Friday night, with the young people filling the choir.

The sermons for each service are listed as follows:

Sunday morning, March 14 (9:15 and 10:30) — "A Pentecostal Program"; Sunday night, March 14 — "Repent or Else!"

Monday night, March 15 — "Halfway Christianity"

Tuesday night, March 16 — "The Call of Our Christ"

Wednesday night, March 17 — "A Spiritual Home"

Thursday night, March 18 — "The Magnetic Christ"

Firday night, March 19 — "How to Find Real Joy"

Saturday night, March 20 — "From Persecutor to Prophet"

Sunday morning, March 21, (9:15 and 10:30) — "Regeneration, the Remedy"

Sunday night, March 21 — "It's Almost Tomorrow"

Friends Replace Beatle HairDo With Brush-Cut

PEMBROKE, N.Y. (AP) — "The girls were wild over my long hair — They thought it was pretty good," said Jeffrey Wetmore, 15, who sports a brush-cut today.

Gone is the Beatle-like hairdo it took him about a year to grow.

Jeff, a high school sophomore, lost the long-hair look — "it was below my shoulders" — when he was shorn by other pupils at Pemborke Central High School. While Jeff said he was unhappy about what happened, his father, Melvin Wetmore, was more so.

The father had asked Justic of the Peace Ralph Kelsey to issue warrants charging third-degree assault against the shearers. Kelsey ruled Thursday night that, while there was evidence the hair was cut, there was not sufficient evidence to prove who cut it.

Over Haul Congress?

WASHINGTON AP - A resolution setting up a special committee to study possible overhaul of Congress was approved Thursday by the House.

Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., named six representatives who will serve with six senators on the committee. They include Reps. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., and Durwood G. Hall, R-Mo.

Senate members will be named later.

Proof Piling Up On Safety Aspects Of Interstate Highways

The proof keeps piling up on the safety of Interstate highways.

Latest data is the 1964 Missouri Interstate System Accident Study recently published by the Division of Highway Planning of the Missouri State Highway Department. The annual study compares Interstate accidents to accidents on facilities existing before the Interstate was built.

And it shows that, while Missouri Interstate highways carry 148.6 percent as much travel as previously existing facilities, they have only 26 percent as many accidents, 30 percent as many injuries and 32 percent as many deaths per 100 million vehicle miles of travel.

The study turned up some other interesting aspects to Interstate highway mishaps. For instance, these new superhighways have virtually eliminated head-on and angle collisions. But, while there are fewer accidents on the Interstate system, 90 percent of those which do occur are in the top two groups of porperty damage.

The 1964 Department study covered 51 sections of highways in sixteen counties--Platte, Buchanan, Lafayette, Cooper, Howard, Boone, Callaway, St. Louis, Franklin, Newton, Jasper, Lawrence, Greene, Scott, Mississippi and Cape Girardeau.

Below is a tabular report of the study. The figures are for accidents per 100 million vehicle miles.

These are listed with Interstate first and Existing Hwy. before Interstate second:

Accidents 78.5, 301.8; Injuries 57.2, 187.9; Deaths 3.7, 11.6.

Property Damage

Less than $100 7.5, 50.4; $100 to $500 34.8, 149.9; More than $500 36.2, 101.5.

Types of Accidents:

Rear-end or sideswipe, same direction 30.0, 137.5; Head-on or sideswipe, opposite direction 1.9, 50.2; Angle collision 1.9, 31.7; Collision with pedestrian 0.3, 3.5; Other collision 28.0, 45.6; Non-collision 16.4, 33.3.

Seek to Repeal Excise Tax On New Autos

WASHINGTON (AP) — The automobile industry plans to seek outright repeal of the 10 per cent excise tax on new passenger cars in the proposed midyear reduction of consumer excise levies, it was learned today.

Industry leaders are studying the organization of a concerted effort, possibly including the formation of an industrywide committee with headquarters in Washington, to back legislation along the general lines of the bill submitted about a month ago by Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich.

The industry's major concern is that the reduction be made retroactive to the date of the beginning of congressional consideration, to forestall the possibility of an automobile buyers' strike while the measure is pending.

Full repeal of the excise would mean an average saving of around $225 per new car. In testimony to the House Ways and Means Committee last summer, industry leaders pledged that the full amount would be passed on to the public.

Call for Bids On Vocational Building Work

Art League Success

MISS JEAN LOVE explains art sketching to a class of 75 local art lovers, in a meeting Wednesday evening, preparatory to the Art Show to be held at the Holiday Inn on May 1 and 2.

Classes presented by the Sikeston Art League are meeting with tremendous success. The sketching class presented by Miss Jean Love out-grew the High School art room when more than seventy Sikeston and area residents arrived to receive instruction.

The cafetorium was pressed into service to accommodate the large attendance. The art show during the Festival of the Arts last spring was representative of more than sixty Sikeston area artists, exhibiting over two hundred examples of considerable talent. Several thousand visited the show, many returned several times. This amazing response of area residents to art led to forming the Art League whose purpose is to give any interested person the opportunity to develop his artistic talent and to bring shows of even greater quality, both professional and amateur to this area.

A seminar was planned by Miss Harriett Jones, Miss Jean Love and Miss Emily Brennecke, all Sikeston art teachers, who are giving freely of their time, energy and knowledge. The school system realizing a need for such instruction generously provided the place. Wednesday evening completed Miss Love's sketching course and Miss Brennecke will begin a water color class Wednesday, March 17 in the Senior High School art room. These will be followed by Richard Smith presenting "Art Appreciation."

Many of the participants of the classes are preparing work to be exhibited in the art show at the Holiday Inn, May 1 and 2. Kathy Thomas and Bernadine Seyers who served as artists models for the sketch class are Freshman High School art students of Miss Love. They are both talented girls who are working on projects to be entered in the show this year.

ART CLASS MODELS Miss Kathy Thomas, standing, and Miss Bernadine Seyer, sitting, while local artists try their skill at sketching. The class was held in the Senior High cafetorium Wednesday night.

Lilbourn To Join State Program

LILBOURN — An open meeting for all persons interested in participating in the local Missouri Community Betterment program will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 18, in the Lilbourn City Hall, according to an announcement made today by Jim Baughman, chairman of the city's steering committee.

Baughman urged that everyone in the Lilbourn community who is interested in seeing advances made be present at the meeting. He said that as many as eighteen committees could be formed if enough people show interest in the program.

He said, "This will be the chance for many good, interested citizens to take an active part in Lilbourn's improvement program. From now on we can say 'We' instead of 'They' ought to do something."

Under the MCB program, communities may vie for five-star recognition.

Lilbourn has already been awarded a star for education and local leaders feel sure that recent approval by the State Health Department of the city's water supply will earn the city its second. Other areas in which stars may be earned are transportation, community planning, and community services.

Lilbourn to Have City and School Board Election

LILBOURN — City and school board elections have been set for April 6 here and two candidates for posts have already announced their intentions to run.

Oren Ross of Lilbourn Route and Joe Haubold of Marston have filed for re-election to the R-IV District school board. Both have served the district in that capacity for several years.

In the city election, voters will vote for the Police Judge and for one Alderman from each of the city's two wards. Thus far, no candidates for these offices have filed.

Voters in the school election will also ballot on a tax rate of 90 cents on the one hundred dollars of assessed valuation for general school purposes. This is the same levy which was approved last year.

Polling places in the city election will be at the City Hall for residents of Ward One and the high school's old gymnasium for Ward Two. School election balloting will be conducted at the Marston gymnasium, David Barton Gin Company office in Catron, and the old gymnasium in Lilbourn.

Newsman Shot

ST. LOUIS AP - A newsman at a St. Louis television station KTVI was shot through the ear Thursday night when he came into the home of a relative who was apparently out of town.

Police said McGee apparently found burglars in the home of Victor Stenberg in a fashionable section of Southwest St. Louis. He struggled with one of them and was shot with a .25 caliber revolver.

The intruders escaped in McGee's auto, which was found a short time later several blocks away.

Wife Visits Husband In Jail, is Arrested

MARSHALL, Mo. AP - Mrs. John W. Sears, 18, came to visit her 21-year-old husband in Saline County jail Thursday and was jailed herself because of the present she brought.

The gift was a .22 caliber pistol, a box of shells and detailed instructions on when to pull a jail break and where to meet her afterward.

A tip from a service station operator, who missed his pistol after seeing Mrs. Sears at his station, caused the woman to be searched. Prosecuting Attorney Allen S. Parish said charges will be filed against her.

Sears is being held for authorities in Sedalia, where he has been charged with rape.

Sikeston Elk Lodge #2319 Will Be Instituted Sunday

Sikeston Lodge #2319 of Benevolent & Protective Order of Elks Club will be instituted on March 14. Joe Bollinger, chairman of the organization committee, announced today. He said the institution ceremonies will be held in the Middle School, with national and state Elks officials participating.

ST. LOUIS AP - A chemical explosion on the South St. Louis riverfront killed a man Thursday and set off a three-alarm fire that threatened another explosion.

The blast in a trailer tank filled with 600 gallons of ethyl acetate, an industrial alcohol, shattered windows and charred the nearby warehouse of the Cooperage Division of Continental Distilling Corp.

Arthur Edwards, 38, of East St. Louis, Ill., was killed. A laborer employed by Publicker Industries, parent company of the distillery, he was siphoning the chemical from a railroad tank car. Two other men escaped injury.

Cause of the explosion was undetermined.

One Injured On Roads

There were five traffic accidents in the Troop E territory Thursday; one injury and no fatalities.

The injury was the result of a one car accident on Rt. D to Parma driven by Robert Young Jr. of Dexter. Injured was John E. Wilson, passenger, of Bernie, who received lacerations of the head. He was treated by a physician in Bernie and was released.

EMERGENCIES

Coyote And Fox Killed By Club

NEW MADRID: -- The March meeting of the Sportsmans Club was held at the Community Building last Tuesday, when fried chicken was served to 45 members, after which a short business meeting was held and the club elected to organize a hunt for wolves or coyotes, which had been reported in an area southeast of Marston.

After the meeting two movies were shown to the members, one was furnished by agent Bob Henrickson of the Conservation Commission and explained wildlife habitat and the other was of club members catching coon alive at the Mingo Wildlife Area at Puxico.

The next regular meeting will be held at Portageville.

The club organized and participated in the wolf hunt Southeast of Marston Sunday, March 7. Dogs were furnished by Dr. E. G. Bailey Sr., of Dexter. Dr. Bailey brought 21 dogs with him and said he left 15 to 20 more at home.

Four hounds were released just before daylight and about twenty minutes later had the first coyote running. The

Charleston and East Prairie In School Boundary Dispute

CHARLESTON—Members of the R-1 Charleston Board of Education met Monday night at the Anniston School gymnasium with a group of R-1 district residents who were signers of a petition calling for a change of boundary between the R-1 and R-2 school districts.

Purpose of the meeting, according to Assistant Superintendent W. R. Pierce Jr., was to explain what the proposed change of boundary would mean to the remaining residents of R-1 if it should pass.

The proposal is to be voted on at the annual school election on April 6.

Voters in R-1 and R-2 will vote separately on the issue of taking the 33 square miles from R-1 and assigning it to R-2. If the proposal carries in both districts, the change is effective immediately. If it fails in one of the districts, the district in which the proposal was favored may request a three-man board of arbitration to determine the final results. In this case the board of arbitration would include the president of the county board of education, the president of the New Madrid County board of education, and a third, disinterested party from outside the county.

There is no appeal from the decision of the arbitration board, and the board is not empowered to "bargain" with the territory. It must assign the entire area in question to one or the other district.

All signers of the petition were invited to attend Monday night's meeting, but only about 20 were present.

In explaining why the R-1 board was opposed to the boundary change as proposed, Pierce said the area involved was 33 square miles, or 7.8 per cent of the R-1 assessed

Seek to Repeal Excise Tax On New Autos

WASHINGTON (AP) — The automobile industry plans to seek outright repeal of the 10 per cent excise tax on new passenger cars in the proposed midyear reduction of consumer excise levies, it was learned today.

Industry leaders are studying the organization of a concerted effort, possibly including the formation of an industrywide committee with headquarters in Washington, to back legislation along the general lines of the bill submitted about a month ago by Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich.

The industry's major concern is that the reduction be made retroactive to the date of the beginning of congressional consideration, to forestall the possibility of an automobile buyers' strike while the measure is pending.

Full repeal of the excise would mean an average saving of around $225 per new car. In testimony to the House Ways and Means Committee last summer, industry leaders pledged that the full amount would be passed on to the public.

Call for Bids On Vocational Building Work

A legal notice is being published today by the Board of Education for Scott County School District R-6 of Sikeston calling for sealed bids for the mechanical and electrical work for a vocational building complex at the senior high school in Sikeston.

Bids will be received until 4 p.m., Monday, March 22 at the office of the superintendent of schools.

Plans and specifications for the work may be inspected at the offices of Buckmueller-Whitworth and Associates, architects and engineers, 412 Tanner street, Sikeston.

Art League Success

MISS JEAN LOVE explains art sketching to a class of 75 local art lovers, in a meeting Wednesday evening, preparatory to the Art Show to be held at the Holiday Inn on May 1 and 2.

Classes presented by the Sikeston Art League are meeting with tremendous success. The sketching class presented by Miss Jean Love out-grew the High School art room when more than seventy Sikeston and area residents arrived to receive instruction.

The cafetorium was pressed into service to accommodate the large attendance. The art show during the Festival of the Arts last spring was representative of more than sixty Sikeston area artists, exhibiting over two hundred examples of considerable talent. Several thousand visited the show, many returned several times. This amazing response of area residents to art led to forming the Art League whose purpose is to give any interested person the opportunity to develop his artistic talent and to bring shows of even greater quality, both professional and amateur to this area.

A seminar was planned by Miss Harriett Jones, Miss Jean Love and Miss Emily Brennecke, all Sikeston art teachers, who are giving freely of their time, energy and knowledge. The school system realizing a need for such instruction generously provided the place. Wednesday evening completed Miss Love's sketching course and Miss Brennecke will begin a water color class Wednesday, March 17 in the Senior High School art room. These will be followed by Richard Smith presenting "Art Appreciation."

Many of the participants of the classes are preparing work to be exhibited in the art show at the Holiday Inn, May 1 and 2. Kathy Thomas and Bernadine Seyers who served as artists models for the sketch class are Freshman High School art students of Miss Love. They are both talented girls who are working on projects to be entered in the show this year.

Lilbourn To Join State Program

LILBOURN — An open meeting for all persons interested in participating in the local Missouri Community Betterment program will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 18, in the Lilbourn City Hall, according to an announcement made today by Jim Baughman, chairman of the city's steering committee.

Baughman urged that everyone in the Lilbourn community who is interested in seeing advances made be present at the meeting. He said that as many as eighteen committees could be formed if enough people show interest in the program.

He said, "This will be the chance for many good, interested citizens to take an active part in Lilbourn's improvement program. From now on we can say 'We' instead of 'They' ought to do something."

Under the MCB program, communities may vie for five-star recognition.

Lilbourn has already been awarded a star for education and local leaders feel sure that recent approval by the State Health Department of the city's water supply will earn the city its second. Other areas in which stars may be earned are transportation, community planning, and community services.

They are from left, Dwight Crader, trustee; Ernest Wilson, trustee; Benny Walker, treasurer; Charles Springs, secretary; Ray Hart, exalted ruler; Charles Mitchell, leading knight; Bill Burch, loyal knight; Bob Porter, lecturing knight; Don Bohannon, trustee; Charles Terrell, trustee, and Delmar Alcorn, trustee.

ART CLASS MODELS Miss Kathy Thomas, standing, and Miss Bernadine Seyer, sitting, while local artists try their skill at sketching. The class was held in the Senior High cafetorium Wednesday night.

Lilbourn to Have City and School Board Election

LILBOURN — City and school board elections have been set for April 6 here and two candidates for posts have already announced their intentions to run.

Oren Ross of Lilbourn Route and Joe Haubold of Marston have filed for re-election to the R-IV District school board. Both have served the district in that capacity for several years.

In the city election, voters will vote for the Police Judge and for one Alderman from each of the city's two wards. Thus far, no candidates for these offices have filed.

Voters in the school election will also ballot on a tax rate of 90 cents on the one hundred dollars of assessed valuation for general school purposes. This is the same levy which was approved last year.

Polling places in the city election will be at the City Hall for residents of Ward One and the high school's old gymnasium for Ward Two. School election balloting will be conducted at the Marston gymnasium, David Barton Gin Company office in Catron, and the old gymnasium in Lilbourn.

Newsman Shot

ST. LOUIS AP - A newsman at a St. Louis television station KTVI was shot through the ear Thursday night when he came into the home of a relative who was apparently out of town.

Police said McGee apparently found burglars in the home of Victor Stenberg in a fashionable section of Southwest St. Louis. He struggled with one of them and was shot with a .25 caliber revolver.

The intruders escaped in McGee's auto, which was found a short time later several blocks away.

Wife Visits Husband In Jail, is Arrested

MARSHALL, Mo. AP - Mrs. John W. Sears, 18, came to visit her 21-year-old husband in Saline County jail Thursday and was jailed herself because of the present she brought.

The gift was a .22 caliber pistol, a box of shells and detailed instructions on when to pull a jail break and where to meet her afterward.

A tip from a service station operator, who missed his pistol after seeing Mrs. Sears at his station, caused the woman to be searched. Prosecuting Attorney Allen S. Parish said charges will be filed against her.

Sears is being held for authorities in Sedalia, where he has been charged with rape.

Sikeston Elk Lodge #2319 Will Be Instituted Sunday

There is no appeal from the decision of the arbitration board, and the board is not empowered to "bargain" with the territory. It must assign the entire area in question to one or the other district.

All signers of the petition were invited to attend Monday night's meeting, but only about 20 were present.

In explaining why the R-1 board was opposed to the boundary change as proposed, Pierce said the area involved was 33 square miles, or 7.8 per cent of the R-1 assessed

ELIZABETH SAVES A FORT

In 1782, Wheeling, W. Va., was comprised of fewer than 30 log cabins. Nearby was Fort Henry, the main defense for the rustic village.

That same year, a white renegade named Simon Girty led a small army of Indians. Girty had one thing in mind during those times when the United Colonies were battling the British. Girty wanted loot. As a result, West Virginia was fighting the Red Coats and Girty's red men at the same time.

One day, a small band of men was sent out of the fort to investigate a large cloud of smoke on the horizon -- a likely sign that Girty and his men were approaching. Like the other frontier women in the fort, Elizabeth Zane shuddered at the thought of the possibility of more fighting.

The men in the reconnoitering party from the fort never returned. Girty's Indians ambushed and killed them. Soon after, Girty's entire band attacked the fort.

The Indians formed a firing line outside Fort Henry and poured on incessant fire at the 20 riflemen inside. The battle lasted for six hours.

To their horror, the fort defenders then found they would soon be out of gun powder. All of the men volunteered to try to get powder at the cabin of Col. Ebenezer Zane, the founder of what is now known as Wheeling.

Zane's sister, Elizabeth, stepped forward to volunteer. The men laughed, if somewhat nervously, until Betty's logic sunk home: Surely the Indians would kill any man who left the fort, but being strange creatures, the Indians might not be so drastic if a woman tried it. Besides, she said, her plan would fool the savages.

All agreed to the plan, though it seemed an extremely foolish idea.

Elizabeth's strategy was simple, and it worked. She merely strolled out of the fort. She didn't run or scamper. She walked. The Indians were dumbfounded by the sight. By the time they realized what might be happening, Elizabeth was out of sight.

At her brother's house, she explained the situation at the fort. Colonel Zane opened a keg of powder, poured it into a tablecloth, and fashioned a rather high-explosive bundle for his sister to carry.

This time, Elizabeth ran. Her cargo was a bulky one that aroused suspicion at once. She fled across a small hill, then down it to the fort. Bullets spat up dirt all around her.

At last young Elizabeth staggered into the fort with the gunpowder.

The men loaded their weapons and fired back. The sudden increase of fire discouraged the Indians and they fell back. The fort was saved.

Candelight is probably the oldest form of illumination still in vogue. The first candles were made from wood, rushes, or grass cord dipped in fat or pitch. Tallow, beeswax, and vegetable wax, such as bayberry, were supplemented by spermaceti, stearine and paraffin. The first twisted strands, used for centuries, were finally replaced by plaited wicks as recently as 1825. Candles were made by dipping into melted tallow or by pouring into molds, which was the method used in Colonial times. Modern candles are machine made in much the same manner.

A READER'S IDEA OF A GOOD NEWSPAPER?

1. My name.
2. A front page story showing how crooked the city government is most of the time.
3. My wife's name.
4. A feature story showing 25 ways on how to cheat on income tax forms.
5. My kids' names.
6. Local news item about the affair my neighbor is having.
7. A classified ad offering a new home for $4,000.
8. More news about lawbreakers.
9. Less news about lawbreakers. (I was picked up last night and I should not have to pay a fine, nor be publicized.)
10. An editorial condemning high school teachers for being too liberal with "Fs."
11. A wedding picture of the groom instead of the bride when he is more handsome than she is pretty.
12. A sports picture of me when I bowled 163.
14. More advertisements on things that merchants are giving away.
15. Less stuff about how cute everybody else's kids are. My kids are better looking than they are.
16. A complete biographical sketch about the "most important citizen in town," and spell my name right.

(Editor's note: The Standard's loyal readers are the salt of the earth and the above list doesn't apply to any of them. Well, maybe just one or two or so.)

"Two weeks ago I retired after 30 years as a traffic cop, and now I want to clear my conscience. Last summer I bawled you out for going through a red light, and it has been troubling me ever since. The truth is that I am color blind, but hated to admit you were right when you insisted the light had turned green. I hope you will accept this abject apology and forgive me."

"You have been a swell brother-in-law to me, Jack, in the 15 years I've been looking for work since getting out of college, but I won't be needing any more handouts from you. I've got a steady job as staff beatnik for a new coffee house tourist trap down in Greenwich Village. The pay is small and the hours long, but all I really have to do is sit around in old clothes, look picturesque, and let my beard grow. That means I won't even have to borrow your razor anymore."

"What do you mean you're sorry you made such a fool of yourself at my party, Joe? You were the big hit of the evening, Pal. One of the other guests was a television talent scout, and he said that dance you did with the throw rug and the two lampshades was the funniest thing he's seen all season. He says he can guarantee you $7,000 for doing the same routine on Ed Sullivan's show any Sunday evening you're free — and you won't even have to pay him an agent's commission."

"You don't remember me, young man, but I am the little old lady you helped across an icy street one cold spring night 20 years ago. I can still remember how blue your knees looked in your little Boy Scout suit. Since my pet parrot died last week leaving me all alone in the world, I have decided to revise my will and repay your good deed of long ago by—"

"Frankly, young lady, we think your idea that the Beatles add a teen-age girl as a vocalist to their group you'd be ideal for the job yourself. If you wouldn't mind taking a week's singing lessons, and a starting salary of 100 quid, plus recording royalties, of course, please advise us."

"As a practicing psychiatrist for two decades, it seems to me that you are the most normal, best-balanced human being I have encountered in my entire career. After replaying the tapes of our last two couch sessions, I have reached the conclusion that if any member of your family stands in the need of mental help, it is your mother-in-law — not you. It's never pleasant to see pictures of Uncle Sam being burned in effigy. When the pictures come from an old and valued friend of this country--the Philippines -- it is distinctly upsetting.

Filipinos burned Uncle Sam in front of the gates of the U. S. embassy in Manila in reaction to the shooting of trespassers on American military bases.

This and other anti-American demonstrations have protested not only the shootings -- and deaths--but the fact that the United States exercises jurisdiction in cases involving base security and where the Americans involved are on official duty. In some cases, the United States claims jurisdiction over its own nationals, on or off U. S. bases.

The Philippines have had a special and close relationship with the United States throughout this century. While we never considered them as a colony, we looked on ourselves as, if not their mother country, at least their benevolent stepfather.

Maybe some clinging vestiges of that attitude are part of the present friction between what ought to be two equals.

DON'T DISCOUNT GRANDPA
WHEN IT COMES TO WORK

It may be too early for unemployed senior citizens to start dancing in the streets, but age prejudice in the employment office is becoming less and less prevalent.

Eight years ago an article in the Catholic Digest--widely circulated and reprinted--told of the efforts of the country's Forty Plus Clubs to fight age discrimination in business and industry.

More and more companies, the Catholic Digest finds, are learning that it doesn't pay to set up age barriers.

Among them:

Results: higher productiveness, less absenteeism, more interest in the job.

Any idea that may help children learn more, learn it faster and like it is worth looking into in this day of "exploding knowledge."

Back in 1959, three major universities--Columbia University Teachers College, Boston University and the University of Illinois--tested what effect typewriters might have on the educational achievement of elementary school students.

With a grant from a typewriter manufacturing firm (Royal), which provided manual portable machines, studies were conducted with 900 fourth and fifth grade pupils in 36 classrooms in seven cities. The results showed that the kids took to the typewriters eagerly that the quality and quantity of their work improved and that their reading, spelling and vocabulary achievement was greater than that of pupils without typewriters.

A recent follow-up study of some of the children who were matched with a control group of nontyping children indicates that this generally superior achievement has been maintained over the past five years.

One surprising bonus that may allay the fears of traditionalists: Handwriting of the students actually improved because of the typing experiment.

FACING FREEDOM

So many Americans, unaware or unwilling to be aware of the present threat to their freedom, say, "What are we in danger of losing?" That is a question based on negative thinking. Suppose we ask, instead, "What are we gaining? Where is the free world advancing?"

The answer has to be, "We are not gaining anything. The enemy is gaining."

His gains are evident in the world at large. They are taking place, too, in the United States.

The communist threat to freedom cannot be evaluated solely or even primarily in terms of the numbers of avowed members of the anti-freedom conspiracy. It is altogether foolish to accept the theory that there is nothing to fear from communism in America because there are comparatively few members of the Communist Party, U. S. A.

The communists boast that for every official party member in the U. S. there are at least ten fellow-travelers, sympathetic non-members, and dupes. Also they can depend on some of the most powerful people in public life to decry anti-communism. The peril cannot be measured simply by arithmetic.

Even today in Soviet Russia only three per cent of the population are communists. Only 33 million or so communists in a world-wide network control approximately one billion people.

We are not gaining; the enemy is gaining. We can be saved only by Americans as dedicated to freedom as the communists are dedicated to their false ideology.

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Those who watch President Johnson's conduct of American foreign policy, close-up, note an interesting difference between his tactics and those of his immediate predecessors.

Johnson has been less mercurial than either Kennedy, Eisenhower, or Truman. But, once he makes a foreign policy decision, he really gives it the old college try. There is nothing complacent about his policies, as with Ike; nothing philosophical, as with Kennedy.

Johnson gets in with all the persuasive push that his restless personality can muster. He reads the cables, is up day and night, on the phone to his Secretaries of State and Defense, and especially is he out to get the backing of Congress.

During the current Vietnamese crisis, the President has been on the phone frequently to Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., to thank him for Republican support; on the phone to certain columnists to suggest they write in praise of Dirksen; and when Senators Frank Church, Idaho, and George McGovern, South Dakota, both Democrats, were critical of Johnson's policy, he had Vice President Humphrey, who is close to both, give them the old fraternity sales talk.

—CONSULTING CONGRESS—

He has also held patient, painstaking briefings for members of Congress. At one of these he began:

"Bob Taft told me at the start of the Korean War: 'I wouldn't have objected to President Truman's sending troops into Korea. If I had been President I would have done the same thing. But I did object to his sending troops without consulting Congress.'

"I don't want to have another Bob Taft," the President added to the Congressmen, "so I'm consulting Congress. I had the leaders in to see me before we started operations in North Viet Nam, and now I'm consulting you.

At another briefing, this time confined to Senators, he began: "There was once a Senator who thought he knew more about war and peace than the President and who predicted peace just before world war."

Johnson didn't name the Senator, but everyone figured it was the late Sen. William E. Borah, Idaho Republican, and that the President was taking an indirect slap at Sen. Frank Church, also of Idaho, who has criticized the Vietnamese policy.

After the briefing, Johnson and Church had a private talk, standing to one side against the wall. The President was very cordial, did only about half the talking.

Other Senators waited for them to finish, then said good night. Remarked Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn.: "If Church had just surrendered we could have gone home thirty minutes ago."

—REPUBLICANS WILL TURN—

At a subsequent briefing, the President had a friendly talk with another Democratic critic, Sen. McGovern. One of the points McGovern made was: "The Republicans may be for you now, but the minute things in Viet Nam go sour, they'll turn against you."

McGovern had in mind a private meeting of Eisenhower strategists on the sixth floor of New York's Commodore Hotel in the fall of 1952, at which time the polls showed Ike was not pulling the women's or the young people's vote. Republican strategists were worried.

A special study had been ordered to find out how these votes could be weaned away from the Democrats. It showed that among women and young people the Korean War was highly unpopular.

As a result, it was decided that Eisenhower would charge the Democrats with responsibility for the Korean War. "Bring The Boys Home" was proposed as the GOP slogan. The issue, it was agreed, should be handled on two levels. At the highest level Ike would announce that he would go to Korea to see if the war might be ended. At the lower level there was to be a broadside attack on the Democrats for getting the United States into war.

Literature was proposed showing how Woodrow Wilson, a Democrat, got the nation into World War I; Roosevelt, another Democrat, into World War II; and Harry Truman, a Democrat, started the Korean War.

Present at the meeting were Herbert Brownell, later Attorney General; Henry Luce, publisher of Time, Life, and Fortune; De Witt Wallace, publisher of Reader's Digets; and five or six other strategists.

Following this conference, Life Magazine came out with ghastly pictures of American wounded and dead, GOP orators in the Midwest used papier-mache coffins on the stage labeled "Korean War Dead" or at times "Democratic War Dead"; and the Democrats were labeled the "War Party."

After the election, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, stunned by the mass defections from labor ranks, paid for a careful poll to ascertain the reason for labor defections. The poll showed that women and young people had deserted the Democrats on the issue of the Korean War.

Republicans, remember all this, figure that they can bring up Viet Nam in the 1966 Congressional election and again in 1968. If Johnson pulls out of Viet Nam they can charge him with appeasement. If he doesn't they claim he is the fourth Democratic President to get the United States into war.

Strikeless Germany, Peacefully Automating, So Prosperous It Now Imports a Million Workers, Including Americans

Washington, D. C.: -- In a few days two experts will fly to the little town of Oberhausen (the Ruhr), Germany in search of answers to what has been mystifying many of America's leaders.

Among the answers sought will be why does the U. S. get hit by a series of trip-hammer strikes over automation on the rail, waterfront, newspapers, and mass factories - but booming Germany does not?

Why are there over four million jobless in the U. S. -- and not any unemployment whatsoever in Germany. Repeat: none whatsoever.

Everybody is working in the Federal Republic of Germany. In fact there is wild competition for workers. Firms dispatch their airplanes to Portugal, Greece and Turkey to recruit factory hands. Workers come from all over the world -- including 4,500 from the U. S.

So great are the opportunities in West Germany that, for the first time, U. S. citizens are going east, not west in search of a living. Daily there flows into the office of Herman Bremer, labor attache in the German embassy here, letters from Americans seeking jobs in his country.

These American workers are referred to the Central Bureau for Labor Placement in Frankfurt. And the U. S. citizens migrate -- not to "the old country" but to what to them is a new country where jobs and more jobs are always available.

Why this prosperity there? Why no pockets of poverty such as we have in Appalachia?

Why on Sept. 30, 1964, were there 985,616 foreign workers in Germany? Why were they being made welcome across open borders while we were closing ours to willing and honorable Mexican workers?

A search for answers is leading the two - man mission, Theodore W. Kheel, counselor and ace mediator who dynamically helped to settle the last, long New York newspaper strike, and Elmer Walker, the big machinists union secretary-treasurer to Oberhausen.

There, the world's biggest union will be running an automation conference later this month.

Kheel and Walker have been named by industrialist John I. Snyder, one of the leaders of the American Foundation on Automation, to sit in with the 200 scientists and 300 labor leaders invited to the Ruhr by the sponsoring Metal Workers' Industrial Union (I. G. Metall).

This organization, almost unknown to the public outside Germany, has over 1,900,000 members. They work on everything involving metal -- ships, autos, steel, electronics, wires, etc.

This union is at the core of the industrial complex which has skyrocketed the German economy. In the past I. G. Metall and the nation's 15 other country-wide unions have applauded automation. They have not fought it. There have been no strikes over the electronic brain.

Is it this attitude which has put Germany in such a prosperous condition that it cannot find manpower within its borders? Is this responsible for German firms flying big aircraft into foreign countries to woo workers and bring them back, and build barracks, and set up special kitchens for cooking of native foods?

So ardently wooed are some of these workers, they are even flown back to their home countries for special visits. During the recent Christmas season one firm put a small armada into the air to fly Greek workers back to Greece for their holidays.

This manpower crisis is so tight, firms such as General Motors no longer can build inside Germany. They are going to the Lowlands. But even there the businessmen compete with the Germans' recruiting drives in Spain, Portugal, Turkey, Greece, Italy and even northern Africa.

There is no unemployment. So Kheel and Walker will try to determine why all youths in Europe can find jobs and why there is 15 per cent youth joblessness in the U. S.

Why are all unskilled workers absorbed in the Western democracies, but not in the U. S.?

How do the businessmen who need automation desperately and the union chiefs who seek job security for their members, live peacefully and prosperously together?

Is it a sign of the times that Germany and Sweden and the Lowlands are strike-free while the U. S. is ripped by civil war on the industrial front?

ELIZABETH SAVES A FORT

In 1782, Wheeling, W. Va., was comprised of fewer than 30 log cabins. Nearby was Fort Henry, the main defense for the rustic village.

That same year, a white renegade named Simon Girty led a small army of Indians. Girty had one thing in mind during those times when the United Colonies were battling the British. Girty wanted loot. As a result, West Virginia was fighting the Red Coats and Girty's red men at the same time.

One day, a small band of men was sent out of the fort to investigate a large cloud of smoke on the horizon -- a likely sign that Girty and his men were approaching. Like the other frontier women in the fort, Elizabeth Zane shuddered at the thought of the possibility of more fighting.

The men in the reconnoitering party from the fort never returned. Girty's Indians ambushed and killed them. Soon after, Girty's entire band attacked the fort.

The Indians formed a firing line outside Fort Henry and poured on incessant fire at the 20 riflemen inside. The battle lasted for six hours.

To their horror, the fort defenders then found they would soon be out of gun powder. All of the men volunteered to try to get powder at the cabin of Col. Ebenezer Zane, the founder of what is now known as Wheeling.

Zane's sister, Elizabeth, stepped forward to volunteer. The men laughed, if somewhat nervously, until Betty's logic sunk home: Surely the Indians would kill any man who left the fort, but being strange creatures, the Indians might not be so drastic if a woman tried it. Besides, she said, her plan would fool the savages.

All agreed to the plan, though it seemed an extremely foolish idea.

Elizabeth's strategy was simple, and it worked. She merely strolled out of the fort. She didn't run or scamper. She walked. The Indians were dumbfounded by the sight. By the time they realized what might be happening, Elizabeth was out of sight.

At her brother's house, she explained the situation at the fort. Colonel Zane opened a keg of powder, poured it into a tablecloth, and fashioned a rather high-explosive bundle for his sister to carry.

This time, Elizabeth ran. Her cargo was a bulky one that aroused suspicion at once. She fled across a small hill, then down it to the fort. Bullets spat up dirt all around her.

At last young Elizabeth staggered into the fort with the gunpowder.

The men loaded their weapons and fired back. The sudden increase of fire discouraged the Indians and they fell back. The fort was saved.

Candelight is probably the oldest form of illumination still in vogue. The first candles were made from wood, rushes, or grass cord dipped in fat or pitch. Tallow, beeswax, and vegetable wax, such as bayberry, were supplemented by spermaceti, stearine and paraffin. The first twisted strands, used for centuries, were finally replaced by plaited wicks as recently as 1825. Candles were made by dipping into melted tallow or by pouring into molds, which was the method used in Colonial times. Modern candles are machine made in much the same manner.

A READER'S IDEA OF

1. My name.
2. A front page story showing how crooked the city government is most of the time.
3. My wife's name.
4. A feature story showing 25 ways on how to cheat on income tax forms.
5. My kids' names.
6. Local news item about the affair my neighbor is having.
7. A classified ad offering a new home for $4,000.
8. More news about lawbreakers.
9. Less news about lawbreakers. (I was picked up last night and I should not have to pay a fine, nor be publicized.)
10. An editorial condemning high school teachers for being too liberal with "Fs."
11. A wedding picture of the groom instead of the bride when he is more handsome than she is pretty.
12. A sports picture of me when I bowled 163.
14. More advertisements on things that merchants are giving away.
15. Less stuff about how cute everybody else's kids are. My kids are better looking than they are.
16. A complete biographical sketch about the "most important citizen in town," and spell my name right.

(Editor's note: The Standard's loyal readers are the salt of the earth and the above list doesn't apply to any of them. Well, maybe just one or two or so.)

There has been a good deal of talk in California lately about telecasting executions from San Quentin. Many people are in favor of it as a deterrent, and many against it. One woman was halted on an Oakland street by a poll-taker and asked, "Would you like to see an execution on television?"

"Yes," she exclaimed.

"And why?" the interviewer asked.

"Because," she explained, "I've always loved television."

A mountain-boy was brought into court for fighting. "What's this all about?" asked the judge.

"Well Judge," replied the boy, "I was in a phone booth talking to my gal when this guy comes along and wants to use the phone. He grabbed me by the neck and threw me out on my head."

"Then you got angry?" asked the judge.

"I was a little sore at that," replied the boy, "but I really got mad when he grabbed my gal and threw her out too."

It's never pleasant to see pictures of Uncle Sam being burned in effigy. When the pictures come from an old and valued friend of this country--the Philippines -- it is distinctly upsetting.

Filipinos burned Uncle Sam in front of the gates of the U. S. embassy in Manila in reaction to the shooting of trespassers on American military bases.

This and other anti-American demonstrations have protested not only the shootings -- and deaths--but the fact that the United States exercises jurisdiction in cases involving base security and where the Americans involved are on official duty. In some cases, the United States claims jurisdiction over its own nationals, on or off U. S. bases.

The Philippines have had a special and close relationship with the United States throughout this century. While we never considered them as a colony, we looked on ourselves as, if not their mother country, at least their benevolent stepfather.

Maybe some clinging vestiges of that attitude are part of the present friction between what ought to be two equals.

DON'T DISCOUNT GRANDPA WHEN IT COMES TO WORK

It may be too early for unemployed senior citizens to start dancing in the streets, but age prejudice in the employment office is becoming less and less prevalent.

Eight years ago an article in the Catholic Digest--widely circulated and reprinted--told of the efforts of the country's Forty Plus Clubs to fight age discrimination in business and industry.

More and more companies, the Catholic Digest finds, are learning that it doesn't pay to set up age barriers.

Among them:

Results: higher productiveness, less absenteeism, more interest in the job.

Any idea that may help children learn more, learn it faster and like it is worth looking into in this day of "exploding knowledge."

Back in 1959, three major universities--Columbia University Teachers College, Boston University and the University of Illinois--tested what effect typewriters might have on the educational achievement of elementary school students.

With a grant from a typewriter manufacturing firm (Royal), which provided manual portable machines, studies were conducted with 900 fourth and fifth grade pupils in 36 classrooms in seven cities. The results showed that the kids took to the typewriters eagerly that the quality and quantity of their work improved and that their reading, spelling and vocabulary achievement was greater than that of pupils without typewriters.

A recent follow-up study of some of the children who were matched with a control group of nontyping children indicates that this generally superior achievement has been maintained over the past five years.

One surprising bonus that may allay the fears of traditionalists: Handwriting of the students actually improved because of the typing experiment.

FACING FREEDOM

So many Americans, unaware or unwilling to be aware of the present threat to their freedom, say, "What are we in danger of losing?" That is a question based on negative thinking. Suppose we ask, instead, "What are we gaining? Where is the free world advancing?"

The answer has to be, "We are not gaining anything. The enemy is gaining."

His gains are evident in the world at large. They are taking place, too, in the United States.

The communist threat to freedom cannot be evaluated solely or even primarily in terms of the numbers of avowed members of the anti-freedom conspiracy. It is altogether foolish to accept the theory that there is nothing to fear from communism in America because there are comparatively few members of the Communist Party, U. S. A.

The communists boast that for every official party member in the U. S. there are at least ten fellow-travelers, sympathetic non-members, and dupes. Also they can depend on some of the most powerful people in public life to decry anti-communism. The peril cannot be measured simply by arithmetic.

Even today in Soviet Russia only three per cent of the population are communists. Only 33 million or so communists in a world-wide network control approximately one billion people.

We are not gaining; the enemy is gaining. We can be saved only by Americans as dedicated to freedom as the communists are dedicated to their false ideology.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Those who watch President Johnson's conduct of American foreign policy, close-up, note an interesting difference between his tactics and those of his immediate predecessors.

Johnson has been less mercurial than either Kennedy, Eisenhower, or Truman. But, once he makes a foreign policy decision, he really gives it the old college try. There is nothing complacent about his policies, as with Ike; nothing philosophical, as with Kennedy.

Johnson gets in with all the persuasive push that his restless personality can muster. He reads the cables, is up day and night, on the phone to his Secretaries of State and Defense, and especially is he out to get the backing of Congress.

During the current Vietnamese crisis, the President has been on the phone frequently to Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., to thank him for Republican support; on the phone to certain columnists to suggest they write in praise of Dirksen; and when Senators Frank Church, Idaho, and George McGovern, South Dakota, both Democrats, were critical of Johnson's policy, he had Vice President Humphrey, who is close to both, give them the old fraternity sales talk.

—CONSULTING CONGRESS—

He has also held patient, painstaking briefings for members of Congress. At one of these he began:

"Bob Taft told me at the start of the Korean War: 'I wouldn't have objected to President Truman's sending troops into Korea. If I had been President I would have done the same thing. But I did object to his sending troops without consulting Congress.'

"I don't want to have another Bob Taft," the President added to the Congressmen, "so I'm consulting Congress. I had the leaders in to see me before we started operations in North Viet Nam, and now I'm consulting you.

At another briefing, this time confined to Senators, he began: "There was once a Senator who thought he knew more about war and peace than the President and who predicted peace just before world war."

Johnson didn't name the Senator, but everyone figured it was the late Sen. William E. Borah, Idaho Republican, and that the President was taking an indirect slap at Sen. Frank Church, also of Idaho, who has criticized the Vietnamese policy.

After the briefing, Johnson and Church had a private talk, standing to one side against the wall. The President was very cordial, did only about half the talking.

Other Senators waited for them to finish, then said good night. Remarked Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn.: "If Church had just surrendered we could have gone home thirty minutes ago."

—REPUBLICANS WILL TURN—

At a subsequent briefing, the President had a friendly talk with another Democratic critic, Sen. McGovern. One of the points McGovern made was: "The Republicans may be for you now, but the minute things in Viet Nam go sour, they'll turn against you."

McGovern had in mind a private meeting of Eisenhower strategists on the sixth floor of New York's Commodore Hotel in the fall of 1952, at which time the polls showed Ike was not pulling the women's or the young people's vote. Republican strategists were worried.

A special study had been ordered to find out how those votes could be weaned away from the Democrats. It showed that among women and young people the Korean War was highly unpopular.

As a result, it was decided that Eisenhower would charge the Democrats with responsibility for the Korean War. "Bring The Boys Home" was proposed as the GOP slogan. The issue, it was agreed, should be handled on two levels. At the highest level Ike would announce that he would go to Korea to see if the war might be ended. At the lower level there was to be a broadside attack on the Democrats for getting the United States into war.

Literature was proposed showing how Woodrow Wilson, a Democrat, got the nation into World War I; Roosevelt, another Democrat, into World War II; and Harry Truman, a Democrat, started the Korean War.

Present at the meeting were Herbert Brownell, later Attorney General; Henry Luce, publisher of Time, Life, and Fortune; De Witt Wallace, publisher of Reader's Digets; and five or six other strategists.

Following this conference, Life Magazine came out with ghastly pictures of American wounded and dead, GOP orators in the Midwest used papier-mache coffins on the stage labeled "Korean War Dead" or at times "Democratic War Dead"; and the Democrats were labeled the "War Party."

After the election, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, stunned by the mass defections from labor ranks, paid for a careful poll to ascertain the reason for labor defections. The poll showed that women and young people had deserted the Democrats on the issue of the Korean War.

Republicans, remember all this, figure that they can bring up Viet Nam in the 1966 Congressional election and again in 1968. If Johnson pulls out of Viet Nam they can charge him with appeasement. If he doesn't they claim he is the fourth Democratic President to get the United States into war.

Inside Labor

By VICTOR RIESEL

Strikeless Germany, Peacefully Automating, So Prosperous It Now Imports a Million Workers, Including Americans

Washington, D. C.: -- In a few days two experts will fly to the little town of Oberhausen (the Ruhr), Germany in search of answers to what has been mystifying many of America's leaders.

Among the answers sought will be why does the U. S. get hit by a series of trip-hammer strikes over automation on the rail, waterfront, newspapers, and mass factories - but booming Germany does not?

Why are there over four million jobless in the U. S. -- and not any unemployment whatsoever in Germany. Repeat: none whatsoever.

Everybody is working in the Federal Republic of Germany. In fact there is wild competition for workers. Firms dispatch their airplanes to Portugal, Greece and Turkey to recruit factory hands. Workers come from all over the world -- including 4,500 from the U. S.

So great are the opportunities in West Germany that, for the first time, U. S. citizens are going east, not west in search of a living. Daily there flows into the office of Herman Bremer, labor attache in the German embassy here, letters from Americans seeking jobs in his country.

These American workers are referred to the Central Bureau for Labor Placement in Frankfurt. And the U. S. citizens migrate -- not to "the old country" but to what to them is a new country where jobs and more jobs are always available.

Why this prosperity there? Why no pockets of poverty such as we have in Appalachia?

Why on Sept. 30, 1964, were there 985,616 foreign workers in Germany? Why were they being made welcome across open borders while we were closing ours to willing and honorable Mexican workers?

A search for answers is leading the two - man mission, Theodore W. Kheel, counselor and ace mediator who dynamically helped to settle the last, long New York newspaper strike, and Elmer Walker, the big machinists union secretary-treasurer to Oberhausen.

There, the world's biggest union will be running an automation conference later this month.

Kheel and Walker have been named by industrialist John I. Snyder, one of the leaders of the American Foundation on Automation, to sit in with the 200 scientists and 300 labor leaders invited to the Ruhr by the sponsoring Metal Workers' Industrial Union (I. G. Metall).

This organization, almost unknown to the public outside Germany, has over 1,900,000 members. They work on everything involving metal -- ships, autos, steel, electronics, wires, etc.

This union is at the core of the industrial complex which has skyrocketed the German economy. In the past I. G. Metall and the nation's 15 other country-wide unions have applauded automation. They have not fought it. There have been no strikes over the electronic brain.

Is it this attitude which has put Germany in such a prosperous condition that it cannot find manpower within its borders? Is this responsible for German firms flying big aircraft into foreign countries to woo workers and bring them back, and build barracks, and set up special kitchens for cooking of native foods?

So ardently wooed are some of these workers, they are even flown back to their home countries for special visits. During the recent Christmas season one firm put a small armada into the air to fly Greek workers back to Greece for their holidays.

This manpower crisis is so tight, firms such as General Motors no longer can build inside Germany. They are going to the Lowlands. But even there the businessmen compete with the Germans' recruiting drives in Spain, Portugal, Turkey, Greece, Italy and even northern Africa.

There is no unemployment. So Kheel and Walker will try to determine why all youths in Europe can find jobs and why there is 15 per cent youth joblessness in the U. S.

Why are all unskilled workers absorbed in the Western democracies, but not in the U. S.?

How do the businessmen who need automation desperately and the union chiefs who seek job security for their members, live peacefully and prosperously together?

Is it a sign of the times that Germany and Sweden and the Lowlands are strike-free while the U. S. is ripped by civil war on the industrial front?

Mrs. Barnett Honored With Bridal Shower

Mrs. David E. Barnett was honored with a bridal shower and tea March 6 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. with Misses Linda Jarvis and Elaine Dockins as hostesses at the Jarvis home, 18 Green Meadows. They were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Jarvis and Mrs. Dockins.

As the guests arrived, they placed the gifts on a table covered with a white lace trimmed cloth. Linda and Elaine assisted the honoree in opening the many gifts.

The serving table was beautifully decorated with a white Italian cut-work cloth. It was centered with an arrangement of pink roses and grapes. Candelabra appointed either side of the table. Pink tapers adorned the candelabra. The guests were served assorted cakes, nuts and mints from silver compotes. Punch was served from a crystal punch bowl and spiced tea from a silver tea service by the hostesses.

Sikeston Art League To Have Art Show

The Sikeston Art League will present a second annual art show May 1 and 2, as a part of the Festival of the Arts, at the Sikeston Holiday Inn. Due to considerable inquiry from artists outside the Sikeston area, this year entries will be accepted from any individual, high school age or over, who is a resident of Southeast Missouri.

Art work exhibited must be original. Drawings and paintings of pen and ink, charcoal, pastels, water colors and oils and sculpture of wire, wood and other appropriate, durable materials will be accepted. All drawings and paintings must be appropriately framed and prepared for hanging. The number of entries by an individual will be limited to three, except by special invitation. Only work which has been completed within the last five years will be exhibited. Work entered this year should not have been exhibited previously in Sikeston.

Entries must be in by April 23 to Mrs. Carl G. Popp, 916 Allen Blvd., Sikeston, accompanied by an appropriate card. All articles will be carefully labeled to ensure against loss and every precaution will be taken to see that each is safe from damage, however, the Art League assumes no responsibility for loss, damage or breakage to any work exhibited.

Three prizes will be awarded; judges first choice, $50.00; judges second choice, $35.00; judges third choice, $15.00; and a number of honorable mention ribbons will also be awarded.

The Art League wishes to remind all artist who are interested in exhibiting in this years show to start early, now, selecting and preparing articles to be exhibited.

Twelve Attend W.S.C.S. Meet

MOREHOUSE -- The Women's Society of Christian Service met Monday afternoon, March 8th in the Fellowship Room of the Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist Church in Morehouse for their business meeting, with twelve members present.

The meeting opened by singing hymn, "Beneath The Cross Of Jesus" with Mrs. James Estep at the piano. Mrs. Leslie Frazier was the leader of Devotion. Her scripture reading was from Psalms 24, followed by a Meditation taken from the Upper Room entitled, "Whatever You Are Doing, Do It As In The Presence Of God." She also presented an article on the meaning of Lent and closed with prayer.

A business meeting, under the direction of President Mrs. Nelson Gruen, was opened with the corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Dillon, calling the Roll Call. Each member present answered with a scripture verse. Minutes from the previous meeting was read and approved. 83 Sick Calls and 46 Get Well Cards were sent for the months of January and February. A letter was read by Mrs. Charles Allbright, which had been sent to Mrs. Leslie Frazier from Mrs. Elizabeth Overby, a Methodist Missionary in India. Old and new business was called for. The meeting adjourned with prayer by Mrs. Fred McWilliams. Those present other than those previously mentioned were Mrs. Wendell Fox, Mrs. Dessie Shepherd, Mrs. Frank Kesler, Mrs. Veda Cook, Mrs. Gladys Crumpecker and Mrs. A. W. Summers.

A panel, entitled "In Our Forests Are Many Mansions" was led by Mrs. Thatcher Scism. The views were presented by Mrs. A. L. Waller, Mrs. William Proffer, Mrs. R. L. Guthrie, Mrs. Harold Lewis and Mrs. W. C. Winstead.

ANN LANDERS
Answers your problems

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a 23-year-old homosexual who was classified 4-F. He wanted to know what to tell friends and relatives who kept pestering him with questions about why he was not in the army. You told the young man not to feel under any obligation to give details to anyone--including his mother.

Do you realize what you did to every 23-year-old male on the West Coast who is not in the army because he has back trouble, a trick knee or a heart murmur?

The day that letter appeared in print five people asked me if I had read Ann Landers' column. Then they looked at me funny. It so happens that I am 23 years old and that I live on the West Coast. I am also a 4-F --for reasons which I will not go into here. Sometimes I think you cause more trouble than you do good. Why don't you retire and check into an old folk's home? -- 4- F and Normal.

Dear Norm: I'm a little under age for the old folk's home and I like my work too much to retire, but I'm sorry I made trouble for you.

Every day, someone, somewhere gets mad at me because a letter that appeared in the column is uncomfortably similar to his problem.

When this occurs, denials are useless. Remember -- he who excuses himself accuses himself.

Dear Ann Landers: Eighteen months ago I became engaged to Rex. We were both 21 and had gone together two years. Ten days after my parents announced our engagement at a lovely party, Rex told me the horrible news.

He had gotten an 18-year-old girl in trouble and would have to marry her. I never heard the girls' name before that night and here he had been seeing her on the sneak for over a year.

I was a college junior and had to drop out for the remainder of the semester because I was too ill to get out of bed. It took months of therapy before I was able to leave the house and face my friends. I'm proud to say I made a good adjustment and am now dating and having a good time.

Last night Rex called and begged me to meet him at a cafe. He sounded very upset so I agreed. He tells me he hates his wife and he's not sure the baby is his. He wants to get a divorce and marry me. He says life isn't worth living and he'll commit suicide if I don't take him back.

I loved him once but now I'm confused and afraid to become involved. Please help me.--ANNAMARIE

Dear A: This character is poison. He is also married and a father. Tell him to stay away from you and to work out his problems as best he can. You owe him nothing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 14 years old (a boy) with a problem that none of my friends seem to have.

My Dad is always asking me to call up certain business people on the telephone. I'm supposed to look up the number, get the party on the line then call him. Sometimes I feel like a jerk because I can't think of anything to say.

Last night I told my Dad I didn't want to make the calls any more and he said, "I don't care whether you want to or not. I do plenty of things I don't want to do. This won't kill you."

How about it? Is my father fair? --RATTLED ROBERT

Dear Rattled: Yes, he's fair. It's a joy (and sometimes a shock) to encounter a teen-ager who can speak courteously and intelligently to an adult he knows much less a stranger. Don't fight it. It's good training.

Parents are people--they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "How to Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. Barnett Honored With Bridal Shower

Mrs. David E. Barnett was honored with a bridal shower and tea March 6 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. with Misses Linda Jarvis and Elaine Dockins as hostesses at the Jarvis home, 18 Green Meadows. They were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Jarvis and Mrs. Dockins.

As the guests arrived, they placed the gifts on a table covered with a white lace trimmed cloth. Linda and Elaine assisted the honoree in opening the many gifts.

The serving table was beautifully decorated with a white Italian cut-work cloth. It was centered with an arrangement of pink roses and grapes. Candelabra appointed either side of the table. Pink tapers adorned the candelabra. The guests were served assorted cakes, nuts and mints from silver compotes. Punch was served from a crystal punch bowl and spiced tea from a silver tea service by the hostesses.

Melissa Nelson Celebrates 7th Birthday Sunday

Melissa Nelson celebrated her 7th birthday Sunday afternoon with a party given in her honor by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nelson of 209 West Center Street. Several games were played with Susan Dement and Sharon Watson winning prizes. After which all fished for small gifts.

Those attending and presenting gifts were Joy Griffin, Penny Wyman, Gaya Love, Noel Cooper, Debbie and Sharon Watson, Ginger Pharris, Kay Meredith, Marsha and Susan Dement. Sending gifts were Mrs. Emma DeWitt, Berneda DeWitt, Marty and Scotty Nelson.

After opening gifts refreshments of cake, sodas and potato chips were served along with favors for each child. Assisting Mrs. Nelson were Mrs. Barbara Love, Mrs. Neva Pharris and Zelma DeWitt.

Two business associates were discussing their boss.

"Oh, I don't think Smedley is such a bad Joe," the first protested.

"Don't even mention that guy to me!" thundered the second. "In my book, he's strictly persona au gratin."

Sikeston Art League To Have Art Show

The Sikeston Art League will present a second annual art show May 1 and 2, as a part of the Festival of the Arts, at the Sikeston Holiday Inn. Due to considerable inquiry from artists outside the Sikeston area, this year entries will be accepted from any individual, high school age or over, who is a resident of Southeast Missouri.

Art work exhibited must be original. Drawings and paintings of pen and ink, charcoal, pastels, water colors and oils and scultpure of wire, wood and other appropriate, durable materials will be accepted. All drawings and paintings must be appropriately framed and prepared for hanging. The number of entries by an individual will be limited to three, except by special invitation. Only work which has been completed within the last five years will be exhibited. Work entered this year should not have been exhibited previously in Sikeston.

Entries must be in by April 23 to Mrs. Carl G. Popp, 916 Allen Blvd., Sikeston, accompanied by an appropriate card. All articles will be carefully labeled to ensure against loss and every precaution will be taken to see that each is safe from damage, however, the Art League assumes no responsibility for loss, damage or breakage to any work exhibited.

Three prizes will be awarded; judges first choice, $50.00; judges second choice, $35.00; judges third choice, $15.00; and a number of honorable mention ribbons will also be awarded.

The Art League wishes to remind all artist who are interested in exhibiting in this years show to start early, now, selecting and preparing articles to be exhibited.

Twelve Attend W.S.C.S. Meet

MOREHOUSE -- The Women's Society of Christian Service met Monday afternoon, March 8th in the Fellowship Room of the Rauch-Spence Memorial Methodist Church in Morehouse for their business meeting, with twelve members present.

The meeting opened by singing hymn, "Beneath The Cross Of Jesus" with Mrs. James Estep at the piano. Mrs. Leslie Frazier was the leader of Devotion. Her scripture reading was from Psalms 24, followed by a Meditation taken from the Upper Room entitled, "Whatever You Are Doing, Do It As In The Presence Of God." She also presented an article on the meaning of Lent and closed with prayer.

A business meeting, under the direction of President Mrs. Nelson Gruen, was opened with the corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Dillon, calling the Roll Call. Each member present answered with a scripture verse. Minutes from the previous meeting was read and approved. 83 Sick Calls and 46 Get Well Cards were sent for the months of January and February. A letter was read by Mrs. Charles Allbright, which had been sent to Mrs. Leslie Frazier from Mrs. Elizabeth Overby, a Methodist Missionary in India. Old and new business was called for. The meeting adjourned with prayer by Mrs. Fred McWilliams. Those present other than those previously mentioned were Mrs. Wendell Fox, Mrs. Dessie Shepherd, Mrs. Frank Kesler, Mrs. Veda Cook, Mrs. Gladys Crumpecker and Mrs. A. W. Summers.

Rev. John Rhame To Continue Present Position

The First Church of the Nazarene, Sikeston, has voted to continue their present Pastoral relation for the next four years. Rev. John Rhame has accepted this invitation.

Rev. Rhame came to Sikeston in August of 1961. The church has grown both numerically and financially in that time. The church has added air conditioning and added several other improvements to the church and parsonage in that length of time.

This past year, the church had a mortgage burning ceremony and have started a savings account that they plan to apply to building a new sanctuary.

Woman's Club Has Meeting

The Woman's Club of Sikeston met Tuesday, March 9, in the Public Library with 37 members and two guests present.

The president, Mrs. Fred Steward, called the meeting to order. Mrs. W. C. Winstead served as second vice-president in the absence of Mrs. W. A. Smith. Mrs. Thatcher Scism, first vice-president and program leader, introduced Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Spencer.

The club honored the memory of Mrs. C. L. Blanton in a special memorial service. Mrs. Fred Steward lighted a white candle and Rev. Spencer sang a hymn in the form of a prayer. She was the last charter member of the Sikeston Club which was organized in January of 1914.

Mrs. Eva Mow, ways and means chairman, reported the annual House Party conducted by the Club in the home of Effie Campbell was a great success and thanked Miss Campbell for making the project possible.

Mrs. H. G. Cathey, citizenship chairman, reported on the effort she had made in the Sophomore Pilgrimage program, a W. F. W. C. project to be held in Jefferson City on April 13.

It was announced that the club is sponsoring a scout troop, Cadette Troop #22 lead by Mrs. Joe Mills. The club is also sponsoring a high school senior, Dian Dickerson in the Hallmark Art Contest. Hallmark offers three scholarship awards. This is a General Federation of Women's Club project.

On the motion of Mrs. J. W. Foley, the club voted to participate in the selection of a candidate in the Man of the Year program sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

The president appointed the nominating committee of Mrs. Harry Young, Mrs. M. E. Montgomery, and Mrs. William Proffer. The auditing committee is Mrs. Harold Lewis and Mrs. W. C. Winstead.

The Sikeston Club were guests of the Wednesday Club of Benton Thursday night, March 10, at 7:30 p.m.

After the business session closed, the members enjoyed a social hour. Hostess were Mrs. Fred Geske, Mrs. M. S. Gwinn and Mrs. Guy Calvin. A St. Patrick's Day motif was carried out by the hostesses.

The program was on the Department of Conservation. Mrs. H. G. Cathey presented Biblical verses from Forest and Flame in the Bible. She was assisted by Mrs. Stella Emory, Mrs. J. W. Foley, Mrs. W. G. Funk, Mrs. Edna Husband, Mrs. Mildred Meyer, Mrs. M. E. Montgomery, Mrs. R. D. Mow, Mrs. L. M. Schroff, Mrs. J. S. Wallace, Mrs. W. C. Winstead, Mrs. Ed Swann, Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. Harry Young, Mrs. Fred Steward and Mrs. Lynn Waggener.

A panel, entitled "In Our Forests Are Many Mansions" was led by Mrs. Thatcher Scism. The views were presented by Mrs. A. L. Waller, Mrs. William Proffer, Mrs. R. L. Guthrie, Mrs. Harold Lewis and Mrs. W. C. Winstead.

ANN LANDERS
Answers your problems

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a 23-year-old homosexual who was classified 4-F. He wanted to know what to tell friends and relatives who kept pestering him with questions about why he was not in the army. You told the young man not to feel under any obligation to give details to anyone--including his mother.

Do you realize what you did to every 23-year-old male on the West Coast who is not in the army because he has back trouble, a trick knee or a heart murmur?

The day that letter appeared in print five people asked me if I had read Ann Landers' column. Then they looked at me funny. It so happens that I am 23 years old and that I live on the West Coast. I am also a 4-F --for reasons which I will not go into here. Sometimes I think you cause more trouble than you do good. Why don't you retire and check into an old folk's home? -- 4- F and Normal.

Dear Norm: I'm a little under age for the old folk's home and I like my work too much to retire, but I'm sorry I made trouble for you.

Every day, someone, somewhere gets mad at me because a letter that appeared in the column is uncomfortably similar to his problem.

George Tucker Makes Second Team All-Star

(By Dan Whittle)
Standard Sports Editor

Ronnie Dunning was the only unanimous choice on the SEMO all-conference team this year. He is a forward for the Poplar Bluff Mules and over the season he averaged stuffing in 16.4 points per game. Also he is the lone repeater from last year's squad.

TIES FOR REST

After you wade through Dunning you run into quite a unique problem. For the second position you have Jerr Culbertson (Kennett), and Leon Hennecke (Jackson), with eight points each. Even more baffling than that, for the next two slots you come up with Sylvester Johnson (Cape Central), Gordon McKee (Dexter), and Eddie Lane (Fredericktown) all having seven each. What you gonna do? - - Well you gonna put them all on the first team. If I were a coach they all would be good enough to make my team.

TUCKER ON SECOND

George Tucker was the only Bulldog to make any of the first three teams. He came in the second slot on the second team behind Mike Bremerman from Central. After Tucker comes Brian Belknap for the Mules, Larry Smith for Perryville, and Steve Mitchell of the Mules. Sikeston had no one on the third team, and only two in the honorable mention list.

Perryville along with Sikeston did not place any men on the first team.

DUNNING'S CONSISTENCY

This year Dunning hit for a 16.4 point per game average and 75% from the charity line. Last year as a junior he had an average of 16.6 points per game while shooting for 73% from the free throw line.

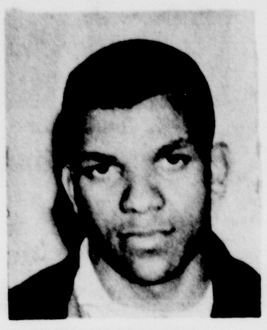

BULLDOGS REGISTER

The Bulldogs had better luck in the "B" division than the Varsity. On the first team they placed John L. Mitchell. On the second team they placed Raymond Carlock. And on the third team they placed David Burns. They could really be a lift to the Bulldogs in their next season of roundball.

NAIA Semi-Finals Are Interesting

KANSAS CITY (AP)—It's unheralded Ouachita Baptist of Arkansas vs. surprising Oklahoma Baptist and unbeaten, top-seeded Central State of Ohio vs. Fairmont of West Virginia in the NAIA semifinals tonight.

Ouachita, 26-9, has more defeats than the other three teams combined but shouldn't be sold short. These upstarts from Arkadelphia, Ark., made the round of four by shocking third-sealed Southern U. of Louisiana 65-64 on a pair of four shots by little David Kossover with three seconds left.

Oklahoma Baptist, seeded 15th clipped Winston-Salem, N.C. 71-62; Central survived a score to beat Augsburg, Minn., 66-57, and Fairmont ended a 23-game winning streak by St. Benedict's of Kansas 103-87 before 8,900 fans.

The Central—Fairmont game will be at 7 p.m. with Oklahoma Baptist and Ouachita at 9 p.m.

Ouachita's Tigers, coached by Bill Vining, upset 10th-seeded Lincoln of Missouri and 7th-seeded Lewis of Illinois in their first two games.

They did the job against Southern's taller club with a tough defense and a control load offense. Leon Clements, 6-6 pivot averaging 27 points a game, missed 10 minutes in the last half with an ankle injury, but returned for two big goals in the final minute.

His last goal pulled Ouachita within one point, 64-63, with 17 seconds left. Then Robert Moore stole a Southern pass seven seconds from the end and the 5-9 Kossover was fouled trying to work the ball in to Clements.

Oklahoma Baptist has won 16 in a row en route to a 24-6 record. One of its early season defeats was to Ouachita. Albert Tucker, 6-8, and Jim Hagan, 6-6 led the victory over Winston-Salem.

Fairmont, 32-2, isn't impressive physically, but a smart hustling bunch of accurate shooters. Bill Moody, a skinny 6-6 freshmen, came off the bench with 34 points, all from 12-22 feet. Its playmaker, 5-8 Ted Darcus, had 22 points, 18 assists and several steals.

Central Ohio, 28-0, was led by 6-6 Kenneth Wilburn, a strong rebounder with an uncanny touch on tip-ins. Augsburg, with 6-10 Dan Anderson scoring 30, was down only 58-57 when Central went into its stall.

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — The parents of the late Utah State University basketball star, Wayne Estes, filed a $271,500 suit against the city of Logan Thursday.

The suit in behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Estes, Anaconda, Mont., alleges negligence by an agent or agents of the city led to the accidental electrocution of their son Feb. 8.

Estes walked into a live wire knocked down by a car accident. He was named posthumously to The Associated Press All-America team.

Logan Mayor Theral V. Bishop said the city will make reply to the suit within 90 days.

DORADO, P.R. (AP) — Art Wall Jr. and Jay Dolan faced a rough task today if they hope to finish the Puerto Rican Open Tournament in a tie as they did a year ago.

Starting the second round of the 72-hole golf competition over the Dorado Hilton course, Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., was three strokes back of the leaders, Al Besselink of Grossinger, N.Y., Wes Ellis Jr., of West Caldwell, N.J., and Joe Jimenez of Jefferson City, Mo., tied with three-under-par 69s.

Dolan, of Leicester, Mass., was further back with a 76. Last year Dolan and Wall tied at the end of the regulation 72 holes at 289 and Wall won in a four-hole playoff.

Cowboys Are Favorites, But Barely

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—If there is a favorite for the NCAA Mid-west Regional Basketball Championship, it's Henry Iba's cautious Cowboys from Oklahoma State—but not by much.

"For the first time in five or six years, there is no clear-cut favorite," said Thompson, who took the Wheatshockers to the Missouri Valley championship in his first year as coach after a long apprenticeship under the departed Ralph Miller.

"There is no one outstanding team, no team that stands above the others," he said after the Shockers went through their last drill before tonight's regional semifinals. "The team that puts together the best back-to-back efforts will win it."

The pairings have Oklahoma State, 19-7, playing Houston, 19-8 and Wichita, 19-6, meeting Southern Methodist, 16-9, with the winners playing Saturday for a spot in the national semi-finals at Portland, Ore., next week.

None of the teams are ranked nationally and the field appears to be the lightest and best balanced of the four regionals.

Oklahoma State has the best record in the mid-west and nailed down the biggest plus—the Big Eight title. It was the one jewel that had eluded Iba in his long career that includes more than 700 victories, 14 Missouri Valley titles, the NCAA championships and an Olympic gold medal team.

His team is the usual Iba aggregation. It concentrates on defense, plays a slow, cautious, waiting offense, wins the close ones and is exceptionally well-coached.

The Cowboys use a tough sinking man-to-man defense that has allowed only 55.6 points a game. Probably the most impressive statistics—in a tourney such as this—is their ability in the clutch. They have won in one, three and four overtimes, and have lost only twice since December.

Their biggest problem is lack of height, with 6-7 Gene Johnson and 6-5 Jim King the big men. The scoring is well balanced, Johnson averaging 10.2, King—the best defensive player—12.4, Gene Hassman, 12.5 and Larry Hawk 11.2. Iba's son, Skip, is the fifth man.

Houston, with good depth, plays a fast break game with full court defense. Southern Methodist, which won a playoff for the right to represent the Southwest Conference, has the best rebounding. Backcourt man Kelly Pete is the ace of the Wichita team. He averages 16.5 points a game and is called by Thompson "the biggest 6-1 player I ever saw."

The Poplar Bluff Mules came in third in scoring in the Dexter Class "L" Regional, but still they took first place honors. Cape Central, who took a second in the tournament, scored 205 points. Dexter took fourth while scoring 181 points. Poplar Bluff took first while scoring only 177 points. And Jackson took third place with 171 points.

The Mules had the biggest point spread of any of the teams 177-149. Central's was 205-195, Dexter's was 181-184, and Jackson's was 171-179.

NATIONAL WILDLIFE WEEK OBSERVANCE

National Wildlife Week, scheduled for March 14-20 this year, is one of the many worthwhile conservation education projects sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation, headquartered in Washington, D. C.

Representing some two million members of state conservation organizations, individual contributors and associate members, the Federation was organized in 1938 to coordinate citizen efforts in sound management of the nation's natural resources -- soils, waters, forests, rangelands and wildlife -- through educational programs. The Federation publishes the bimonthly CONSERVATION NEWS, the weekly CONSERVATION REPORT, and provides numerous conservation education leaflets for teachers and school children, and other services as part of its educational program. The privately-financed organization also awards, each year, a number of scholarships and fellowships to college students majoring in conservation and distributes information on conservation problems to the public through newspapers, radio and television stations.

The observance of National Wildlife Week is conducted at the local level by sportsmen's clubs, conservation clubs and other groups which are members of the state affiliate of the National Wildlife Federation. Valuable assistance is provided by state government conservation agencies.

This year National Wildlife Week will focus public attention on the problem of pollution control and prevention in America's streams, rivers, lakes and reservoirs. Using the slogan -- "FIGHT DIRTY WATER" -- the Federation is seeking public awareness and support in efforts to ensure adequate, clean water supplies so necessary to America's growth and prosperity.

Aparicio And Kaat Sign Pacts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The list of unsatisfied major league baseball players was dwindling fast today following the signing of veteran shortstop Luis Aparicio by the Baltimore Orioles and southpaw Jim Kaat by the Minnesota Twins.

When Kaat signed for an estimated $26,000 Thursday and the 30-year-old Aparicio agreed to a salary of about $40,000, only four first-line players remained unsigned.

Still trying to get together with their bosses are Richie Allen, the Phillies' sensational third base rookie last season; veteran outfielder Wes Covington, also of Philadelphia, and Felix Torres, Los Angeles Angels third baseman. Of course, there also is Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, but he is at his Puerto Rico home convalescing from malaria fever.

Kaat, who had been training at Orlando, Fla., but not with the Twins, received a raise of some $8,500 over last season, when he posted a 17-11 record and a 3.22 earned run average.

Aparicio based his demand for more money on a 1964 record of a career high of 10 homers, a batting average of .266 and finishing No. 1 in the American League in stolen bases for the ninth straight season. He stole 57 last year.

The Phillies and Allen and Covington remained far apart.

Most of the other clubs were all set for the first full-scale schedule of exhibition games Saturday.

Cleveland launched its spring-training agenda in Mexico Tuesday night and Thursday the New York Yankees, using their home-run trademark to an advantage, whipped the Washington Senators 4-3 at Pompano Beach, Fla.

Mickey Mantle, batting in the leadoff spot, and Elston Howard, in the No. 3 slot, cracked out home runs to provide three of the Yanks' runs.

George Tucker Makes Second Team All-Star

(By Dan Whittle)
Standard Sports Editor

Ronnie Dunning was the only unanimous choice on the SEMO all-conference team this year. He is a forward for the Poplar Bluff Mules and over the season he averaged stuffing in 16.4 points per game. Also he is the lone repeater from last year's squad.

TIES FOR REST

After you wade through Dunning you run into quite a unique problem. For the second position you have Jerr Culbertson (Kennett), and Leon Hennecke (Jackson), with eight points each. Even more baffling than that, for the next two slots you come up with Sylvester Johnson (Cape Central), Gordon McKee (Dexter), and Eddie Lane (Fredericktown) all having seven each. What you gonna do? - - Well you gonna put them all on the first team. If I were a coach they all would be good enough to make my team.

TUCKER ON SECOND

George Tucker was the only Bulldog to make any of the first three teams. He came in the second slot on the second team behind Mike Bremerman from Central. After Tucker comes Brian Belknap for the Mules, Larry Smith for Perryville, and Steve Mitchell of the Mules. Sikeston had no one on the third team, and only two in the honorable mention list.

Perryville along with Sikeston did not place any men on the first team.

DUNNING'S CONSISTENCY

This year Dunning hit for a 16.4 point per game average and 75% from the charity line. Last year as a junior he had an average of 16.6 points per game while shooting for 73% from the free throw line.

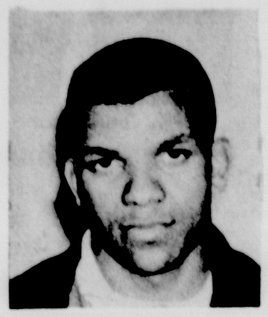

BULLDOGS REGISTER

The Bulldogs had better luck in the "B" division than the Varsity. On the first team they placed John L. Mitchell. On the second team they placed Raymond Carlock. And on the third team they placed David Burns. They could really be a lift to the Bulldogs in their next season of roundball.

Questions and Answers about Tax Problems

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q -- I worked as a salesman for an appliance store last year. I now work for another employer, but my former employer has not sent me my W-2. What should I do?

A -- Have you moved? Maybe the W-2 was sent to your old address. In any event, contact your former employer. He can prepare a duplicate W-2 for you if necessary.

A --Changes have been made in the provisions on capital loss carryovers. Can you tell me how they will affect the investor?

A -- Under the previous provisions, capital losses could only be carried over for the next five years. Further, whether the loss was long term or short term, when it was carried over it was identified as a short term loss. Under the 1964 law, capital losses may be carried over indefinitely. These losses also retain their original character. In other words, a short term loss is carried over as a short term loss -- a long term loss is carried over as a long term loss.

The new treatment of capital losses will apply to such losses incurred in the 1964 tax year and thereafter. Capital losses being carried over to 1964 will continue to be treated as short term losses but can be carried over until used up.

A -- I smoke a carton of cigarettes a week. How much can I deduct on my tax return?

A -- Under the new law, state and local taxes specifically imposed on cigarettes are no longer deductible. Check the instructions you received with your tax return to find the taxes which are still deductible.

Q -- I took a winter vacation this year. As a result, I didn't cash my December paycheck until after I returned in January. Should I include this money with 1964 or 1965 income?

A -- The December paycheck is 1964 income and has been included in the totals listed on your W-2. The general rule for checks is that they are taxable in the year they are received, regardless of when they are cashed.

A -- You may round off your figures to the nearest dollar. Items under 50¢ can be listed as the next lowest dollar, 50¢ or more to the highest dollar.

While such rounding off of dollars amounts is permitted, estimates of expenses, deductions and income are not acceptable. Items listed on a return require proper substantiation.

Q -- There isn't enough room on the tax form to list all my employers last year. Should I list them on a separate piece of paper?

A -- This year you do not list your employers on your tax return. Just total the amounts shown on the W-2's and enter the total on the return. Don't forget to include the W-2's, however.

Q -- My husband died last year. What part of the funeral and burial expenses can I deduct as medical expenses on my income tax return?

A -- None. The law does not consider these to be medical expenses.

Q -- Are students exempt from income tax?

A -- No. Students are like any other taxpayer group. While most scholarships are exempt from tax, students must report and pay tax on any other income they receive -- $600 or more gross income.

Q -- Recently we gave away our piano to our church. It had been used by our daughter who is now married and living some distance from us. Is there anything we can deduct as a charitable contribution for the piano?

A -- In such cases, the fair market value of the articles or merchandise donated may be taken as a charitable contribution when deductions are itemized. Check the instructions on contributions for donations of property.

Q -- I recently received a statement from my bank listing the interest that had been credited to my account for the year. Should I file this with my return along with my W-2?

A -- No. A copy of this record was also sent to Internal Revenue. Your copy serves as a reminder of the amount of interest credited to your account by a particular bank of savings institution so that you can report it correctly.

The Hungry Millions

EDITOR'S NOTE — In a dramatic race against time, scientists everywhere are seeking ways to increase the world's food supply before the hungry of the earth rebel. The big question: Is there time? The following last of five articles explores what is being done to solve the food problem.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Modern technology knows how to turn back the menacing specter of widespread famine. The big question is this: Is there time?

Themeans are available. But the economies of the hungry nations are so laggard that it will take much time for them to develop the ability to absorb and distribute what the West can produce.

Western scientists consider the problem urgent. Many think that the application of technology to methods of increasing fresh water supplies, reclaiming land destroyed by man's waste and avarice, and to closing the "protein gap" offer hope for the future.

Time, the experts stress over and over, is the critical element. They add that consequences to northern civilization can be extremely costly if the famine menace in the hungry world is not averted.

The problems are staggering. Science is attacking them determinedly with such things as availability of fresh water, availability of tillable land, large-scale production and distribution of fertilizer — and production of synthetic foods.

Blessed by abundance, people in the rich North Atlantic world seldom ponder how precious a commodity is water, how much is needed to produce food.

Crops & Soils, an American agronomists' publication, cites findings of U.S. experts that it takes 16 tons of water to produce a bushel of corn, 64 tons for a bushel of soybeans. Prof. J. R. A. MacMillan, dean of the agriculture faculty at Sydney (Australia) University, estimates it takes aton of water to produce one egg; 2.5 tons for a loaf of bread, 15 tons for a gallon of milk, by the time all the natural processes are completed.

Petroleum researchers have plunged into the problem of increasing world food supplies. Already, petroleum research has played a huge part in the rich world's agricultural revolution. Today, the average American farm worker produces enough to feed 28 persons. Fifty years ago he could feed only 7.

Only about 3.3 billion acres in the world produce food. It requires half an acre to feed one person at subsistence level. The margin is slim and grows slimmer as population increases by 180,000 a day.

Underdeveloped areas have billions of arid acres. A little moisture could make much difference. There is moisture under the sand, but winds shift it too much to permit vegetation to take hold. Test areas are being coated with a petroleum product to hold sand in place until vegetation can reach the moisture-bearing soil and take root. Potentially, the deserts can bloom.

The industry is working on rainmaking. Rain comes from clouds formed by moist air being deflected upwards by hills. Scientists, on the principle that dark surfaces retain heat, create "thermal mountains" by coating strips of coastal land with black asphalt. Surface temperatures increase. Warm air rises to create conditions like those which would be created by mountains.

Such processes as desalting water by atomic or other means remain expensive, but are the sources of rising hopes.

Standard Oil of New Jersey and others, much involved in experiments with land reclamation and food research, also have aimed their sights at the "protein gap."

Micro-organisms, when fed selected hydrocarbons of high purity, flourish and reproduce. These are killed and dried, transformed into a white powder like dried milk, virtually tasteless. This, scientists say, can be used as an additive in many foods. It is described as high in protein content, containing substantial quantities of B vitamins and all the essential amino acids for animal or human nutrition.

Scientists say the process can produce protein 2,500 times as fast as plants and animals at one-fifteenth or less the cost of meat proteins. The supply could be almost limitless. Scientists say three million tons of protein can be produced from one per cent of the present paraffinic crude oil production. Thus, the process could go a long way toward closing the "protein gap."

The process has been tested on animals, found safe, and highly nutritious. It needs approval by governments for human use, plus acceptance abroad of an unfamiliar product, always more a problem in poor than in developed areas.

Ordinary sources of protein—milk, eggs, fish, meat and certain vegetables — are expensive, and protein alone is not enough. The body also needs the energy yield of minerals and vitamins. But protesting malnutrition is the No. 1 problem and the costliest to overcome.

Many attacks are being launched against the food problem—experiments with distribution of flavored soybeans, with oilseed cakes, use of fish meal, food from the sea in the form of plankton and algae, and experiments with various other sources of nutrition.

The problems are many, however. One is to bring a protein supply within the economic reach of hungry countries. This seems to require economic development of poorer countries, and that takes precious time. There are other problems, among the most important of which is that of international cooperation. But the stakes are big, especially in a world witnessing a struggle between two philosophies of life.

"Abolishing hunger," Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said not long ago, "is in the self-interest of the American people. Abolishing hunger can be the crowning achievement of democracy."

But — is there time?

Late Missouri Legislature Happenings

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Legislature got the parochial school bus bill back in its lap Thursday.

The proposal was resubmitted in the House, this time in the form of a constitutional amendment that would require a vote of the people.

It was offered by Rep. James Russell, D-St. Louis County, and 20 other representatives.

Like a bill that is stuck in a Senate committee and apparently dead for this session, it would authorize use of public funds to provide school bus transportation to public, private and parochial school students.

The House advanced a bill to let old age assistance recipients live with relatives but they would get only a flat $35 a month payment. The maximum is $70 for other pensioners.

The House advanced, too, a bill to increase maximum state payments to old age assistance and disabled recipients to $75 a month. It would cost $3.9 million a year.

Also moved ahead was a bill to provide 50 per cent state aid for the foster home care of neglected children in Jackson and St. Louis counties and the city of St. Louis.

The estimated cost would be $400,000 a year. The plan was recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

The House received a bill to guarantee a minimum salary of $3,000 a year for state employes. The bill had the support of the entire Republican membership and GOP State Chairman Ethan Campbell.

The Senate also got into a battle over the wages of public employes.

Sen Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, brought up his bill to let local and state employes organize into unions and bargain collectively. It would not include police officers.

But the measure ran into trouble when Sen. Ablert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said it would open the gates to the biggest fiscal problem the state ever had.

He objected to including teachers and state employes in the bill and Blackwell finally had to shelve it temporarily.

The House also got new bills to:

Tax motor fuel not used in motor vehicles at 5 cents a gallon and put the proceeds in general revenue.

Allow a former state employe to get reduced retirement benefits so the rest could go to his spouse after his death.

Lift the $7,500 salary limitation on which state employes can contribute to the retirement fund.

Raise the pay of the state agriculture commissioner from $12,000 a year to $18,500.

Require the registration of liquor brand names at a cost of $1,000.

Provide a chemical test for suspected drunken drivers, similar to one in Senate Committee.

The House advanced a bill to increase state aid to junior colleges to $300 a year per student, instead of $200, and base it on 24 semester hours instead of 30. It would cost an estimated $2.8 million a year.

Also advanced was a bill to provide workmen's compensation protection for student nurses and volunteers at state mental institutions.

A central records management bill was passed by the House Wednesday.

A—Greenbelt, Md., completed in 1936.

Q—What kind of apple did Adam and Eve sample?
A—Biblical scholars generally think this was an apricot tree. There were no apple trees as we know them in Mesopotamia or Palestine.

From the time of the ancient cliff dwellers who inhabited the region, Zion's colorful, deep, narrow canyons have intrigued the minds of pioneers . . . and tourists. Spanish padres came in 1776, fur traders followed some fifty years later, and in 1858, while settling the area they called "Dixie", the Mormons found the beautiful gorge and christened it "little Zion."

Zion is indeed the serious student's paradise. The geologist may read the story of the ages in its multi-colored cliffs and gorges of shale, limestone and sandstone. Those who are inclined to botanical subjects will find a variety of trees and flowers, even a beautiful hanging garden, to study and enjoy. And the biologist may see foxes, chipmunks, cougars, mountain lions, mule deer, lizards, bobcats, squirrels and many kinds of birds throughout the park.

Zion National Park covers an area of some 225 square miles and was designated as a national park in 1919. It is an all-year park with excellent cabin, lodge and dining facilities from May 15, to October 1, and towns near the park offer a wide variety of accommodations the year around.

Plan to visit Zion on your next vacation . . . you'll find it one of the experiences of a lifetime!

The Hungry Millions

EDITOR'S NOTE — In a dramatic race against time, scientists everywhere are seeking ways to increase the world's food supply before the hungry of the earth rebel. The big question: Is there time? The following last of five articles explores what is being done to solve the food problem.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Modern technology knows how to turn back the menacing specter of widespread famine. The big question is this: Is there time?

Themeans are available. But the economies of the hungry nations are so laggard that it will take much time for them to develop the ability to absorb and distribute what the West can produce.

Western scientists consider the problem urgent. Many think that the application of technology to methods of increasing fresh water supplies, reclaiming land destroyed by man's waste and avarice, and to closing the "protein gap" offer hope for the future.

Time, the experts stress over and over, is the critical element. They add that consequences to northern civilization can be extremely costly if the famine menace in the hungry world is not averted.

The problems are staggering. Science is attacking them determinedly with such things as availability of fresh water, availability of tillable land, large-scale production and distribution of fertilizer — and production of synthetic foods.

Blessed by abundance, people in the rich North Atlantic world seldom ponder how precious a commodity is water, how much is needed to produce food.

Crops & Soils, an American agronomists' publication, cites findings of U.S. experts that it takes 16 tons of water to produce a bushel of corn, 64 tons for a bushel of soybeans. Prof. J. R. A. MacMillan, dean of the agriculture faculty at Sydney (Australia) University, estimates it takes a ton of water to produce one egg; 2.5 tons for a loaf of bread, 15 tons for a gallon of milk, by the time all the natural processes are completed.

Petroleum researchers have plunged into the problem of increasing world food supplies. Already, petroleum research has played a huge part in the rich world's agricultural revolution. Today, the average American farm worker produces enough to feed 28 persons. Fifty years ago he could feed only 7.

Only about 3.3 billion acres in the world produce food. It requires half an acre to feed one person at subsistence level. The margin is slim and grows slimmer as population increases by 180,000 a day.

Underdeveloped areas have billions of arid acres. A little moisture could make much difference. There is moisture under the sand, but winds shift it too much to permit vegetation to take hold. Test areas are being coated with a petroleum product to hold sand in place until vegetation can reach the moisture-bearing soil and take root. Potentially, the deserts can bloom.

The industry is working on rainmaking. Rain comes from clouds formed by moist air being deflected upwards by hills. Scientists, on the principle that dark surfaces retain heat, create "thermal mountains" by coating strips of coastal land with black asphalt. Surface temperatures increase. Warm air rises to create conditions like those which would be created by mountains.

Such processes as desalting water by atomic or other means remain expensive, but are the sources of rising hopes.

Standard Oil of New Jersey and others, much involved in experiments with land reclamation and food research, also have aimed their sights at the "protein gap."

Micro-organisms, when fed selected hydrocarbons of high purity, flourish and reproduce. These are killed and dried, transformed into a white powder like dried milk, virtually tasteless. This, scientists say, can be used as an additive in many foods. It is described as high in protein content, containing substantial quantities of B vitamins and all the essential amino acids for animal or human nutrition.

Scientists say the process can produce protein 2,500 times as fast as plants and animals at one-fifteenth or less the cost of meat proteins. The supply could be almost limitless. Scientists say three million tons of protein can be produced from one per cent of the present paraffinic crude oil production. Thus, the process could go a long way toward closing the "protein gap."

The process has been tested on animals, found safe, and highly nutritious. It needs approval by governments for human use, plus acceptance abroad of an unfamiliar product, always more a problem in poor than in developed areas.

Ordinary sources of protein—milk, eggs, fish, meat and certain vegetables — are expensive, and protein alone is not enough. The body also needs the energy yield of minerals and vitamins. But protesting malnutrition is the No. 1 problem and the costliest to overcome.

Many attacks are being launched against the food problem—experiments with distribution of flavored soybeans, with oilseed cakes, use of fish meal, food from the sea in the form of plankton and algae, and experiments with various other sources of nutrition.

The problems are many, however. One is to bring a protein supply within the economic reach of hungry countries. This seems to require economic development of poorer countries, and that takes precious time. There are other problems, among the most important of which is that of international cooperation. But the stakes are big, especially in a world witnessing a struggle between two philosophies of life.

"Abolishing hunger," Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman said not long ago, "is in the self-interest of the American people. Abolishing hunger can be the crowning achievement of democracy."

But — is there time?

The current political campaign seems to be a process of extracting money from the rich and votes from the poor on the pretense of protecting one from the other.

Late Missouri Legislature Happenings

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Legislature got the parochial school bus bill back in its lap Thursday.

The proposal was resubmitted in the House, this time in the form of a constitutional amendment that would require a vote of the people.

It was offered by Rep. James Russell, D-St. Louis County, and 20 other representatives.

Like a bill that is stuck in a Senate committee and apparently dead for this session, it would authorize use of public funds to provide school bus transportation to public, private and parochial school students.

The House advanced a bill to let old age assistance recipients live with relatives but they would get only a flat $35 a month payment. The maximum is $70 for other pensioners.

The House advanced, too, a bill to increase maximum state payments to old age assistance and disabled recipients to $75 a month. It would cost $3.9 million a year.

Also moved ahead was a bill to provide 50 per cent state aid for the foster home care of neglected children in Jackson and St. Louis counties and the city of St. Louis.

The estimated cost would be $400,000 a year. The plan was recommended by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

The House received a bill to guarantee a minimum salary of $3,000 a year for state employes. The bill had the support of the entire Republican membership and GOP State Chairman Ethan Campbell.

The Senate also got into a battle over the wages of public employes.

Sen Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, brought up his bill to let local and state employes organize into unions and bargain collectively. It would not include police officers.

But the measure ran into trouble when Sen. Ablert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said it would open the gates to the biggest fiscal problem the state ever had.

He objected to including teachers and state employes in the bill and Blackwell finally had to shelve it temporarily.

The House also got new bills to:

Tax motor fuel not used in motor vehicles at 5 cents a gallon and put the proceeds in general revenue.

Allow a former state employe to get reduced retirement benefits so the rest could go to his spouse after his death.

Lift the $7,500 salary limitation on which state employes can contribute to the retirement fund.

Raise the pay of the state agriculture commissioner from $12,000 a year to $18,500.

Require the registration of liquor brand names at a cost of $1,000.

Provide a chemical test for suspected drunken drivers, similar to one in Senate Committee.

The House advanced a bill to increase state aid to junior colleges to $300 a year per student, instead of $200, and base it on 24 semester hours instead of 30. It would cost an estimated $2.8 million a year.

Also advanced was a bill to provide workmen's compensation protection for student nurses and volunteers at state mental institutions.

A central records management bill was passed by the House Wednesday.

From the time of the ancient cliff dwellers who inhabited the region, Zion's colorful, deep, narrow canyons have intrigued the minds of pioneers . . . and tourists. Spanish padres came in 1776, fur traders followed some fifty years later, and in 1858, while settling the area they called "Dixie", the Mormons found the beautiful gorge and christened it "little Zion."

Zion is indeed the serious student's paradise. The geologist may read the story of the ages in its multi-colored cliffs and gorges of shale, limestone and sandstone. Those who are inclined to botanical subjects will find a variety of trees and flowers, even a beautiful hanging garden, to study and enjoy. And the biologist may see foxes, chipmunks, cougars, mountain lions, mule deer, lizards, bobcats, squirrels and many kinds of birds throughout the park.

Zion National Park covers an area of some 225 square miles and was designated as a national park in 1919. It is an all-year park with excellent cabin, lodge and dining facilities from May 15, to October 1, and towns near the park offer a wide variety of accommodations the year around.

Plan to visit Zion on your next vacation . . . you'll find it one of the experiences of a lifetime!

Automotive equipment worth more than $1,600 was presented to the Sikeston public schools by Ford Motor Company at 10 a.m. Wednesday in a brief ceremony at the school.

The equipment, a complete eight-cylinder engine and automatic transmission, will be used for classroom instruction in automotive mechanics.

It was presented for the company by Clint Elledge and Bryce Fisher of Sikeston Motor Co., and accepted on behalf of the schools by Superintendent Lynn Twitty and Prin. Harold Kiehne.

Application for the unit was started by Ralph D. Williams former owner of Ralph Williams Motor Co., which had been the local Ford dealership; Albert Burrow, service manager for Sikeston Motor Co.; and Harold Lang, automotive mechanics instructor for the Sikeston public schools.

The donation also includes wall charts and other training aids designed by Ford service experts to assist in the use of the equipment.

Ford and its dealers have for many years made engines, transmissions and other parts available to high schools for use in shop mechanics courses, and to colleges and universities for use in technical training courses.

These aid-to-education contributions are made on a selective basis, depending upon the presence of a full curriculum of automotive subject, the qualifications of the instructor, the number of students involved and the actual need for the equipment.

Since 1957, Ford has donated such training equipment to more than 2,000 schools throughout the country. The company last year donated equipment worth nearly $15,000 to nine Missouri schools.

BEHIND THE SCENES

But Bim is no fool. Out of the circus ring he always tries to do the right thing at the right time. Those winter Sundays in Florida, before the show goes on the road, you might sit next to Bim in church, and never know he is a clown.

And even though on the road, when Sunday is moving day, Bim gets out his old worn Bible and his teacher's guide, and with his own kids, and with all the other "show" kids gathered 'round him, there is Sunday School on the circus train.

You see, Bim is a Christian, living his faith through all the complications of a strange occupation. He is not a mask—he is Bim. He is the churchman of a circus train—the Sunday School teacher of show business. He knows when to put fun and frolic aside, and turn to the Truth by which we live!

The Church invites you and your family to worship next Sunday and every Sunday.

At a party, a guest was asked by the hostess to guess her age. "You must have some idea," she said as he hesitated.

"I have several ideas," he admitted with a smile. "The only trouble is that I hesitate whether to make you 10 years younger on account of your looks, or 10 years older on account of your brains."

BEHIND THE SCENES

But Bim is no fool. Out of the circus ring he always tries to do the right thing at the right time. Those winter Sundays in Florida, before the show goes on the road, you might sit next to Bim in church, and never know he is a clown.

And even though on the road, when Sunday is moving day, Bim gets out his old worn Bible and his teacher's guide, and with his own kids, and with all the other "show" kids gathered 'round him, there is Sunday School on the circus train.

You see, Bim is a Christian, living his faith through all the complications of a strange occupation. He is not a mask—he is Bim. He is the churchman of a circus train—the Sunday School teacher of show business. He knows when to put fun and frolic aside, and turn to the Truth by which we live!

The Church invites you and your family to worship next Sunday and every Sunday.

FITNESS FOR THE KINGDOM

BY REX LESLIE

Do you know that you would have to pay almost twice as much today to buy or build a new home as you would have paid twelve years ago? . . . In other words, you can build only half a home today with the money it took twelve years ago to build a whole house . . . How about that home of yours, do you have enough fire insurance to protect it and its contents at todays prices? We are qualified to help you determine whether or not you are fully insured at todays values. . . And remember, if you're not fully insured. . . it's not enough.

Auto accidents will take more than 40,000 lives this year; but no one can predict who will be a victim. Accidents don't warn us, so to be protected from loss if an accident happens, we have to buy insurance before it happens. It's too late afterwards.

March 12, 1915

Mayor Smith has purchased the old Stallcup homestead on Tanner from Lynn Stallcup for $3,000. This is considered to be a great bargain.

For the month of February the maximum temperature was 65 on the 12th and the minimum was 24 on the 9th.

The W. C. T. U. medal contest was held at the Methodist Church last Friday night. Little Miss Helen Welsh was awarded first honors and Eva Hollister, second.

The Hoosier Land and Investment Co., has sold the 446-acre tract of land belonging to the Myers estate, near Sikeston, to an Illinois party at $127.50 an acre or approximately $76-000.

W. A. Allison has opened a pool room in the Galbraith building on Front street. A barber shop will be installed in the front of the room.

In the spring time, Gentle Annie, when the sap begins to rise and the birds begin to mate, along comes Attorney Roger Bailey singing Harry Lauder's famous song: "I think I'll get wed in the summer time; I think I'll get wed in July!"

All Sikeston should be proud of the quick response given to the call for Charleston by our fire department. It was just 21 minutes from the time the fire truck left the engine house until it was in Charleston. Besides the chemical engines, 2,400 feet of fire hose was carried over. Our sister cities always depend on Sikeston responding to their distress calls.

Mrs. Carl Freeman entertained with a dinner Tuesday night at the home of her mother, Mrs. H. J. Welsh. The guests were : Mrs. Craven Watkins, Misses Lillian Kendall, Mildred Bowman, Irene Caldwell, Mary Ethel Prow, Francoise Black and Helen Dahnke.

Franklin Moore, who has been connected with Foster's Store here, has gone to St. Louis, where he will be employed in the Hotel Statler.

A total of 4.87 inches of rain fell from about 10:30 Saturday night until 10 o'clock Monday morning, according to records kept at the Frisco station by John LaFont.

With virtually all detail work finished or scheduled for completion early this week, the new Rex theatre will open either Friday or next Tuesday, according to present plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Mocabee entertained the following at a waffle supper Saturday night; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Harrison, Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Reuber and Mr. and Mrs. Randol Wilson and daughter, Miss Nan.

Mrs. L. T. Davey had the following at dinner Sunday in honor of her daughter, Miss Ellen, who that day celebrated her birthday: Misses Mildred McCoy, Lucille Hahs, Ruth Bloomfield, and Martha Jane Marshall.

A group of children at play on Vernon avenue last Sunday afternoon were having great fun in taking turns riding a pony belonging to Dub Pratt. When it came time for Betty Dale, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Dale, to ride, the pony gave a start and raced north as fast as his four legs could carry him with the little girl clinging tight to the bridle. Mr. Dale and others managed to corral the frightened steed and lift his little girl to safety.

Eleven seventh-grade girls, who have been meeting regularly since December, have recently been registered as Girl Scout Troop Three. Miss Jeanne Littleton is leader and Mrs. Paul D. Wilson, assistant. Girls registered in this troop are: Lillian Ancell, Bonnie Bolding, Peggy Ann Caverno, Hope Edwards, Betty Sue Keasler, Lenora Lewis, Frances Mattingly, Marilyn Tucker, Mary Nell Van Bibber, Gloria June Wallace, and Nora Lee Wilson.

Seven ninth-grade girls recently re-registered with Girl Scouts, Inc., this time as a separate unit, to be known as Troop Four, with the idea of becoming the first Senior Troop in Sikeston as soon as all have reached the age of 14 years and have completed their work as intermediate scouts. The members are: Barbara Bethune, Mara Lee Cotten, Alice Martin, Daphne McNeely, Ann Schulte, Lawanna Jean Wallace and Barbara Williams.

Hahs Machine Works, which has aided in the training of welders and other mechanics for the nation's war effort, has been approved for the training of war veterans, according to a letter J. Otto Hahs, proprietor, received this week.

Put off your old nature which belongs to your former manner of life. . . ., and put on the new nature, created after the likeness of God in true righteousness and holiness. (Ephesians 4:22, 24, RSV)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, help us to find our strength in Thee. Grant us forgiveness and give us faith so that as sons of Thine we may run well the race of Thy high calling in Christ Jesus, our Savior. In His name we pray. Amen.

Mr. Blanton:
I want to thank you and your staff for the very nice article on Woodhaven Christian Home.

Only parents of mentally retarded or physically handicapped children know what a place like that can mean to them and their children.

The children have a chance to learn to their ability.

I also want to thank everyone who bought tickets for the bean supper and all the donations we received.

I can think of no better purpose your dollar could go for than to help children.

Our son has improved a good deal since he has been there.

Thank you again.

Dear Charlie:
I would like to express my most sincere appreciation to you personally and the Daily Sikeston Standard for their support of the Boy Scout program during the past four years while I have been so fortunate to have been the District Scout Executive.

The gains the district has made in advancements, boy membership, camping, etc. are all due to a great part for your enthusiastic support of Scouting.

I remember well the first day I walked in your office and talked to you slightly over four years ago. I can only at this time say, and most inadequately but most sincerely, "Thank You", on my own behalf and the hundreds of boys who joined through your efforts.

Most appreciatively,
Don Northcott, Sr.

Mr. J. Edgar Hoover
Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation

Dear Mr. Hoover:
You have stated from time to time that Crime and Lawlessness are increasing steadily, in fact alarmingly, and we the American Citizens see the evidence of that fact, We see that the Law enforcement load is encreasing Daily, But Mr. Hoover When our Young as well as the older see people openly flout the established laws, that American Citizens have Lived By and Honored, Since the Birth of this nation, by mobs, ivadeing States and Violently and without Regard for Established Law, and delibertly encourage and engage in Mob Disorder, to Disregard Local Law enforcement, and order, there are communists parading under the False Guise of Christian, or Religous Particiapation, But JESUS, Christ, Specifically Forbade Christians From engageing in Strife, and Also More Specifically from interferring in other Peoples Affairs, Jesus commanded that His People Be in Subjection to those who have rule over them, He Commanded that Servants Obey their Masters, Mr. Hoover the time has arrived when the Communists, should be unmasked, and Shown for What they Really are, Also Mr. Hoover, the Big Question in the Minds of the American People, are How can the Government Ask the People to Have Respect for the Laws when that Same Government encourages and Abets Mobs and Lawlessness, for Certain Groups Who Show No Respect Whatsoever for the Same Laws that the Government, asks other people, to accept and to respect. I have on numerous occasions have heard both young and older say the Government, Please Obey the Laws of the land, and to Certain other peoples say disregard the Laws of the Land, and the established Laws of the State, and go in there and raise all HELL, you can, you see Mr. Hoover, such unwise and unjust Leadership just don't make sense, to any no one we all know that it is the Communists, Plan and their rule to ruin and devide, that is the only way of life they know, and they have no respect for any other way of life.

So Mr. Hoover, the American Citizens who do still Honor our American Way of Life, ask one thing, that you Mr. Hoover, and that is that you tell the American People, just where, we stand, your and our Freedom depends on American Citizens who will not be Bound by the Communists and their Supporters, Speak out Mr. Hoover while there is time.

Yours Very Respectively

Mayor Smith has purchased the old Stallcup homestead on Tanner from Lynn Stallcup for $3,000. This is considered to be a great bargain.

For the month of February the maximum temperature was 65 on the 12th and the minimum was 24 on the 9th.

The W. C. T. U. medal contest was held at the Methodist Church last Friday night. Little Miss Helen Welsh was awarded first honors and Eva Hollister, second.

The Hoosier Land and Investment Co., has sold the 446-acre tract of land belonging to the Myers estate, near Sikeston, to an Illinois party at $127.50 an acre or approximately $76-000.

W. A. Allison has opened a pool room in the Galbraith building on Front street. A barber shop will be installed in the front of the room.

In the spring time, Gentle Annie, when the sap begins to rise and the birds begin to mate, along comes Attorney Roger Bailey singing Harry Lauder's famous song: "I think I'll get wed in the summer time; I think I'll get wed in July!"

All Sikeston should be proud of the quick response given to the call for Charleston by our fire department. It was just 21 minutes from the time the fire truck left the engine house until it was in Charleston. Besides the chemical engines, 2,400 feet of fire hose was carried over. Our sister cities always depend on Sikeston responding to their distress calls.

Mrs. Carl Freeman entertained with a dinner Tuesday night at the home of her mother, Mrs. H. J. Welsh. The guests were : Mrs. Craven Watkins, Misses Lillian Kendall, Mildred Bowman, Irene Caldwell, Mary Ethel Prow, Francoise Black and Helen Dahnke.

Franklin Moore, who has been connected with Foster's Store here, has gone to St. Louis, where he will be employed in the Hotel Statler.

A total of 4.87 inches of rain fell from about 10:30 Saturday night until 10 o'clock Monday morning, according to records kept at the Frisco station by John LaFont.

With virtually all detail work finished or scheduled for completion early this week, the new Rex theatre will open either Friday or next Tuesday, according to present plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Mocabee entertained the following at a waffle supper Saturday night; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Harrison, Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Reuber and Mr. and Mrs. Randol Wilson and daughter, Miss Nan.

Mrs. L. T. Davey had the following at dinner Sunday in honor of her daughter, Miss Ellen, who that day celebrated her birthday; Misses Mildred McCoy, Lucille Hahs, Ruth Bloomfield, and Martha Jane Marshall.

A group of children at play on Vernon avenue last Sunday afternoon were having great fun in taking turns riding a pony belonging to Dub Pratt. When it came time for Betty Dale, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Dale, to ride, the pony gave a start and raced north as fast as his four legs could carry him with the little girl clinging tight to the bridle. Mr. Dale and others managed to corral the frightened steed and lift his little girl to safety.

Eleven seventh-grade girls, who have been meeting regularly since December, have recently been registered as Girl Scout Troop Three. Miss Jeanne Littleton is leader and Mrs. Paul D. Wilson, assistant. Girls registered in this troop are: Lillian Ancell, Bonnie Bolding, Peggy Ann Caverno, Hope Edwards, Betty Sue Keasler, Lenora Lewis, Frances Mattingly, Marilyn Tucker, Mary Nell Van Bibber, Gloria June Wallace, and Nora Lee Wilson.

Seven ninth-grade girls recently re-registered with Girl Scouts, Inc., this time as a separate unit, to be known as Troop Four, with the idea of becoming the first Senior Troop in Sikeston as soon as all have reached the age of 14 years and have completed their work as intermediate scouts. The members are: Barbara Bethune, Mara Lee Cotten, Alice Martin, Daphne McNeely, Ann Schulte, Lawanna Jean Wallace and Barbara Williams.

Hahs Machine Works, which has aided in the training of welders and other mechanics for the nation's war effort, has been approved for the training of war veterans, according to a letter J. Otto Hahs, proprietor, received this week.

Put off your old nature which belongs to your former manner of life. . . ., and put on the new nature, created after the likeness of God in true righteousness and holiness. (Ephesians 4:22, 24, RSV)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, help us to find our strength in Thee. Grant us forgiveness and give us faith so that as sons of Thine we may run well the race of Thy high calling in Christ Jesus, our Savior. In His name we pray. Amen.

Mr. Blanton:
I want to thank you and your staff for the very nice article on Woodhaven Christian Home.

Only parents of mentally retarded or physically handicapped children know what a place like that can mean to them and their children.

The children have a chance to learn to their ability.

I also want to thank everyone who bought tickets for the bean supper and all the donations we received.

I can think of no better purpose your dollar could go for than to help children.

Our son has improved a good deal since he has been there.

Thank you again.

Dear Charlie:
I would like to express my most sincere appreciation to you personally and the Daily Sikeston Standard for their support of the Boy Scout program during the past four years while I have been so fortunate to have been the District Scout Executive.

The gains the district has made in advancements, boy membership, camping, etc. are all due to a great part for your enthusiastic support of Scouting.

I remember well the first day I walked in your office and talked to you slightly over four years ago. I can only at this time say, and most inadequately but most sincerely, "Thank You", on my own behalf and the hundreds of boys who joined through your efforts.

Most appreciatively,
Don Northcott, Sr.

Mr. J. Edgar Hoover
Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation

Dear Mr. Hoover:
You have stated from time to time that Crime and Lawlessnes s are increasing steadily, in fact alarmingly, and we the American Citizens see the evidence of that fact, We see that the Law enforcement load is encreasing Daily, But Mr. Hoover When our Young as well as the older see people openly flout the established laws, that American Citizens have Lived By and Honored, Since the Birth of this nation, by mobs, ivadeing States and Violently and without Regard for Established Law, and delibertly encourage and engage in Mob Disorder, to Disregard Local Law enforcement, and order, there are communists parading under the False Guise of Christian, or Religous Particiapation, But JESUS, Christ, Specifically Forbade Christians From engageing in Strife, and Also More Specifically from interferring in other Peoples Affairs, Jesus commanded that His People Be in Subjection to those who have rule over them, He Commanded that Servants Obey their Masters, Mr. Hoover the time has arrived when the Communists, should be unmasked, and Shown for What they Really are, Also Mr. Hoover, the Big Question in the Minds of the American People, are How can the Government Ask the People to Have Respect for the Laws when that Same Government encourages and Abets Mobs and Lawlessness, for Certain Groups Who Show No Respect Whatsoever for the Same Laws that the Government, asks other people, to accept and to respect. I have on numerous occasions have heard both young and older say the Government, Please Obey the Laws of the land, and to Certain other peoples say disregard the Laws of the Land, and the established Laws of the State, and go in there and raise all HELL, you can, you see Mr. Hoover, such unwise and unjust Leadership just don't make sense, to any no one we all know that it is the Communists, Plan and their rule to ruin and devide, that is the only way of life they know, and they have no respect for any other way of life.

So Mr. Hoover, the American Citizens who do still Honor our American Way of Life, ask one thing, that you Mr. Hoover, and that is that you tell the American People, just where, we stand, your and our Freedom depends on American Citizens who will not be Bound by the Communists and their Supporters, Speak out Mr. Hoover while there is time.

Yours Very Respectively

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1912, the first patrol of Girl Guides — later the Girl Scouts of America — was organized in Savannah, Ga., by Mrs. Juliette Low.

On this date

Also in 1933, the banner emblazoned with the swastika became the official flag of Germany.

In 1940, a peace treaty was signed in Moscow by Finland and the Soviet Union.

In 1945, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced American forces had invaded the Philippine island of Mindanao.

Five years ago—A three-day battle broke out between political factions in the Belgian Congo.

Noun "key" #4 is 'hay'. It is pronounced exactly the same as our personal pronoun 'I'; and it means, 'there is', 'there are', 'is there', 'are there'.

A) Yes, there is (there are).
B) Si, hay.
C) see/I
A) Is there a book?
B) Hay un libro?
C) I/oon/Lee-bro?
A) No there isn't.
B) No hay.
C) no/I.
A) Are there books?
B) Hay libros?
C) I/LEE-bros.

You can easily see how much latitude this "key" gives you. You can say, 'Is there a room?' 'Are there enough glasses?', 'Is there enough money?', 'Are there many men there?'. (New words will be added as we proceed).

Now let's review our "keys" to nouns:

"Key" #1-A) I have money.
B) Tengo dinero.
C) TANG-go/dee-NAIR-oh.

"Key" #2-A) Where is my book?
B) Donde esta mi libro?
C) DOAN-day/s-TAH/me/LEE-bro.

"Key" #3-A) It is possible.
B) Es posible.
C) s/poe-SEE blay.

"Key" #4-A) There is money.
B) Hay dinero.
C) I/dee-NAIR-oh.

'Hay' and 'es' give you license to say, 'Is there money?', 'Is it possible to eat here?'. All you need do is change the inflection of your voice to indicate a question: 'Hay dinero', (a statement); 'Hay dinero?', (a question); 'Es posible', (a statement); 'Es posible?', (a question).

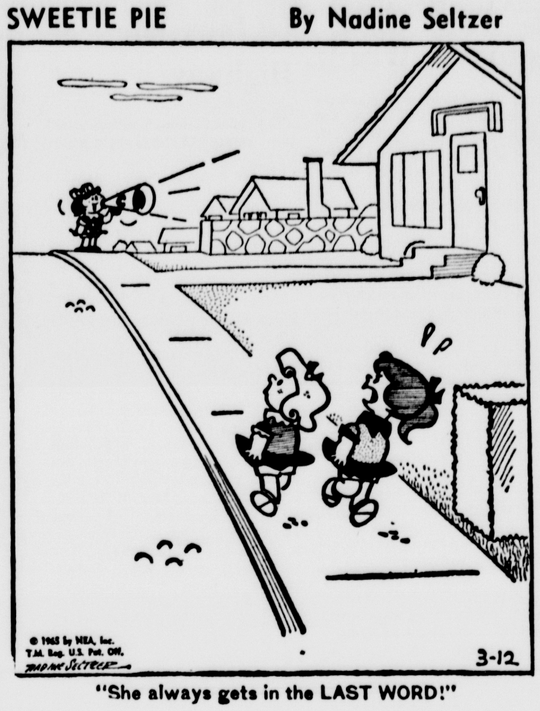

In order to make these statements or questions negative, you simply put the word 'no' in front of them.

Tomorrow we will review the "keys" to nouns again, and also give you a new "key" that will unlock still more Spanish words for you.

Charleston

valuation. In dollars, the amount is $1.4 million, he said, and the 102 children in the area represent 3.3 per cent of the district's enrollment.

What this means in operating cash to the R-1 district, Pierce said, is a yearly loss of $60,000 in state aid and local taxes, which is equivalent to a 43 cent local levy on the reduced tax base.

This $60,000, Pierce explained, is equivalent to the cost of 13 teachers, or to the total cost of operating the R-1 bus system.

Obviously, if the district should lose this area, Pierce said, the loss in revenue would have to be made up in some manner. The only possibilities, he said, would be to raise R-1 taxes some 43 cents on the $100 assessed valuation or to cut down services.

Neither of these possibilities is practical, Pierce said. That kind of a tax levy would probably not meet with R-1 voter approval, he said, and neither R-1 nor R-2 district can afford to cut back on services when they are already offering too few.

Pierce and Board President Woodrow Graham stressed that the R-1 board hoped to head off a clash between the Charleston and East Prairie communities over the boundary dispute. They fear, the two men said, that such a dispute would postpone for many years the possibility of bringing the entire county under a single school administration with a common tax base and common tax rate.

CHARLESTON PROPOSES MERGER WITH EAST PRAIRIE

Graham read a letter which the Charleston board had sent in February to the East Prairie board, urging an immediate merger between the two districts.

Advantages of the merger, the letter said, would be as follows:

The new district would have a tax base of $30 million, second in Southeast Missouri only to Cape Girardeau.

The district would have an enrollment of 5,300 children, largest in Southeast Missouri, and a high school population of 1,400, which would put the district in the top 30 among the 526 high school districts in Missouri.

The new district would be flexible enough to have a modern educational program with 70 units of credit, and an adequate vocational program. It would offer the possibility of county - wide coordination on anti - poverty, Manpower Development Training Act, and industrial development proposals.

The district could continue to operate neighborhood elementary schools and two high schools, and still effect a savings in operation to the taxpayer.

The proposed district would provide equity of cost to all taxpayers in the county, and would end forever the boundary change disputes, which Pierce, in another part of his talk called a "never-ending proposition."

The proposed district could offer a well-coordinated administration of a kindergarten through 12th grade program, and possibly offer some courses on the 13 and 14th grade levels.

Graham reported that the East Prairie board had not formally answered the proposal, but that the Charleston Board had discussed it with Superintendent Ray Melton and R-2 Board President Presson, and that the R-2 board felt the time was not right for such a merger.

In a lively question and answer period after the formal presentation the R-1 officials said the R-2 board indicated that they had nothing to do with instigating the boundary change petition.

"However," the R-1 spokesman said, "if the boundary change is voted down in R-1, and carries in R-2, we will find out if the R-2 board is interested in a peaceful settlement. If they do not request a board of arbitration, the boundary change matter will die.

"If that happens we will be able to work with them to work out a fair settlement of the issue, and to work for merger of the two districts.

"However," the spokesman said, "if the R-2 Board of Education asks for the arbitration board, it will indicate to us that they are not interested in pulling the two districts closer together for the benefit of all children in the county, but rather, that they are interested in attempting to acquire property which they have not serviced. This would be to the detriment of the educational well-being of all our children, by pushing the two communities further away from cooperation."

"Merger of the two districts is the only way to end this boundary-swapping proposition for good," he continued. "There is nothing to prevent either district from getting up yet another petition, and calling for still another boundary change next year. It is difficult to work on educational problems when we constantly have these side issues."

ALDERMAN

Members of the board whose terms are expiring are Lee R. Boyd in Ward One, C. E. LaValle in Ward Two, and John A. Hunter in Ward Three, according to Mrs. Pauline K. Allen, city clerk.

Mrs. Allen said that any person who desires to be a candidate for any of the aldermanic posts must file a written declaration of candidacy with her at her office in the Municipal Building on or before Monday, March 22.

In officially calling the annual election, which is actually set by ordinance, the board appointed election judges for each of the city's three wards and those named are as follows:

Ward One -- Mrs. Elsie Hampton, Mrs. Helen Beaber, Mrs. Marcella Lynn and Mrs. Barbara Jones.

An ordinance was passed by the board in which a dedicated alley between the properties of J. J. Beaher and Gus Murphy on Water Street was vacated with the provision that it can still be used for city utility poles or anchors.

Bill Abbott, who a month ago was appointed as city dog catcher effective March 1, did not accept the position and the board made arrangements with the street department to spend Monday and Thursday mornings of each week catching and impounding stray and unlicensed dogs.

Mayor Robert Riley appointed Clay Broughton as the City of New Madrid representative on the New Madrid County Extension Council, and Broughton's appointment was approved by the board.

Reports of officials were read and approved and the board ordered payment of all current city bills.

COYOTE

coyote went west out of the area between the river and the levee and ran about three miles to an area where the hounds lost it.

In searching out the track they jumped a grey fox and ran it by Vernon Harris of Dexter, who killed it.

After the hounds were caught four more dogs were taken about two miles below where the first group was turned loose. Shortly thereafter they had two more coyotes running. One was run by Carl Cummins of Risco, who killed it with a shotgun. The other coyote turned back south and the dogs stayed with it the rest of the day but the hunters were not able to cut it off and get a shot at it. The coyote Cummins killed weighed 35 to 40 pounds.

Another hunt is being planned and will be announced as soon as details are complete.

Poplar Bluff Doctor Found Dead In River

POPLAR BLUFF — Dr. John L. Wright, 35 year old physician and surgeon at the Lucy Lee Hospital, was found dead in Current River near a family club house west of Reyno, Ark., last night and Randolph County, Ark., authorities said death was due to accidental drowning.

The accident occurred at a point known as the Reyno or Richardson Ferry two and a half miles west of Reyno and 17 and a half miles north of Pocahontas.

He had gone to the club house, owned by his wife's parents' Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cox, after visiting relatives in Pocahontas earlier in the day, his regular day off at the hospital.

When he failed to return here after dark last night, his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Wright, drove to the club house and found his body at the bottom of a stairway leading to the water's edge.

A foot was caught in the bottom step of the stairway and he had fallen or tripped forward. His body was found face down in the water with his feet and legs out of the water.

He was rushed to the Pocahontas, Ark. hospital where efforts to revive him were unsuccessful.

Funeral services will be held at Pocahontas, Ark., Saturday at 2 p.m., in the First Baptist Church.

Convicted of Murder

WEST PLAINS, Mo. AP - Theodore Woodrow Gregg, 40, of Thayer, Mo., was convicted of second degree murder Thursday night in the 1963 rifle slaying of Robert T. King, 47, with whom Gregg shared a home.

Gregg was sentenced to 25 years in prison by Circuit Judge Ben Searcy under the habitual criminal law.

The defense contended both men had been intoxicated and that the shooting was an accident.

Gregg had been convicted in 1956 of stealing and served time in the penitentiary.

Baptists to Have Special Revival Week

Revival services begin Sunday morning, March 14, at the First Baptist Church, 201 South Kingshighway, Sikeston. The pastor, the Rev. James Hackney, will be doing the preaching and Frank Adams of Jonesboro, Ark., will be directing the music. Much preparation and planning have gone into the revival effort, and there is growing anticipation among church members for a genuine revival.

Services begin at 7:30 each night and a nursery will be provided for small children. Special night will be observed each night, with a special emphasis being made on Family Night for Wednesday night, March 17. Youth Night will be observed on Friday night, with the young people filling the choir.

The sermons for each service are listed as follows:

Sunday morning, March 14 (9:15 and 10:30) — "A Pentecostal Program"; Sunday night, March 14 — "Repent or Else!"

Monday night, March 15 — "Halfway Christianity"

Tuesday night, March 16 — "The Call of Our Christ"

Wednesday night, March 17 — "A Spiritual Home"

Thursday night, March 18 — "The Magnetic Christ"

Firday night, March 19 — "How to Find Real Joy"

Saturday night, March 20 — "From Persecutor to Prophet"

Sunday morning, March 21, (9:15 and 10:30) — "Regeneration, the Remedy"

Sunday night, March 21 — "It's Almost Tomorrow"

Friends Replace Beatle HairDo With Brush-Cut

PEMBROKE, N.Y. (AP) — "The girls were wild over my long hair — They thought it was pretty good," said Jeffrey Wetmore, 15, who sports a brush-cut today.

Gone is the Beatle-like hairdo it took him about a year to grow.

Jeff, a high school sophomore, lost the long-hair look — "it was below my shoulders" — when he was shorn by other pupils at Pemborke Central High School. While Jeff said he was unhappy about what happened, his father, Melvin Wetmore, was more so.

The father had asked Justic of the Peace Ralph Kelsey to issue warrants charging third-degree assault against the shearers. Kelsey ruled Thursday night that, while there was evidence the hair was cut, there was not sufficient evidence to prove who cut it.

Over Haul Congress?

WASHINGTON AP - A resolution setting up a special committee to study possible overhaul of Congress was approved Thursday by the House.

Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., named six representatives who will serve with six senators on the committee. They include Reps. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., and Durwood G. Hall, R-Mo.

Senate members will be named later.

Proof Piling Up On Safety Aspects Of Interstate Highways

Latest data is the 1964 Missouri Interstate System Accident Study recently published by the Division of Highway Planning of the Missouri State Highway Department. The annual study compares Interstate accidents to accidents on facilities existing before the Interstate was built.

And it shows that, while Missouri Interstate highways carry 148.6 percent as much travel as previously existing facilities, they have only 26 percent as many accidents, 30 percent as many injuries and 32 percent as many deaths per 100 million vehicle miles of travel.

The study turned up some other interesting aspects to Interstate highway mishaps. For instance, these new superhighways have virtually eliminated head-on and angle collisions. But, while there are fewer accidents on the Interstate system, 90 percent of those which do occur are in the top two groups of porperty damage.

The 1964 Department study covered 51 sections of highways in sixteen counties--Platte, Buchanan, Lafayette, Cooper, Howard, Boone, Callaway, St. Louis, Franklin, Newton, Jasper, Lawrence, Greene, Scott, Mississippi and Cape Girardeau.

These are listed with Interstate first and Existing Hwy. before Interstate second:

Accidents 78.5, 301.8; Injuries 57.2, 187.9; Deaths 3.7, 11.6.

Property Damage

Less than $100 7.5, 50.4; $100 to $500 34.8, 149.9; More than $500 36.2, 101.5.

Types of Accidents:

Rear-end or sideswipe, same direction 30.0, 137.5; Head-on or sideswipe, opposite direction 1.9, 50.2; Angle collision 1.9, 31.7; Collision with pedestrian 0.3, 3.5; Other collision 28.0, 45.6; Non-collision 16.4, 33.3.

Charleston

valuation. In dollars, the amount is $1.4 million, he said, and the 102 children in the area represent 3.3 per cent of the district's enrollment.

What this means in operating cash to the R-1 district, Pierce said, is a yearly loss of $60,000 in state aid and local taxes, which is equivalent to a 43 cent local levy on the reduced tax base.

This $60,000, Pierce explained, is equivalent to the cost of 13 teachers, or to the total cost of operating the R-1 bus system.

Obviously, if the district should lose this area, Pierce said, the loss in revenue would have to be made up in some manner. The only possibilities, he said, would be to raise R-1 taxes some 43 cents on the $100 assessed valuation or to cut down services.

Neither of these possibilities is practical, Pierce said. That kind of a tax levy would probably not meet with R-1 voter approval, he said, and neither R-1 nor R-2 district can afford to cut back on services when they are already offering too few.

Pierce and Board President Woodrow Graham stressed that the R-1 board hoped to head off a clash between the Charleston and East Prairie communities over the boundary dispute. They fear, the two men said, that such a dispute would postpone for many years the possibility of bringing the entire county under a single school administration with a common tax base and common tax rate.

CHARLESTON PROPOSES MERGER WITH EAST PRAIRIE

Graham read a letter which the Charleston board had sent in February to the East Prairie board, urging an immediate merger between the two districts.

Advantages of the merger, the letter said, would be as follows:

The new district would have a tax base of $30 million, second in Southeast Missouri only to Cape Girardeau.

The district would have an enrollment of 5,300 children, largest in Southeast Missouri, and a high school population of 1,400, which would put the district in the top 30 among the 526 high school districts in Missouri.

The new district would be flexible enough to have a modern educational program with 70 units of credit, and an adequate vocational program. It would offer the possibility of county - wide coordination on anti - poverty, Manpower Development Training Act, and industrial development proposals.

The district could continue to operate neighborhood elementary schools and two high schools, and still effect a savings in operation to the taxpayer.

The proposed district would provide equity of cost to all taxpayers in the county, and would end forever the boundary change disputes, which Pierce, in another part of his talk called a "never-ending proposition."

The proposed district could offer a well-coordinated administration of a kindergarten through 12th grade program, and possibly offer some courses on the 13 and 14th grade levels.

Graham reported that the East Prairie board had not formally answered the proposal, but that the Charleston Board had discussed it with Superintendent Ray Melton and R-2 Board President Presson, and that the R-2 board felt the time was not right for such a merger.

In a lively question and answer period after the formal presentation the R-1 officials said the R-2 board indicated that they had nothing to do with instigating the boundary change petition.

"However," the R-1 spokesman said, "if the boundary change is voted down in R-1, and carries in R-2, we will find out if the R-2 board is interested in a peaceful settlement. If they do not request a board of arbitration, the boundary change matter will die.

"If that happens we will be able to work with them to work out a fair settlement of the issue, and to work for merger of the two districts.

"However," the spokesman said, "if the R-2 Board of Education asks for the arbitration board, it will indicate to us that they are not interested in pulling the two districts closer together for the benefit of all children in the county, but rather, that they are interested in attempting to acquire property which they have not serviced. This would be to the detriment of the educational well-being of all our children, by pushing the two communities further away from cooperation."

"Merger of the two districts is the only way to end this boundary-swapping proposition for good," he continued. "There is nothing to prevent either district from getting up yet another petition, and calling for still another boundary change next year. It is difficult to work on educational problems when we constantly have these side issues."

ALDERMAN

Members of the board whose terms are expiring are Lee R. Boyd in Ward One, C. E. LaValle in Ward Two, and John A. Hunter in Ward Three, according to Mrs. Pauline K. Allen, city clerk.

Mrs. Allen said that any person who desires to be a candidate for any of the aldermanic posts must file a written declaration of candidacy with her at her office in the Municipal Building on or before Monday, March 22.

In officially calling the annual election, which is actually set by ordinance, the board appointed election judges for each of the city's three wards and those named are as follows:

Ward One -- Mrs. Elsie Hampton, Mrs. Helen Beaber, Mrs. Marcella Lynn and Mrs. Barbara Jones.

Ward Three - - Mrs. Mary Meier, Louis Magruder, Mrs. Audie Meunier and Mrs. Nina Henderson.

An ordinance was passed by the board in which a dedicated alley between the properties of J. J. Beaher and Gus Murphy on Water Street was vacated with the provision that it can still be used for city utility poles or anchors.

Bill Abbott, who a month ago was appointed as city dog catcher effective March 1, did not accept the position and the board made arrangements with the street department to spend Monday and Thursday mornings of each week catching and impounding stray and unlicensed dogs.

Mayor Robert Riley appointed Clay Broughton as the City of New Madrid representative on the New Madrid County Extension Council, and Broughton's appointment was approved by the board.

Reports of officials were read and approved and the board ordered payment of all current city bills.

COYOTE

coyote went west out of the area between the river and the levee and ran about three miles to an area where the hounds lost it.

In searching out the track they jumped a grey fox and ran it by Vernon Harris of Dexter, who killed it.

After the hounds were caught four more dogs were taken about two miles below where the first group was turned loose. Shortly thereafter they had two more coyotes running. One was run by Carl Cummins of Risco, who killed it with a shotgun. The other coyote turned back south and the dogs stayed with it the rest of the day but the hunters were not able to cut it off and get a shot at it. The coyote Cummins killed weighed 35 to 40 pounds.

Another hunt is being planned and will be announced as soon as details are complete.

Approximately 175 members have been signed up with nearly a month to go until the end of the first quarter membership drive. Club membership has averaged 222 members for the last three years.

Poplar Bluff Doctor Found Dead In River

POPLAR BLUFF — Dr. John L. Wright, 35 year old physician and surgeon at the Lucy Lee Hospital, was found dead in Current River near a family club house west of Reyno, Ark., last night and Randolph County, Ark., authorities said death was due to accidental drowning.

The accident occurred at a point known as the Reyno or Richardson Ferry two and a half miles west of Reyno and 17 and a half miles north of Pocahontas.

He had gone to the club house, owned by his wife's parents' Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cox, after visiting relatives in Pocahontas earlier in the day, his regular day off at the hospital.

When he failed to return here after dark last night, his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Wright, drove to the club house and found his body at the bottom of a stairway leading to the water's edge.

A foot was caught in the bottom step of the stairway and he had fallen or tripped forward. His body was found face down in the water with his feet and legs out of the water.

He was rushed to the Pocahontas, Ark. hospital where efforts to revive him were unsuccessful.

Funeral services will be held at Pocahontas, Ark., Saturday at 2 p.m., in the First Baptist Church.

Convicted of Murder

WEST PLAINS, Mo. AP - Theodore Woodrow Gregg, 40, of Thayer, Mo., was convicted of second degree murder Thursday night in the 1963 rifle slaying of Robert T. King, 47, with whom Gregg shared a home.

Gregg was sentenced to 25 years in prison by Circuit Judge Ben Searcy under the habitual criminal law.

The defense contended both men had been intoxicated and that the shooting was an accident.

Gregg had been convicted in 1956 of stealing and served time in the penitentiary.

Baptists to Have Special Revival Week

Revival services begin Sunday morning, March 14, at the First Baptist Church, 201 South Kingshighway, Sikeston. The pastor, the Rev. James Hackney, will be doing the preaching and Frank Adams of Jonesboro, Ark., will be directing the music. Much preparation and planning have gone into the revival effort, and there is growing anticipation among church members for a genuine revival.

Services begin at 7:30 each night and a nursery will be provided for small children. Special night will be observed each night, with a special emphasis being made on Family Night for Wednesday night, March 17. Youth Night will be observed on Friday night, with the young people filling the choir.

The sermons for each service are listed as follows:

Sunday morning, March 14 (9:15 and 10:30) — "A Pentecostal Program"; Sunday night, March 14 — "Repent or Else!"

Monday night, March 15 — "Halfway Christianity"

Tuesday night, March 16 — "The Call of Our Christ"

Wednesday night, March 17 — "A Spiritual Home"

Thursday night, March 18 — "The Magnetic Christ"

Firday night, March 19 — "How to Find Real Joy"

Saturday night, March 20 — "From Persecutor to Prophet"

Sunday morning, March 21, (9:15 and 10:30) — "Regeneration, the Remedy"

Sunday night, March 21 — "It's Almost Tomorrow"

Friends Replace Beatle HairDo With Brush-Cut

PEMBROKE, N.Y. (AP) — "The girls were wild over my long hair — They thought it was pretty good," said Jeffrey Wetmore, 15, who sports a brush-cut today.

Gone is the Beatle-like hairdo it took him about a year to grow.

Jeff, a high school sophomore, lost the long-hair look — "it was below my shoulders" — when he was shorn by other pupils at Pemborke Central High School. While Jeff said he was unhappy about what happened, his father, Melvin Wetmore, was more so.

The father had asked Justic of the Peace Ralph Kelsey to issue warrants charging third-degree assault against the shearers. Kelsey ruled Thursday night that, while there was evidence the hair was cut, there was not sufficient evidence to prove who cut it.

Over Haul Congress?

WASHINGTON AP - A resolution setting up a special committee to study possible overhaul of Congress was approved Thursday by the House.

Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., named six representatives who will serve with six senators on the committee. They include Reps. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., and Durwood G. Hall, R-Mo.

Senate members will be named later.

Proof Piling Up On Safety Aspects Of Interstate Highways

Latest data is the 1964 Missouri Interstate System Accident Study recently published by the Division of Highway Planning of the Missouri State Highway Department. The annual study compares Interstate accidents to accidents on facilities existing before the Interstate was built.

And it shows that, while Missouri Interstate highways carry 148.6 percent as much travel as previously existing facilities, they have only 26 percent as many accidents, 30 percent as many injuries and 32 percent as many deaths per 100 million vehicle miles of travel.

The study turned up some other interesting aspects to Interstate highway mishaps. For instance, these new superhighways have virtually eliminated head-on and angle collisions. But, while there are fewer accidents on the Interstate system, 90 percent of those which do occur are in the top two groups of porperty damage.

The 1964 Department study covered 51 sections of highways in sixteen counties--Platte, Buchanan, Lafayette, Cooper, Howard, Boone, Callaway, St. Louis, Franklin, Newton, Jasper, Lawrence, Greene, Scott, Mississippi and Cape Girardeau.

These are listed with Interstate first and Existing Hwy. before Interstate second:

Accidents 78.5, 301.8; Injuries 57.2, 187.9; Deaths 3.7, 11.6.

Property Damage

Less than $100 7.5, 50.4; $100 to $500 34.8, 149.9; More than $500 36.2, 101.5.

Types of Accidents:

Rear-end or sideswipe, same direction 30.0, 137.5; Head-on or sideswipe, opposite direction 1.9, 50.2; Angle collision 1.9, 31.7; Collision with pedestrian 0.3, 3.5; Other collision 28.0, 45.6; Non-collision 16.4, 33.3.
